Canby Pastor Meets with Finance Group of Christian Manor

Rev. A. F. Wiuff of Canby, Minn., met with members of the finance committee of the Christian Manor fund-raising campaign at the Rex cafe Tuesday evening. Rev. Wiuff has had considerable experience both in the promotion and administration of homes for the aged and his informative talk was followed by an interesting discussion of the various local problems.

"I know that we will have a home and that it will be started next year" were the opening remarks of L. B. Hartz as presiding officer. He explained that it probably would be possible to proceed with the building program at such a time as one-third of the cost had been assured through contributions. He was hopeful that this objective would soon be achieved.

Rev. Wiuff confirmed the statement that financing is available on a long-term basis and that, with one-third of the cost assured at the local level, a well managed home should pay its way. He favored a one-story building because of lower construction costs and recommended a building of not less than 100 units, which would accomodate about 125 guests, for the most economical operation.

In response to a question as to whether a building of this kind could be built on the site that has been considered, officers explained that while options were held on a proposed location on LaBree and Fifth, no decision had been made as yet on the question of location.

Centralized Buying System Being Set up in City Clerk Office

Getting out the city payroll will take five hours now rather than a day and one-half with the addition of a new accounting machine in the city clerk's office.

The machine, a 19-column Burroughs, was purchased by the city council last month and went into service Wednesday when the proper forms were air-expressed from Minneapolis. Cost of the machine was $7,070.

Payroll accounting will be modernized with the machine accounting, according to P. G. Pederson, city clerk. Labor of city employees on projects will be charged directly to the individual jobs rather than to general operating costs and, with few exceptions, all entries will be by machine.

Pay checks will all be written on the new machine which will make the deductions, post the individual payroll accounts and make a permanent record for each individual at the same time. The only handwritten entries will be the vacation and sick leave notations which will be made on the reverse side of the account sheets.

Purchasing for all departments will be centralized through the city clerk's office, Pederson said. Rather than all department heads making purchases for their departments, they will make out requisitions which completes their paper work.

Under the new purchasing system, all buying will be done by requisition and purchase orders only. Vendors will need to have an approved purchase order to be paid by the city.

Payments by the city will also be simplified through the new system. A single check will be made out to each vendor at the end of the purchase period and

Soo and 2 Other Rail Lines Making Study of Merger Prospects

Three Minneapolis-based railroad companies will conduct a merger study, it was announced Tuesday in Minneapolis.

Directors of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad (the Soo Line), the Wisconsin Central railroad and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad approved "a joint-study of the economies, efficiences and advantages that may be secured by a merger or consolidation."

The three roads are affiliates of the Canadian Pacific railway.

The Canadian firm owns about 51 per cent of the common stock of the Soo Line, and the Canadian Pacific and Soo Line together own about 55 per cent of the stock of the Wisconsin Central. The Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Canadian Pacific.

The Wisconsin Central is already operated by the Soo Line as part of the Soo's system. The Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic is operated independently, but some office functions, such as accounting, are co-ordinated with those of the Soo Line.

The Soo Line-Wisconsin Central system involves about 4,100 miles of track, principally in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. The Soo Line has about 7,900 employees.

The Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, with about 1,000 employees, operates 550 miles of track between Duluth, Minn., and Sault St. Marie and St. Ignace, Mich.

Soo Line revenues in 1958 were about 43 million dollars; Wisconsin Central, about 32 million, and Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic about 7½ million.

Governor Asks for New Taxes in Budget Talk

Provides for $82 Million New Revenue for Next Two Years

A financing program for the next two years that calls for increases in taxes on individual and corporate incomes, cigaret and other tobacco products, liquor, iron ore, and gifts and inheritances, was recommended to the legislature Wednesday by Gov. Freeman.

Appearing personally before a joint session of the senate and house, the governor also presented a program for tax reform, including income tax withholding.

Freeman presented a balanced budget calling for general revenue fund expenditures, totaling $234,627,000 and income tax fund expenditures of $226,066,000. This total budget of more than 460 million dollars—the highest in the history of Minnesota, the lawmakers were told, is an "absolute minimum to meet human needs and our programs for progress."

Under the governor's program 82 million dollars in new revenue is needed for the two-year period.

Describing his program as "balanced and equitable", Freeman said it will "not bear unduly hard on any one group of our citizens or any one type of economic activity."

The governor's proposal for income tax withholding provides for "forgiving" 50 per cent of the one time gain that will result from shifting to the pay-as-you-go method of collection.

The gain from withholding was estimated by the governor at 36 million dollars, of which 18 million dollars would be used for eight non-recurring items, among them junior college construction. The other 18 million dollars [illegible] ligations would be canceled.

Freeman, in submitting his fiscal program, firmly opposed adoption of a general sales tax. The governor compared the impact of his proposed income tax

School Finances Proposed as Topic at PTA Meetings

Recommendation Is Made at PTA Council Session Held Monday Afternoon

The Thief River Falls PTA Council met Monday, Jan. 12, at the Rex cafe, with Mrs. Robert Bredeson, president, in charge.

It was suggested that Knox school PTA have this panel at its meeting in February, Northrop in March and Washington in April.

The PTA Council and the school administrators also went on record as opposing emphatically any hockey playing on the three grade school skating rinks. These rinks are to be used just for free skating it was agreed. Parents and students are urged to cooperate with school officers in enforcing this rule.

Betty Armstrong Becomes Bride of Gary Johnson, Jan. 3

Baskets of Better Time roses and white carnations and spiral candelabra graced the altar at Zion Lutheran church in this city Saturday, Jan. 3, as Miss Betty Armstrong, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong of Big Delta, Alaska, became the bride of Gary Arlen Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson of this city.

The double ring ceremony took place at 8 p.m. and was officiated by Dr. Walter M. Pederson. Mrs. Harriet Lockrem of Thief River Falls assisted at the organ while Miss Arlene Smith of Minneapolis, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer," "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle and godfather, Lee Armstrong, Red Lake Falls, was attired in a floor length gown, a Fink original, of bridal satin accented with imported hand-clipped Chantilly lace. The fitted lace and satin bodice featured a mandarin neckline and long sleeves, that came to a point at the hand. The bouffant skirt was accented by inserts of lace extending to the floor and into a chapel train in the back. Her fingertip veil fell from a crown of sequins and pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses and carnations. Her pearl earrings were a gift of the groom.

Mrs. William Mathieu of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple, was matron of honor, and Mrs. Bonnie Manning of Thief River Falls, Miss Carolyn Bruggeman, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Kent Knutson of St. Paul, all friends of the bride, served as bridesmaids. They wore identical floor length gowns of sky blue "Stardream" faille taffeta styled with a narrowly-sashed fitted bodice accented by a draped cowl neckline caught with self-piping at the bodice top. Their small pillbox hats were of the same material touched by a matching net. Each carried bouquets of roses and white carnations made up in the facsimile of a wedding ring. Their single strand pearl necklaces and pearl earrings were a gift of the bride.

Little Cindy Langlie of Thief River Falls, served as flower girl wearing a gown identical to that of the other attendants and carrying a crocheted basket of roses and carnations. Ross Cola, second cousin of the bride of Red Lake Falls, dressed in a blue dinner jacket with black trousers, carried the rings on a heart-shaped pillow of white satin and lace.

Attending the groom as best man was Dale Swenson of Thief River Falls, a friend, while Audley Johnson of Thief River Falls, his brother, Harry Armstrong of Donaldson Air Force Base, South Carolina, brother of the bride, and Kent Knutson of St. Paul, another friend, were groomsmen. They wore blue dinner jackets with black trousers and black bow ties.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Armstrong chose a blue knit suit with blue accessories and the groom's mother wore a blue dress with blue accessories. Their corsages were of red roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for approximately 250 guests. The parlors were decorated in blue and white with a centerpiece of a wedding ring in blue and bouquets of red Better Time roses and white carnations used for the bridal table. The four-tiered wedding cake, decorated in a step illusion style, was topped with a miniature arch and bell over a bride and groom.

Those assisting at the reception were Mrs. Lee Armstrong, aunt and godmother of the bride, pouring, and Mrs. Henry Cola and Miss Ellen Armstrong, cousins of the bride, cutting the cake. Waitresses were Doreen Hauge and Pat Campbell at the bridal table assisted by Barbara Hauge, Mary Ann Lawson, Mrs. Chet Nessen, Gail Forsberg and Delys Kelberg, all friends of the bride. Lorie Weckworth, Alyce Lawson, Vonnie Lull, Mrs. Charles Reese and Mrs. Robert Hoard, all friends of the bride were at the gift table with Miss Jean McWilliams at the gift book and Mrs. Dennis Morrison at the guest book.

3-county Sugar Beet Assn. Meets to Plan 1959 Meeting March 4

Directors of the Tri-county Sugar Beet Development association met at the court house in Thief River Falls Tuesday to arrange for the annual meeting and to further investigate the possibility of a sugar processing plant located in the area.

During the meeting, Harry Oen, president of the board, stated that congress will consider new or revised legislation for sugar beet production. He reported that the Western Sugar Beet Growers and Minnesota-Dakota Sugar Beet Growers ass'n. will send delegations to Washington when the legislation is considered. The directors then nominated Ben Wichterman and Harry Oen to represent the Tri-county Association at the Washington hearings. One of these men will attend the hearings.

J. M. Roche, secretary of the Tri-County association, reported a good response to the questionnaire which was mailed to farmers. Information acquired will be used to indicate the heavy demand for sugar beet production in the area.

Farmers are requested to list their names at the ASC office in their respective counties requesting sugar beet allotments. The deadline for such requests is Friday, Jan. 23.

The annual meeting of the sugar beet development association is set for Wednesday, March 4. An interesting program is being arranged and all members and farmers interested in sugar beet development in the area are asked to watch their newspapers for further details on the meeting.

The directors increased the nominating committee to four members instead of three to give representation to the Clearwater and East Polk county area. Wallace Evje was named to serve with John Erie as alternate. Since the term of Delmar Hagen from east Marshall had expired, Otto Rupprecht was named to serve on the committee with Clifford Jorde as alternate. The committee will meet at least 15 days prior to the annual meeting to nominate four candidates to serve as directors. Nominations may also be made from the floor at the annual meeting.

Pictures of the Alaskan arctic were shown at the Rotary club Monday noon by Cliff Cooper of Goodridge. Mr. Cooper has spent much time in the northern area as an employee in the construction of the Dew Line, the northernmost radar plane intercepter service extending from Alaska to Baffin Island, and the colored pictures were of his own taking as an amateur photographer. The pictures and his explanation of conditions in that remote area made an interesting program.

Christian Manor Campaign Making Progress in Area

L. B. Hartz, Campaign Chairman, Says Pledges Are Coming in Each Day

The building of Christian Manor, projected home for the aging, is a vital community need which deserves and is getting the moral and financial support of businessmen and residents in Thief River Falls and throughout the area, L. B. Hartz, chairman of the fund campaign, stated this week.

Progress in the drive has been retarded largely because of the relatively small force of volunteer workers. Nevertheless, the campaign is well on its way and new gifts and pledges are coming in daily. The rural drive, under the direction of Art Bartleson gives promise of substantial results.

Donors generally have approved the drive plan: a relatively small gift from everyone. This idea has also been well accepted in Thief River Falls, where the plan is being helped by the willingness of employers to handle small payroll deductions each month, thus making it easy for each employee to do his bit. This phase of the work is continuing as rapidly as workers can get to the various places of employment.

His comparison showed that the one per cent sales tax levied on all major expenditures, except housing, would place a relatively heavier burden on low income families and on large families.

The governor said his proposals followed the recommendations of the Minnesota Tax Study Committee.

He recommended a one percentage point increase in each income bracket on all taxable income above $50, and reenactment of the present 10 per cent surtax.

AMERICANA   Cities To See

Wilmington—Industrial Center

Wilmington, Del.

In the year 1638, a group of Indians stood on the banks of a river in the New World, curiously watching a high-pooped ship nose its way shoreward. Occupants of the ship were Swedes, under the leadership of Peter Minuit and they had come to find a colony in the New World so that Sweden might pursue her ambitious campaign to become a world power.

Through the ordeals of colonization, of a thrice changing ownership, and through changing economic conditions, the history of the site chosen by the Swedes indicates they selected wisely. The Swedes named the new settlement Christianaham. In 1655, Peter Stuyvesant, Governor of New Amsterdam, came from the north with a large fleet and in an almost bloodless battle annexed Christianaham for Holland's growing empire. The English took possession in 1664. In 1731, Thomas Willing surveyed a piece of land, laid out streets and called his development Willington, later changed to Wilmington, after Spencer Compton, Earl of Wilmington in England.

Wilmington, Delaware was incorporated in 1832 and at that time had a population of 7,128. Today it has a population of 110,356 within the corporate limits and within the immediate suburban area an additional 120,000 persons.

Practically from the time of its founding, Wilmington has been an industrial center and today is known as "The Chemical Capital of the World." It is the world's center of vulcanized fibre manufacture and manufacture of glazed kid and morocco leathers. Here also is the largest plant in the world devoted to the manufacture of braided rubber hose. The largest single cotton dyeing and finishing works is also located here.

The Port of Wilmington, situated at the head of the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula, reaps much benefit from this rich agricultural district.

Wilmington is a wholesale center serving southern New Jersey, southeastern Pennsylvania, the State of Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland and Virginia.

Newfolden Quint Wins 8th in Row

Undefeated Nordics Tip Karlstad Rabbits 64-48

The Newfolden Nordics trapped the Karlstad Rabbits, 64 to 48, to rack up their eighth victory without a defeat at Karlstad, Saturday, January 10. The Newfolden "B" squad made it a perfect evening by winning their eighth straight, 36 to 27 to keep their record clean.

Don Engelsrud was high point man for the evening with 23 points while other Nordics in double figures were Dahl with 14 and Dennis Bakke with 12. Peterson and Ronnander were the big guns for Karlstad getting 22 and 19 points respectively.

Newfolden started strong with Engelsrud and Dahl leading the way as they got off to a 16 to 8 first period lead. Engelsrud made 10 of the Nordics 18 points in the second quarter to give Newfolden a 34 to 21 lead at midpoint. The third period found each team scoring their heaviest as the Nordics picked up 20 points to the Rabbits 15 for a 54 to 36 lead at the third period stop.

Coach John Junker used nine men in the game to give his bench valuable experience. The Nordics travel to Williams on Friday, January 23, and Baudette on Saturday, January 24. These are both conference games and will tell much about the standings for the season.

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Editor:

A subject which will be on a great many lips in Thief River Falls and vicinity in the next few months is the proposed new shop building at the city's municipal airport, and on which bids will be opened Jan. 30. Readers should please note that this writer says "shop," for that is the primary use of the proposed building.

The project has a great many proponents and exponents and no doubt some bitter arguments may take place before the issue is laid to rest. However, before anyone forms any opinions it might be well to look at the facts surrounding the proposition of a new shop building.

Fact No. 1 is that a city without airport facilities has no air traffic because business people with airplanes just seem to take their business to cities where there are facilities. Fact No. 2 is that the better the facilities the more traffic comes in. Fact. No. 3 is that our municipal airport has been in desperate need of greatly expanded shop facilities for some years past.

As a result, a great many airplane owners in our area either had to take their craft elsewhere or wait their turn to get maintenance and repair service. In some instances this could mean months of waiting.

Fact No. 4 is that, eventually, small shops such as is presently in operation at our airport will not be qualified to do major repair and maintenance work; gradually the federal aviation authorities will require far greater outlay in equipment and know-how than is the case at present.

The stiffening requirements will decrease the number of small shops, yet create a greater-than-ever demand for mechanics.

Fortunately for Thief River Falls, a situation has arisen which will not only make it possible for this city to retain maintenance and repair facilities here but to greatly expand them, and at the same time increase air traffic to this city manifold, without further burdening taxpayers.

Briefly and simply, here's how the proposal will work; the city builds the shop and the Area Vocational School leases training facilities from the city to train aircraft and engine mechanics. Graduates of the one-year training program would then be qualified to work on aircraft in any shop in the U.S. Stiffer aircraft maintenance requirements in years ahead by the federal aviation authorities would also insure greater opportunity for A & E mechanics who graduate from the school. The nearest schools offering such a program are at Janesville, Wis., and Omaha, Nebr.

As mentioned before, however, the building is primarily a shop; specifically it would qualify as what is known as a CAA Class I and III repair station. It could perform complete maintenance and repairs on aircraft up to 18,000 lb. gross weight.

This may be all so much Greek to local residents. However, in order to realize how rigid the CAA is in granting licenses to such shops it might be well to state that there are only TWO such shops in Minnesota, ONE in South Dakota, NONE in North Dakota.

It [illegible] to the business and agricult[illegible] airplane owner such a shop [illegible] is proposed at our airport [illegible]uld cater. Not only do these [illegible]tegories need adequate repair [illegible]ilities, but, at present, the de[illegible]nd for facilities and mechan[illegible] exceed the supply.

The pr[illegible]sed improvement at our airpo[illegible] does not in any way enter into [illegible]mpetition with any category of [illegible]mon carriers. The businessm[illegible]ver uses the airplane beca[illegible] the common carriers' sched[illegible] does not always coincide wit[illegible] particular need. The agricult[illegible] pilot, of course, must have a [illegible] base of operations in order [illegible] provide his service when it is [illegible]eded most urgently.

In short, to ha[illegible] the proposed facilities at our [illegible]port will be quite a feather in [illegible]r collective caps. To put the fr[illegible]ting on the cake, however, is the fact that it need not cause addi[illegible] burden to local taxpayers; rental paid to the city will liquidate the original cost, while tuition from out-of-state students (numerous inquiries have already been received) plus state and other grants would enable the vocational school to operate the additional course on the black side of the ledger.

In view of all these favorable factors there can be no valid objections to the proposed shop and addition to the school curriculum. Unless the present plan is adopted, whereby the school lease liquidates a major part of the costs (a part of the facilities will be paid for by the private shop operator) the burden will be passed on to the taxpayers directly—and when that day comes the need for a shop will be so great the issue can no longer be side-tracked.

When one begins to add to the above advantages those to business in the city, the increased number of persons employed, PLUS the fact we're further justifying our investment in our airport, to oppose the present opportunity would almost seem prejudicial and completely unwarranted.

V. M. Draper, Chmn.
Airport Commission.

Congressman Langen Sworn into Office

Congressman Odin Langen, (Circled, Inset), representative from Minnesota's Ninth district, is pictured being sworn in as a member of the United States of Representatives Wednesday, January 7. The ceremonies, marking the beginning of the Eighty-Sixth Congress, were held in the House Chambers of the nation's capitol.

School Board Assn. Endorses Plan for Junior Colleges

Resolution Is Adopted at State Convention Wednesday in St. Paul

The Minnesota School Board association meeting in the St. Paul auditorium Wednesday morning approved a resolution calling for the expansion of the junior college system.

This makes the third statewide organization which has approved the establishment of new junior colleges throughout the state including one proposed for this area to be located in Thief River Falls. The Minnesota Association of County Commissioners and the Farmers Union had previously approved the proposition.

The resolution adopted by the MSBA Wednesday called for state participation of 75 percent of the new junior college facilities and junior college control to continue being shared by the state education department and local districts.

Dr. Milton D. Starekow, president of the Thief River Falls board of education, was a member of the committee which approved the resolution presented Wednesday. During the Sunday night meeting, a proposal by representatives from Morris and Crookston asked for approval of a university extension in their area but that was rejected by the committee.

Crop Insurance Losses Down in '58

Federal Agency Again Is Insuring Crops in 1959

For the second successive year, substantial crop loss payments have been made to Minnesota farmers, an agriculture official said today.

Ralph G. Childs, state director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., announced in St. Paul that 1958 crop insurance claims paid in the state will probably exceed $650,000. Heavy losses were paid for corn and soybean damage in west central and southeastern sections while sizable flax claims were paid in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington and Roseau counties. Substantial wheat losses were recorded in the western half of Ottertail county as well.

In 1958, Childs stated, drought in early summer reduced the potential of the wheat and flax crops in the valley area whereas plant disease and excessive moisture were the chief causes of loss the previous year. In 1957 more than $1,000,000 was paid to Minnesota policyholders with over one-half million of this going to the 12 northwest counties.

Federal crop insurance is designed to protect the overall investment a farmer puts into his crops. Coverage is available on flax, in Minnesota. Wheat and flax are the principal crops insured in Nothwestern Minnesota.

The program is administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and has been in operation for 20 years.

Childs said maximum participation quotas have been established for all Minnesota counties for 1959. New policies may be written for a limited period of time only. Wayne Nelson is local agent. His office is located at ASC headquarters in the court house.

Thief River Falls Is Area Center for Long Distance Telephones

The growth of northwest Minnesota and the Thief River Falls area was recently pointed up with the assignment of Al K. Bacon, local manager of the Bell Telephone office, to the position of wire chief and the addition of G. A. Hale of St. Paul as manager.

The reassignment of responsibility was made necessary with the installation of the dial telephone system and the recognition that the maintenance and installation efforts of the area needed to be expanded.

According to Bacon, Thief River Falls is responsible for the maintenance of long distance circuits from this point to 24 communities in the area. They are; Badger, Baudette, Birchdale, Crookston, Dominion City, Goodridge, Greenbush, Grygla, Holt, Karlstad, Malung, Middle River, Newfolden, Oklee, Plummer, Rainy River, Roosevelt, Roseau, St. Hilaire, Strandquist, Strathcona, Viking, Warroad and Williams.

In case of circuit trouble in this area, the toll test board in Thief River Falls is called and the trouble is checked. If the "outage" is outside the local maintenance area, the office in the trouble area is notified that maintenance is necessary.

To provide faster service and shorter "outages," maintenance men are located in towns thruout the area. Lines from Red Lake Falls to Crookston are serviced by Crookston personnel; Thief River Falls maintenance men cover the area from Red Lake Falls to Greenbush. Roseau personnel take care of lines between Greenbush to Salo and Warroad maintenance men cover the area from Salo to Baudette.

Until the addition of Bacon as a full-time wire chief and plant operations manager, the Thief River Falls office was often not notified when there was trouble in circuits which did not terminate here. This often caused delay and inconvenience which will now be averted.

Newfolden Lions Club Collecting Glasses for CARE

The Newfolden Lions club announces a "Glasses for CARE" program will be carried out in that community by the service organization. John P. Halvorson, chairman of the sight-saving committee, state that the organization had decided to join in a program of collecting glasses for the CARE program which would be used to help the sight of the people of Pakistan and India.

If people will bring their old discarded spectacles to Stan's Grocery, L. B. Hartz store, or the Newfolden Mercantile, they will be collected by the Newfolden Lions club and turned over the the CARE organization, which tests them to find out the prescription of the lens and tags them.

Then they are sent overseas to the CARE organization in India and Pakistan where people who are tested and can't afford glasses are fitted with the correct prescription from the discarded glasses.

Washington PTA to Meet Monday

Dr. Jacobson Will Speak on Junior College Plan

At the Washington PTA meeting Monday, Jan. 19, at 8 p.m. in the school gym, Dr. A. K. Jacobson will speak on the interesting topic of the possibility of establishing a junior college in this city.

A discussion will follow Dr. Jacobson's talk, and it is possible a petition may be introduced to determine public support of the project.

There will also be entertainment in the form of musical numbers, being arranged by Herbert Swenson of rural Thief River Falls.

Lunch and a social hour will follow the program.

In the 31 states producing oil or gas or both, about 400 million acres of land are under lease by thousands of companies, large and small. Five per cent, or about 20 million acres of this land, is currently producing oil or gas.

Subzero Weather Moves into Area

Mercury Drops to —12 in City Early Today

A cold air mass from Canada pushed into northwestern Minnesota Wednesday morning and the warm period which favored the area over the weekend was brought to an abrupt halt.

Although no Wednesday temperatures were recorded by the KTRF weather bureau, there was no doubt in the minds of area residents that the weather turned cold as a -12 was recorded during the night accompanied by a northwest wind.

Partly cloudy skies are predicted for the area today with new snow flurries and fair and colder is expected tonight. Tomorrow, the partly cloudy and cold weather is expected to continue.

Northwest winds from 20 to 35 miles an hour today are expected to diminish tonight when lows of 10 to 20 below are predicted.

The high temperatures expected today is from five degrees below zero to five degrees above the zero mark.

ideas from other editors

From The Mason County News, Ravenswood, W. Va.: From time to time an editor will hear very strong comment on an editorial he has published in his paper. Sometimes the person agrees with his comments and sometimes violently disagrees. It is with a feeling of humility that this editor hears remarks, for he is always surprised that so many people take the time and trouble to read the ideas he has set forth. Another factor is the realization of how much power for good or evil a newsman can wield.

This brings up the question as to what an editorial is and what it represents. First of all, an editorial is the personal opinion of the editor. This was demonstrated forcibly a few weeks ago when the business manager of the NEWS told the editor that he disagreed with a particular statement that had appeared in the editorial for that week. Even the workers in the newspaper office do not always agree with their editor's opinion.

Throughout the newspaper appear articles dealing with the news as it happens. A good newspaper will report these news stories as pure and unadulterated fact. For the editors of good newspapers there is but one place in which they can comment on a news event that deserves comment—the editorial page.

The editor reads the various news stories that cross his desk each day, and among them he sees something that in his belief needs some clarification or comment. This is the editor's prerogative. If it were not for the editorials few people would realize that there is a man behind the news who is guiding and directing in its makeup and diffusion. When this particular story is spotted on which the editor desires to comment, the facts of the case are looked into more deeply than for the normal run of the mill items. The editor gathers additional information from both sides of the question so that he may be better informed on his subject. Then he sits down and writes.

Sometimes this editorial may praise a person or an organization for his or its good work. Sometimes that same individual or group may be exposed as having done something that is not right in the editor's sight, but whatever comes forth, we can be thankful is coming, not because of being bought or forced by a group or an individual, but is coming forth from a free mind in a land where we can still feel free to express our personal opinions without being deported or deposed. Here's that something to be thankful for.

There sometimes wants only a stroke of fortune to discover numberless latent good or bad qualities, which would otherwise have been eternally concealed; as words written with a certain liquor appear only when applied to the fire. —Greville.

The word "atom" comes from the Greek atmos, meaning "not cut" or indivisible. Atomic theory was expounded as early as 400 B.C. by the Greek philosopher Democritus.

The average time an otter can stay submerged is around four minutes.

Prowler Six Nips Hallock Team 6-2

Fans were treated to an ordinary brand of hockey at the Arena rink on Tuesday night as coach Johnny Matchetts' Prowlers defeated coach Ken McFadden's Hallock Bears, 6 to 2, in a regional conference game. The win, the third in league play for the locals, boosted the Prowler point total to six in the conference standings.

On Saturday night the Prowlers will make the sixty-five mile trip to Roseau for an important game against coach Oscar Almquist's defending regional and state champion Roseau Rams. The teams have been installed as the region's one and two hockey teams.

Eddie Holmes' unassisted goal at the 1:10 mark of the first period gave the Prowlers an early lead, and the locals never looked backwards as they proceeded to control the play throughout the game. Holmes' goal was a sharply-angled shot that was deflected by a Hallock defenseman past the Bears' goalie, Harold Soberoski, and into the north cage.

The Prowlers tallied three goals in the second period to move into a 4 to 1 lead. Two of the Prowler goals were "picture" plays, with Dale Wennberg carrying the puck into the Hallock defensive zone, flipping a pass to right wing Jerry Jorgenson, and Jerry beat the Hallock netminder with hard drives that found the "long" corner. Hallock's McFarlane, on a "screened" shot, tallied for the Bears when he beat the Prowlers' diminutive Wayne Halvorson at the 11:57.

In the third period, Arlan Hjelle scored a pair of goals to give the locals a 6 to 1 lead; and in the final minute of play, Hallock's John Curtis scored from a melee in front of the net, closing the game's scoring.

This week's schedule:

The Grand Forks Jets, although absorbing a loss in the one game that they played during the week, dropping a 7 to 5 decision to the Roseau Cloverleafs, continue to hold a one-point edge in the league standings.

The defending champion Thief River Falls Thieves, beaten by an 8 to 3 score by the Crookston Pirates in a game played at Crookston, share second place in the league standings with Bud Salem's promising Crookston club. Roseau's win over Grand Forks moved the Leafs into a contending position, with the green-shirts being only one point out of a tie for runner-up honors.

This week's slate will find Roseau at Grand Forks for a Saturday night game, and on Sunday's schedule Grand Forks will be at Thief River Falls and the Fargo Flyers will play at Crookston.

Singles Classic

Al Holzknecht of the Northern Chevrolet is the sponsor and promoter and the provider of the fifty dollars in prize money for the winners of the singles bowling tournament now in progress on the Family Bowl lanes.

Eleven of the city's high average bowlers were selected —Am Wysoski, Lloyd Samuelson, Jesse DuChamp, Del Harbott, Phil LeGault, Marv Washnesky, Pat Poole, Leif Erickson, John Langseth, Wally DuChamp and Gene Leslie—and pairings were made by lot.

In the first match (the matches will be held every Sunday afternoon, at 2:00 P. M., until March 15th, when the final match will be held) was held on Sunday, with Am Wysoski bowling against Lloyd Samuelson.

Samuelson, a very steady and calm competitor, defeated Wysoski in the three-game total-pins match, 202-203-170 and an aggregate 575 pins. Wysoski rolled games of 188-188-160 for a total of 539 pins. As a result of his 36-pin win, Samuelson won five dollars and the right to meet Jesse DuChamp at 2:00 P.M. on Sunday afternoon.

Samuelson, in order to win the fifty dollars, will have to move down the ladder, defeating DuChamp, Harbott, LeGault, Washnesky, etc., adding five dollars to his prize total with each victory. He has a tough opponent in Jesse DuChamp, with the odds slightly in favor of the Plummer kegler.

Prowlers Have a Chance

The basketball Prowlers have a chance to score a win over coach Bun Fortier's Bemidji Lumberjacks in a game to be played here on Friday night; and coach Johnny Matchetts' hockey Prowlers have an outside chance to upset the Roseau Rams in a hockey game to be played at Roseau on Saturday night.

The brightest hope for Prowler victory, though, rests with the cagers as they meet the Lumberjacks. Not since the 1951-52 season, when the locals, coached by Bob Nick and co-captained by Dick Bjorkman and Roger Williamson and with such players as Stan Rosengren, Gary Anderson, Art Johnson, Chuck Dickson, Jerry Tygeson, Bruce Williamson, and Gary Smith on the squad, have the Prowlers defeated Bemidji in basketball. That season the blue-and-gold defeated the Jacks, 48 to 40 and 57 to 18.

Since that 1951-52 season, Bemidji has rolled up a skein of fourteen straight wins, including a pair of bitterly-contested regional finals games. In the regional finals of 1954, Bemidji defeated the Prowlers, 57 to 45; and in 1957, the Jacks barely edged out the locals, 49 to 46.

It appears that Bemidji and coach Fortier are playing this season's schedule in a cagy manner. On Friday night, in a game played at Park Rapids, Bemidji dropped a 60 to 49 decision in a district conference tilt. But on Saturday night, against the Moorhead Spuds, a team that is rated among the state's top ten, the Lumberjacks defeated the Spuds, 66 to 64.

The Prowlers, on Friday night, will have the benefit of Ronnie Hanson's return to the lineup. Ronnie, who has been sidelined by a throat ailment, will be available for part-time duty and the rangy sophomore may be called upon for full-time play. Bemidji will have adequate height, having Dave Suman and Lou McDowall to work the boards. It should be quite an evening.

Worthy of Mention

We must make note of the fact that the Soo Roundhouse bowling team — Ward Votava, Bob Kelly, Milt Mathieu, Joe Mead, and Sherm Johnson — won the odd game of their three-game series against the league-leading Grain Belt team in the Service league bowling on Monday night.

That was quite a team that the Roundhouse beat, for the Grain Belt had such boys as Pat Poole, Roy Storhaug, Irv Wilson, Dean Anderson, and Del Harbott in the lineup.

A Fine Young Prospect

That Al Brunelle's Family Bowl alleys will develop some fine young bowlers is indicated by the 227 score that was bowled by Jimmy Burke on Sunday. Jim, the 14-year old son of Art Burke, hit the maples for four spares and six strikes as he marked up his 227 total.

In the five games that he bowled against his dad, Jim gave up only one tie game. Jim had scores of 182-143-154-162-227, while Jim's dad had scores of 166-123-154-136-116.

Most Mishaps Occur in Homes or Driving, State Survey Shows

You are safer at work than you are at home, on the highway or in other public places, according to a 72-page 1957 statistical report recently released by the section of vital statistics, Minnesota department of health.

Only 120 on-the-job accidental deaths were recorded in Minnesota during the year. Home accidents killed 591 persons; motor vehicle accidents killed 726 and public non-motor vehicle mishaps such as drownings killed 315.

A total of 310, more than 50 per cent, of home accidental deaths involved persons age 65 or more. Ninety-six, or approximately 16 per cent, occurred among children under five years of age. Because of the high death rate due to chronic diseases among older persons, accidents were sixth among the ten leading causes of death of those over 65. Among persons in the age brackets between one and 34 years, however, they were the leading cause of death. Overall, only heart disease, cancer and strokes took a heavier toll of lives in the state than accidents did during 1957.

Considerably more than 75 per cent of 328 home accidental deaths caused by falls involved persons over 65. Among this group, as well as among children under five, motor vehicle mishaps caused only a small portion of the fatalities. Auto accidents were the greatest killers proportionally among persons ranging in age from 15-34.

A large per cent of the accidental deaths due to falls at home or in public places resulted from falls on the same floor level. A total of 125 deaths were caused by falls of this type in the home; 17 in public places. Another 71 home fatalities were caused by falls on stairs.

During the year, accidental deaths involving farm families totaled 143. Although 45 of these, approximately 32 per cent, were caused by operation of farm machines, more than 50 percent resulted from mishaps in the farm home and its vicinity.

A considerable number of accidental deaths involved fires, burns and explosions (84); drowning (79); water transportation (53); poisonings, including gas poisonings (43); firearms (37); air transportation (24); railroad transportation (24).

The 1957 accident mortality rate of 53.5 per 100,000 population is, however, lower than the estimated 1957 national rate of 57.2 and one of the lowest in the history of Minnesota records. Between 1910, the first year for which complete records are available, and 1957, annual accident death rates ranged from 105.5 in 1936 to 50.6 in 1955. The record peak in 1936 was due largely to 700 deaths caused by excessive heat during a prolonged and record-breaking summer heat wave.

State Parks to Get New Picnic Tables

To Make 1,000 Tables from Salvaged Timber

At least 1,000 picnic and camping tables and 40 portable pit toilets will be built by works project crews using lumber obtained from trees blown down in the McCarthy Beach tornado last July it was revealed today in a report issued by John Martin, assistant director of the parks division.

Conservation works project crews salvaged 329,000 board feet of good lumber this summer at McCarthy Beach state park and it is estimated that 122,000 board feet of the lumber will be utilized in constructing the tables and toilets and the balance will be used for bridges, water towers and other structures in the works project program.

A works project crew consisting of 17 men are busy at the conservation forestry station in Grand Rapids constructing 500 picnic and camping tables and about 20 toilets. Within in the next two weeks, Martin said, a building at the fair grounds at Hibbing will be utilized to house construction of 500 tables and 20 toilets. The tables and toilets will be used to equip 510 new campsites which are expected to be in operation in 1959 in several northern parks, Martin reported.

Community Youth Center No Cure-all

'U' M. Man Says Parents Have Main Responsibility

Community youth centers are not a cure-all in meeting young people's social and recreational needs, a University of Minnesota family life specialist declared Tuesday in St. Paul.

Speaking at the opening session of the homemakers' program during the University's Farm and Home Week, Charles Martin said, "The major responsibility for preparing children for a normal, happy life still falls on the parents. In recent years, however, parents have tended to give up some of the family functions of teaching, training and recreation to churches, schools and other community organizations. Parents need to keep in mind that these are still their basic responsibilities, even though other agencies can give valuable assistance." Martin was a member of a panel discussing "Living with Today's Youth."

Marvin Taves, University rural sociologist, pointed out that research by University rural sociologists among 1,600 children from farms, small towns and small cities in Minnesota disproves the old-established idea that the farm is the best environment for developing healthy personalities and strong, happy families. Quality of relationships within the home was the most important factor.

Editorials . . .

We praise the man who "has the courage of his convictions," but every bigot and fanatic has that; what is much harder, and rarer, is to have the courage to re-examine one's convictions, and to reject them if they don't square with the facts. —Sydney J. Harris

We Like Mikoyan

We get the impression that this Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is quite a fellow and probably much sharper than his boss. There has been much speculation about the real purpose of his "vacation" here. It now seems quite clear that he is here to make a good impression — and a deal.

Mikoyan, by reputation, is a trader, and we may take for granted that he is a sharp trader. The fact that he has survived several revolutions in the control of the Kremlin is proof of his capacity — and his courage.

His visit could be interpreted as an indication that Khrushchev has concluded that the war of bluff and bluster is not getting good results and must end. There is some reason to believe that Khrushchev is concerned about the Chinese giant that is taking over in Asia. The united front of European powers—and they now are powers—against his demands for the withdrawal of the West from Berlin, must have had a sobering effect upon him.

All of these things add up to a rather encouraging outlook.

Mikoyan is not here as a wolf in sheep's clothing. He is here as a wolf and makes no pretense of being other than what he is. And we like him for it.

We recall the observation of an old westerner who told us, "A man ain't got no right to complain if he is bit by a rattlesnake, but if he should be poisoned by a wood dove he'd have a fair right to be put out."

Mikoyan is not masquerading among us as a wood dove.

Congress A Good Pattern

The St. Paul Pioneer Press sees some merit in the idea of one of the two legislative bodies being apportioned partly on the basis of area, providing it be the lower house that would be so apportioned. This version of reapportionment would make each county a legislative district and, except for some of the smaller counties, each of the 87 counties would have one member. But the House would continue to have 131 members and so the large centers of population would get the additional members. This would assure control of the House to the metropolitan area and the large cities of the state.

And the Senate, under this plan, would be reapportioned strictly on the basis of population, which would give the large cities a clean-cut and ever-increasing majority. We can understand the Pioneer Press point of view, championing the cause of those who want complete control of the legislature in the metropolitan area.

We can understand the Pioneer Press point of view, although we think it is a short-sighted approach to the problem. Minnesota would not be a good state if the legislature were controlled by the big-city voters. We are sure the Pioneer Press would agree that upper New York State should not give control of the New York legislature to the City of New York.

But we cannot understand the point of view of some of the members of the legislature representing predominantly rural districts going along with this big-city approach. They invite the suspicion that they are more concerned with their own personal interests than with the interests of their constituents.

Our national Congress established a reasonable pattern to follow. In one of the two houses all of the states are equal. Representation in the lower house is based on population. What's wrong with that?

Our Margin of Safety

Good people in Cuba are rejoicing because the tyranny of Sergeant Batista has ended. Present hero is Fidel Castro, the revolutionary leader.

Twenty-five years ago Batista was the hero. A popular leader at that time, he ended a period of oppression. For a time he was a great public benefactor. Gradually corrupted by the lust for power, he finally established himself as a dictator and became Cuba's worst oppressor.

Because there has been a successful revolution and a new government has been established does not mean that the political and economic problems of the Cubans have been solved. Castro may prove to be different but power does strange things to men. A little does not satisfy but whets the appetite for more.

Government of the people, by the people, for the people, is a noble objective but apparently in not many countries are the people capable of self-government. Successful self-government requires the kind of self-restraint that comes only with long experience. Right here in our own country our margin of safety in this respect is not very great.

A Curb on Racketeers

Speaker Sam Rayburn has placed high on the list of "must" legislation in the present session of Congress "a good, strong bill" to control labor racketeering. He indicated the measure would be somewhat similar to the Kennedy-Ives bill of last year which was passed by the Senate but killed in the House. At that time Mr. Rayburn was accused of hiding the bill for forty days and forty nights.

The Kennedy-Ives bill had strong support from labor itself and the fact that it was approved in the Senate by an almost unanimous vote is proof that it was not designed to curb proper union practices. Labor unions have become big and powerful and when they are controlled from the top down by racketeer elements they then are too big and too powerful.

Reapportionment

(Grand Rapids Herald-Review)

One of the hottest issues with which the next session of the Minnesota legislature must deal is the changing of boundaries of legislative districts.

Population of the state has shifted greatly toward the metropolitan areas and away from the rural areas. As a result some representatives and senators represent several times as many people as others.

Representatives from rural areas are reluctant to vote for reapportionment because they know that this will lose much of their influence over legislation. They feel that a compromise should be made under which the representatives should be apportioned according to population, but senators according to a combination of population and area.

Rural leaders are of a strong opinion that if both houses were reapportioned on population alone, the metropolitan area would have such a strong control of the legislature that the legislature would not give adequate consideration to problems concerning outlying parts of the state.

More than 30 states have at least one house of their legislature based on area as well as population. There is no good reason why Minnesota should not give some weight to area in at least the state senate.

Don't Invite Theft

(Cincinnati Enquirer)

Automobiles, for various reasons, are the form of property most favored by thieves in the United States. In round numbers, about 300,000 cars are stolen each year. And the total has been increasing. Most of this is altogether unnecessary.

The simplest way to reduce the number of automobile thefts is to make use of the ignition locks with which all cars are provided—and have been since about 1906. The car owner who leaves his car on a public street or in his own garage with the keys in the lock may not be an accessory to the crime of theft in the eyes of the law. He may not be guilty of contributory negligence in a technical sense.

But the fact remains that he is inviting a thief to drive off in his car. In many jurisdictions, including Cincinnati, this has been recognized by the law and it has been made a legal offense to leave a car unlocked on a public street.

If there was any doubt as to whether locking cars helps prevent thefts, Decatur, Ill., has supplied the proof. After a year of ticketing motorists who leave keys in their cars, Decatur police cut automobile thefts by 80 per cent.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Two candidates for mayor in a small town had waged a heated campaign that had taken on a bitter, personal tone. Even after the election, neither man would speak. On the New-Year's Eve following the election, both men were invited to the same party. Near midnight the host approached the losing candidate. "Sam," he pleaded, "for the sake of peace in our town, will you please make up with Norton? Just go over and wish him a happy New Year."

After an inward struggle, Sam reluctantly went up to the new mayor. "Norton," he said, "I wish you a happy New Year." Then, drawing a deep breath, he added, "But only one."

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor, The Times:

After reading your editorial in the Jan. 12th issue I decided to get my two cents worth in the paper, with your permission.

We had the dubious honor of being present at the special meeting of the city council. When the vote was taken to accept plans and specifications for the airplane mechanics training school building to be built by the city at the municipal airport and leased to the school district. It was evident that the vote and support of this project was prearranged.

The question by councilman A. J. Rau how this project is to be financed was not satisfactorily answered, only that this project would not cost the city anything. This is a fallacy, the city will carry the load of financing the building and all other costs such as repairs and light and power for many years before, if ever, the city would be re-imbursed; yes, it is true we do not get anything for nothing.

Another angle to this matter is that if this school project would not materialize as it is expected, the city would have a school building out in the country. Councilman E. B. Benson stated that the city would sell or lease a plot of ground at the airport that the school district could build the school house on. This was a good suggestion but it was not well received by the councilmen who are in favor of this project and the group that was present to work for the resolution, the call for bids.

Councilman Rau stated that any surplus money available should be used to build a new water tank, the present tank having served the city more than 50 years, but this suggestion fell on deaf ears. We have made mistakes before; we have in mind the two athletic fields with powerful lights for night games on both fields, yes, many thousands of dollars were wasted in this extravagant adventure.

Some of us may be living in the past, but one thing is certain and that is, people living in the ox cart and horse and buggy days learned to live within their means. It would be well if we lived within our means in our modern air travel age.

Respectfully yours,
C. E. Hellquist.

SHETLER'S TURKEY HATCHERY SWEEPS '58 MINNESOTA TURKEY RANDOM SAMPLE MEAT PRODUCTION TEST

Yes, SHETLER'S hardy northern grown Schneider strain Broad Breasted Bronze placed first in almost every important economic phase of the 1958 Minnesota turkey meat production test in competition with some of the leading breeders and strains of B. B. Bronze and Broad Whites in the U. S.

Here is how our Schneider entry placed in the test:

1. Tied for highest livability
2. Highest in total weight (both live and dressed)
3. Most pounds of meat per poult started
4. Highest fertility
5. Highest dressed grade on B.B.B. Hens

Our entry produced 3 pounds more meat per poult started than the average of all other bronze entries; and 7½ pounds more than the Broad White entries.

Why not be sure in '59? Why not buy poults with proven livability, proven performance and that are proven profit makers. That's your best guarantee for success.

We offer poults from both the Schneider and Schneider X Lyons strain crossed B.B.B. this year.

All poults will carry our usual 2 weeks livability guarantee. Our prices are reasonable.

Call, write or stop in and place your order today.

$200 OVER FEED COST PER COW

This is a good Goal to shoot at in 1959. It can be done, it is being done.

It means a production per cow of at least 400 pounds of butterfat, and 450 pounds is better, to attain that Goal of $200 per cow over feed cost.

BREEDING FOR PRODUCTION is necessary if this Goal is to be secured. A continuous pouring in of the factors for high production builds a dairy cow with much fewer leanings towards low production.

FEED AND CARE are also of utmost importance in securing this goal of 400 to 450 pounds of butterfat per cow per year. We can adjust feed and care on the basis of what we have available. We cannot quickly adjust the cow to this high production basis. We must build that production basis for several generations. Mere cow fresheners will not do the job. Breed to the best that is available. Attain that Goal of $200 over feed cost per cow.

Two Injured in Crash

Wednesday we were all saddened when we heard Robert Storeby and Florian Blayojewski had a plane crash southwest of town. They had been loooking for a timber wolf or fox in the vicinity. Both men have both legs broken, Robert's noe was also broken and they fear he may have back injuries. He still has more surgery to go through as soon as his condition warrants it. Two of Blayojewski's brothres found them shortly after it happened but had to work quite a while to get Robert out of the plane. They were hauled on a stone boat to the home of Joe Crochowski where an ambulance from Thief River Falls picked them up. Robert has been a spray pilot for 4 or 5 years and also taught flying, has a lot of love and admiration for his family so something must have happened to the plane which he had loaned as his own was in Thief River Fall being serviced. Florian farms but both men will be laid up for a long time and the animal is still on the prowl!

Here is an article we are proud to report and congratulate you, Don, on your success. February 9, 1959 he will enroll in Los Angeles State College; a different college, to work towards a Bachelors Degree of the same major.

Night Adult Classes Slated at Newfolden

The school board of School District No. 441, Newfolden, announces the possibility of three evening adult education courses in the Newfolden School beginning the first week in February, if there are enough adults in the Newfolden High School area who wish to take advantage of this training, Supt. John P. Halvorson announced.

Definitely set to start on Thursday, February 5, is a course in block printing or Easter Hats (Fabric) which will be taught by the home economics instructor, Mrs. Nealda Erickson. Registration fee for this class will be $2.00. Persons interested can take either one of the courses offered because Mrs. Erickson will teach them both simultaneously. This course will consist of 7 evening classes on Thursdays. The first one will be a 3 hour class and the next six will be 2½ hours long. The class will end on March 17, 1959. Please call or write the school office if you are interested in taking one of these classes or come to the first meeting on February 5, 1959 at 7:30 p.m.

If there is enough interest, G. Edwin Mounger, industrial arts instructor, will begin a class in woodworking, crafts, or cabinetmaking on Monday, February 2, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Registration for this course will be $5.00 to cover the costs of using power equipment and incidentals. Mr. Mounger plans a session of 10 classes which would meet on Monday evenings. This class will have to be limited in size to the facilities at hand so interested persons are to contact the school office by phone or letter before February 2nd to register for this course. Last year so many persons signed up for this course that it had to be split into two nights. Only enough persons will be admitted this year for one night a week classes. Those who sign up first will be given first consideration.

Curtis J. Tonneson, business education intructor, will conduct a class in typing beginning the first week in February if there are enough people signing up to warrant a course. This course would run for 12 classes of two hours duration. Registration for this course will also be $5.00. The class would have to be limited to 23 people because of the number of typewriters. Please contact the school office by phone or letter and register. If there is enough interest to warrant a class, announcement of the starting date and night to be held will be made later.

Owatonna Man Heads State GOP Officers

Ed Viehman swung into his new job as Republican State Chairman this week with the promise that "inside of three months we will have personally surveyed every county in the state with regard to its political organization and potential."

Meeting with new party leaders following his election Saturday, Viehman mapped out plans for giving the GOP the "salesmanship" which he interpreted as the mandate of his victory.

"Our formula for success will be blood, sweat and volunteers," said Viehman, an Owatonna sales executive.

County and district leaders from all over the state met in Minneapolis Saturday to elect the new GOP state leadership which will carry the party through the 1960 campaign.

Viehman won, 138 to 87, over Walter Fricke of St. Paul in a spirited race for the state chairmanship. Mrs. Evelyn Heberling of Winona, chairman of the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, was elected state chairwoman.

Other new officers are John Mooty, Minneapolis, first vice chairman; Mrs. Ester Putnam, Blue Earth, first vice chairwoman; L. C. "Andy" Anderson, Northfield, second vice chairman; Mrs. Marge Galbraith, Minneapolis, second vice chairwoman; Roger Noreen, Duluth, third vice chairman; Mrs. Lucille Blank, St. Paul, third vice chairwoman; Gordon Sanders, Minneapolis, treasurer; Mrs. Rosabelle Mohrenweiser, Mora, secretary.

Viehman, 37, well-known former Twin City radio announcer, will leave his job as sales promotion manager of Josten Mfg. Co. in Owatonna to devote full time to the GOP chairmanship.

He gained party recognition last February as campaign manager for Congressman Al Quie in his successful First District special election bid. Viehman also managed Quie's re-election campaign in November.

Viehman takes the chairmanship with a solid background of Republican volunteer activity, having served his party at precinct, ward, county and district levels.

Apart from politics, Viehman has held positions of leadership in the Chamber of Commerce, Community Chest, American Legion and the Christophers, and was a charter member of AFTRA the AFL-CIO entertainer's union.

The state central committee, at its Saturday meeting, also voted to call a special state convention within the next few months to consider changes in the party constitution which would broaden membership on the party operating council, and provide greater grass-roots continuity in party activity between elections.

Talent Contest at Winter Shows Set for February 24th

Young People of Area, Ages 12 to 21, Invited to Compete in Festival

Preliminary plans have been completed for an area-wide search for top talent among youth, from 12 to 21 years of age, to take place the afternoon and evening of February 24, the second day of the 1959 Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston. A talent festival is being jointly sponsored by the Crookston Jaycees and the board of managers for the Winter Shows.

The arrangements and conduct of the contest are in charge of a Jaycee committee headed by Tom Cochrane, Box 115, Crookston, Minnesota. Any small group of young people or any individual talent numbers in music, dance or dramatics, should communicate immediately with Mr. Cochrane by letter, if they would like to have an application blank. Ken Kennedy of WDAY's TV and radio stations, has been secured to conduct the elimination auditions on the afternoon of February 24 and to act as master of ceremonies at the two-hour show, commencing at 8:00 p.m. that same evening.

The board of managers of the Winter Shows will award a prize of $150 to the top talent; $75 to the second best, and $50 to the third. Each group or individual participating in the the evening festival will receive a cash award with the additional possibility of vying for one of the top three amateur talent awards.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Mark	2	1-12
Monday	John	4	31-42
Tuesday	John	4	43-54
Wednesday	John	5	1-16
Thursday	John	5	17-31

SKILLED FINGERS

As the skillful fingers of the surgeon work, prayers are on the lips of loved ones. Although there is faith in the knowledge and skill of the surgeon, all realize God's help is needed.

Eventually most men realize that skill and science are not enough. Even those of us who haven't been to church services for a long, long time find ourselves instinctively saying, "Please, God," when we face a crisis.

Why wait until then? God's providential help is needed by everyone—in time of crisis and in making the constant decisions of everyday life.

The doors of the Church are wide open. Won't you come in?

BRIGHT FACE OF DANGER

By H. Louis Raybold

CHRIS paused in the act of cutting an apple into eight even wedges. Did she hear what she thought she heard? The sound of Bill's diesel trailer pulling into the parking space in front of the Hilltop Drive-In?

She was ready for him when he came in, but not with a word of welcome. "I thought I told you, Bill Holman, to take your trade elsewhere. I thought I told you—"

"You did and I am. Hereafter I'm stopping at the Valley Snack Bar, run by a gorgeous little brunette. And you told me plenty more. How you wouldn't marry me unless I gave up trucking. How you had an uncle in San Diego who would get me a job in the Convair plant. How I thought more of the bright face of danger than I did of you. How—"

"Then why are you here?"

I'm here to ask you to favor me with one last ride. Over the Grapevine."

"You want to show me that it isn't really a dangerous route. Sorry, Bill, no dice."

She shrugged her shoulders. "All right," she yielded, "but what I've already said still goes. I'm not marrying any man to have him brought home smashed up from an accident."

"I'll call for you at nine-thirty next Wednesday. My day off."

Chris was ready when Bill arrived, not in the trailer truck, but in his own sports car.

An hour later, "Pretty scenic, isn't it?" asked Bill, as they topped a long grade to see spread below a lush valley green with irrigated crops.

"Very scenic. And what are all those piles of sand for on each side of the road ahead?"

"Well, you see the elevation is 7,542 feet. So when—"

"When it's rain everywhere else, it's ice up here."

"That's right, and the sand makes driving perfectly safe."

Suddenly, "What on earth does that sign mean?" demanded Chris. "ESCAPE RAMP. What is an Escape Ramp?"

Bill swallowed. "That's—that's another thing that makes the road so safe. Once in a long while a truck goes out of control with burned-out brakes, and all the driver has to do is run right up that ramp—and there you are!"

A moment later Bill stopped in front of a small, freshly painted building. VALLEY SNACK BAR. And Chris remembered. The "gorgeous little brunette."

And she truly was. Bill introduced them. "Rosa, this is Christine Bender. Chris, this is my very good friend, Rosa Gonzales."

Rosa's lovely brown eyes sparkled. "So glad to meet you! Must be girl weeth so kind uncle weel get our Bill so good job in airplane factory, only Bill, he like be trucker more."

Our Bill indeed! "Yes," said Chris, I'm that girl."

Rosa hovered over their table as they ate their enchiladas and melon. She and Bill carried on a lively conversation, seeming at all times to know more about Bill than Chris did herself.

Back in the little sports car, Chris was silent for a long time. Suddenly she slipped her arm through Bill's. "I've changed my mind about breaking our engagement. You've made me see there are other dangers than those of the road, dangers that would follow you wherever you were.

"You mean—girls?"

"I mean girls. You need someone to act as — well, a pile of sand and an escape ramp along that line, and I might as well take on the job."

"You may be right," said Bill thoughtfully. "You may very well be right."

He must remember on his next trip over the Grapevine to thank Rosa for her cooperation, also to ask her where she had hidden her husband Manuel and the twins.

One leading geologist figures that the world holds 1,500 billion barrels of petroleum recoverable by conventional primary methods. The United States' share is an estimated 240 billion barrels, including cumulative oil production.

Pressure Groups

The usual bad news that the county, state and federal governments are again raising or contemplating raising taxes poses an interesting question.

Just how high can taxes go before the tax burden begins to affect the whole structure of our nation? Just how high can taxes go before the difference between personal income and expenditures becomes so small that taxpayers can't make a go of it?

The usual dodge of everyone is to blame other people and other groups for rising taxes and rising government expenditures. As a whole, the American people will blame "the government," that nebulous group of individuals who are "throwing our money away." Seldom if ever do they place the blame where it belongs, at their own doorsteps.

We hear about "lobbies" and "pressure groups." Did you ever consider that you are probably a member of these groups who want "something for nothing" from one of the levels of government?

Let's take a hypothetical case. The Eminent Society of Glorified Birdwatchers of Middle Valley" in its enthusiasm decides that putting a dam on the Skunk river east of town would be a fine way to provide our feathered friends with a home overlooking the water. They buttonhole the area's legislator, threaten him with non-support in the coming election and ram through another piece of costly legislation.

This instance, far-fetched as it may seem, is being repeated hundreds of times a day. The cost of all these projects, of course, is paid by you and by me and makes up a good portion of the increased cost of government.

In every case, the pressure group concerned can justify its pet project by backing opponents into a corner and asking, "Don't you think that it is a worthwhile undertaking?" They further justify it with the statement, "If the government doesn't spend its money for this, they will spend it for something else."

These lines of reasoning are as phony as a three dollar bill. Let's examine each of them in turn and compare them to our day-to-day experiences.

"Isn't this a worthwhile project?" is the first answer one gets when questioning a project. The answer in nearly every case is, "Yes." But that isn't the point.

Every once in a while, a new car or new appliance for the home is contemplated by a family. In sensible families, at least, such an expenditure is examined in the light of its necessity and the available money. If it can pass these tests, the purchase may be made.

Apparently this line of reasoning is no good when it comes to government spending. "The Government" is an inexhaustible cornucopia in the minds of many people and the words "necessity" and "want" become all confused.

The second answer one usually gets when he questions a project which requires government aid is, "If the government doesn't spend money for this, they will use it for something else." Is that necessarily true?

If that line of reasoning pervaded our everyday thinking, the nation would be in chaos. What these people are actually saying is, "No one is using it yet so we had better use it while it is still available." That is the line of reasoning used by youngsters who "borrow" cars to take a joy ride.

And that is what we are on at the present time—a national joy ride. This "live-it-up-to-the-hilt" philosophy is on every level of our society. We're all on a national binge that will surely bring on a national headache of epic proportions if some cooler heads don't start putting on the brakes.

We can start right at home in our city, county and state. Are expenditures of various kinds really necessary or are they for something which "would be nice to have?" Are we members of pressure groups who want something out of selfish interest but who rationalize it into something which is "good for everyone?"

Let's not be so hasty to condemn others for doing something of which we ourselves are guilty.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL

[illegible] physicist or biologist — we seldom specialize — a scientist who can give a very intelligible account of what he does for a living, regardless of how [illegible] he may be. Usually someone else must describe his work so the rest of us can at least partially understand it.

With this noble objective of being "described" in mind I got [illegible] on the phone the other day and started asking questions. Bob is our research biologist specializing in the hatchery and artificial propagation of trout. I asked him to forget their work in the streams and lakes and to concentrate on the trout hatchery work. "Well," he said, "I do research into the management of [illegible]." After thinking real hard I agreed that his statement was quite profound but explained that I didn't want to think hard, just wanted some examples.

So he explained that he starts by looking for weaknesses in a trout-raising program—where the expensive costs lie, where and when fish die and come, which fish lack stamina, etc. The second step is to learn why, and the third, to make a correction.

He explained that nine years ago it took 14 pounds of food, costing 84 cents to produce a pound of trout. In 1952, after two years of nutritional research, more vegetable protein and dried fish and meat meal were added to the diet. This increased the cost per pound of the food but so much less of it was required that the cost per pound of trout produced dropped to 30 cents.

Further research led to a completely "pelletized" diet for all trout larger than fingerlings and the cost per pound of fish dropped below 20 cents per pound.

Probably even more important than the cost was the increase in size of trout produced. In 1952 the average size of yearling trout released was one-ninth of a pound. By 1957 it had reached a fourth pound.

To sum it up, in spite of rising costs, we now produce 90,000 pounds of trout a year in our hatcheries for about the same cost of the 50,000 pounds produced in 1950.

Survival in the hatchery has been greatly increased through use of antibiotics, sulpha, sanitation and proper nutrition. Before 1950, 4,000,000 eyed trout eggs were required to produce 350,000 yearling trout. The same number of much larger trout are now produced from half as many eggs. This saves not only the cost of 2,000,000 eggs but the much greater labor cost in tending them.

Fungus was a major problem in hatching trout eggs but this has been almost eliminated with a weekly treatment of malachite green. The cost of this chemical used is $8 per year.

Bacterial gill disease was once the prime killer of small trout, frequently eliminating half of all the fish in the hatchery. Study revealed that a chemical used by wood processing plants, pyredi-mercuric acetate (PMA) gave complete control of the gill disease. Now hatchery trout get 12 treatments of PMA during the first six months of their lives. The one string attached to this chemical is that it is deadly poison to rainbow trout but has no ill effects on brook, brown and lake trout. So now we have a chemical with which we could easily kill off the rainbow trout in a stream without injuring other species.

Question—Who wants to kill off rainbows?

Second question—When do we get a specific poison for carp only?

When I asked Bob about future hatchery improvements he launched into scientific jargon about proteins, amino acids, vitamins, trace elements, blood chemistry and genetics. The only thing I could make of it was that the remarkable work already done by Bob and his co-workers is far less important to them than their plans for the future. He also made it clear that progress is possible only because of the intelligent wholehearted cooperation of the superintendent and all the hard working men in the hatchery.

Finally, Bob promised that Minnesota fishermen will be catching hatchery trout next spring which are more beautiful than ever before. Until now hatcheries have never been able to produce fish with the beautiful bright red spots and pink flesh of wild trout. But now the importation of a waste product of the shrimp industry (ground shrimp shells) adds a caratoid to the diet. This is a substitute for the water fleas and fresh water shrimp eaten by wild trout. Bob thinks you fly fishing experts may no longer be able to separate your wild catches from the colorful hatchery specimens.

Baudette Man Gets 5-lb. Pike in Fish Derby

300 Persons Share in 2d Annual Event at Tindolph Point

Favored by a brief respite from subzero temperatures, the second annual fishing derby sponsored by Boy Scout troop 57 at Tindolph Point Sunday afternoon attracted a crowd of 300 fishermen and spectators.

Robert Vraa of Baudette won the first prize for the largest fish caught, a five-pound Northern pike. He was awarded a three-burner camp stove. Pat Travnicek, 703 Markley ave. S., won the camp cooler for having the smallest fish of the afternoon, a 12-ounce Northern.

The grand prize, a 5½-horsepower outboard motor, was won by Mrs. James Anderson, 229 Crocker ave. N. and her sister, Mrs. Murray Gray of Winnipeg, was awarded a lunch kit for being the contestant who lived the furthest distance from Thief River Falls.

Children were entertained during the derby with rides in the Bridgeman Creameries sleigh and the hot drinks and food served were welcome to the chilled crowd.

Fishing was better at the derby this year than in 1958, both in the number of fish caught and the size. Last year, a Northern of three pounds and one ounce was the prize winner.

TRF Men at Parley on Electronics

Stan Nelson, Ted Mills at St. Paul Conference

Stanley W. Nelson, director of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical school, and electronics teacher Ted Mills attended an electronics conference at the vocational division of the state department of education in St. Paul on Friday.

The conference covered three general areas of electronics training: equipment needed, student selection methods, and curriculum to be included.

Electronic technician training is being provided in Minnesota's Area Vocational - Technical Schools under the provisions of the National Defense Education Act. Technician jobs are between the skilled tradesman and the professional engineer and require a fairly high level of ability as well as vocational training.

Electronic technician training is being emphasized now because of the rapidly increasing number of jobs predicted by the state employment office.

High school and post high school students under 21 from the Thief River Falls school district may attend the area vocational-technical school tuition free. Post high school students under 21 from outside the school district may attend the area school with tuition paid by the state. Further information may be obtained by writing to the director of the school.

Application Forms for Sugar Beets Acreage Received

Available at County ASC Office; Doubt Expressed as to Acreage Alotment

Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization office, stated today that the office has received 75 sugar beet acreage applications from the state ASC office.

Culkins said that prospective sugarbeet producers may call at the county office and file an application for sugar beet acreage even though the prospects of getting a sugar beet acreage is slim. Filing in application, he added may in time encourage the sugar beet authorities to investigate and probably allocate some acreage to this county.

Applications will be accepted only from producers who intend to plant 25 acres or more. However, the names of producers who intend to plant less than 25 acres will be recorded in the county office and reported to the state office as prospective producers for future consideration.

Culkins also states that inasmuch as the application forms are limited they would be handled on a first come, first serve basis.

Final date for filing applications in the county office is January 30, 1959.

Grain Leader Speaks at Seed and Feed Show

Secretary of Mpls. Grain Exchange to Appear January 30

Alvin W. Donahoo, secretary of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange, will appear on the speaking program Friday, January 30, during the Seed and Feed Show, it was announced today by County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. He will speak in the afternoon in the city Auditorium.

Donahoo will speak on "Grain Marketing" and will explain the role of the exchange in selling grains. This subject is of vital interest to the farmers of the area since one-half of Pennington farm income is from crops; 45 percent of the farm income in Red Lake is from crops and 73 percent of the Marshall county farm income is from crops. Add to this the value of crops marketed through livestock and the crops industry assumes a very significant source of income for farm families of the area, Stelmaschuk stated.

Dr. Donahoo is educational director as well as secretary of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange. He attended Iowa State College, and the University of Minnesota, where he also served as an instructor. He also served as an agricultural technician under the Point Four program in Bolivia, South America. He will speak Friday afternoon, January 30.

Farmers are invited to bring in to the show as many exhibits as they wish of different varieties. Two quarts of grain, one quart of legume or grass seed or silage, two inch slice of a bale of hay of any type will constitute an exhibit.

Corn needs to be grown north of U. S. highway No. 2 and all of the seed and feed exhibits need to have been produced by the exhibitor in 1958.

Cleaning of seed is permitted and premium money on all lots will be awarded. Also door prizes will be awarded. The show and educational program will be held Thursday, January 29 and Friday, January 30 in the City Auditorium.

The show is being sponsored by the Pennington County Crop Improvement association in cooperation with Pennington county, TRF Chamber of Commerce, seed-feed-fertilizer dealers of Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls banks.

Man from Iceland Gets Store Training in TRF

A young Icelander whom many area folks will meet during his four-month stay in Thief River Falls, is Grimur Josafatsson, who is in this country to learn the whys and wherefors of retail merchandising under sponsorship of the American-Scandinavian Foundation.

Grimur arrived in the U. S. Aug. 27 and after untangling the red tape attendant to arriving, proceeded to the upper midwest. One of the stops enroute was for a visit with State Treasurer Val Bjornson, also an Icelander, who was influential in helping Grimur come to the country under the training program.

Grimur's first four-month tour of duty was with the Gamble Store at Grafton, N. D. where he learned the hardware and hard lines business. He arrived in Thief River Falls Wednesday afternoon and for the next four months will be working at the J. C. Penney Co. store.

Penney's Manager Robert Baker said Grimur will be put through the training program that any new Penney employee gets when joining the firm. This involves learning stockroom and ordering procedure, merchandising, methods of handling—everything about retailing soft lines.

Studies Merchandising Here

Grimur Josafatsson, who came to the U. S. from Iceland in August last year, will be spending four months at the local J. C. Penney store to study soft lines merchandising, part of a training program he is taking here under the auspices of the American Scandinavian foundation. Grimur has already spent four months at a Grafton store learning the hardware business and before leaving will spend another four-month period in a grocery supermarket.

Mercury Drops to 26 Below Friday

Temperature Above Zero Briefly Sunday afternoon

Pile on the fuel and keep the draft open — that's the weather picture for today and tonight in as few words as possible.

The weatherman, in short, is merely telling us we'll be having more of the same clear, cold weather we've been having the past week and today's five-day forecast calls for temperatures more than 20 degrees below seasonal normals.

The readings since Thursday ranged from 26 below Friday to a high of 15 above Sunday — which, incidentally, was the only above-zero reading for the entire period since Thursday. The warmer air Sunday was the result of a fast-moving cold front which swept through our area early Sunday morning, leaving only a trace of snow, but more frigid temperatures in its wake.

The KTRF forecast: partly cloudy skies and colder today, snow flurries in some northern portions of Minnesota. Fair and colder tonight and Tuesday with the high temperature today expected to range from 0 to —10 and the low tonight —15 to —25.

Rural Solicitors for Home for Aged to Report Friday

Art Bartleson, Chairman, Asks Workers to Report at Christian Manor Office

Art Bartleson, chairman of the rural Pennington county drive for Christian Manor, has announced Friday, Jan. 23 as report day for rural solicitors.

He asks that solicitors turn in their reports for that portion of their work which has been completed. Workers should retain the cards for all homes which have not been visited and report them later. Reports may be brought to the Christian Manor office at 207 Northern State Bank Bldg.

Bartleson emphasizes that it is highly important that each family make a small gift or pledge. In the aggregate, these gifts will produce the total necessary from the rural area to assure the overall success of the Christian Manor drive, he said.

Seven Girls Vying for 'Miss Co. F' Title at Revue Tuesday Night

Seven young ladies from the Thief River Falls area will vie for the title of "Miss Company 'F'" at the National Guard Revue which is scheduled for Tuesday evening, Jan. 20, at the Armory, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Competing for the honor and opportunity to represent the local company in state competition this summer will be Irene Johnson, Beverly Braaten, Shellie Dahlen, Rosalie Fonnest, Barbara Battleson, Sharon Hendrickson and Diane Storhaug.

The winner of the state contest will receive an all-expense paid trip to Las Vegas, Nev. and the title of "Miss Minnesota National Guard."

Featured in the show will be former USO entertainers who have appeared many times on television and in stage shows all over the world. Ruwe and Louie, a ventriloquism act, come direct from the Ed Sullivan TV show; King Cole, a comedian, is noted for his appearances on the Ozark Jubilee TV show and will give his impressions of everyday local character.

The Jesters will present a comedy-magic act climaxed by a "trunk escape" act; Miss Avis, billed as the best novelty wire act in the business, finishes her performance with a fast-moving comedy routine on the wire and the Harts, a top act in hand balancing, will round out the bill.

An advance ticket sale is now being held by members of the National Guard, and tickets will also be available at the door Tuesday evening. Proceeds from the show will be used by the men of Company "F" to furnish a day room at the armory.

Cooperation of City and Soo Urged

Soo Line Official Cites Importance of Mutual Support

A strong plea for closer cooperation and mutual support between the Thief River Falls community and the Soo Line railroad was made Thursday evening by Ross Thorfinnson, vice president of the Soo Line, at the annual dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in the Zion church parlors.

At the banquet, attended by 225 men and women, Harley Kelly, retiring president, turned over the office to his successor, Sig Quam, who in turn presented Kelly with a past president's plaque and praised him for the chamber's accomplishments under his direction during the past year.

Thorfinnson stressed the impact on the Soo Line on Thief River Falls since it came to this city in 1904, pointing out that during the following ten years the city's population doubled from 1,800 to approximately 3,500. Now the city's leading industry, the Soo Line, he said, gives employment to 211 local residents, with an annual payroll of $1,369,000.

The speaker told of the many services provided by the Soo Line, and stated that it can do more for Thief River Falls than can the truck lines or airlines. He stated that gross revenues of the railroad have declined locally by 14½ per cent during the past ten years, and he solicited more local support, saying that the railroad has the facilities and the ability to give top service.

With retiring president Kelly serving as toastmaster, the program opened with the invocation by Dr. Walter M. Pedersen, followed by the introduction of special guests from the Soo Line official family, including J. D. Bond, operations vice president, and E. G. Spears, general freight traffic manager, both of Minneapolis; T. J. Hartnett, assistant traffic manager at Duluth; John B. Benson, holding a similar post at Minot, N. D.; and Ralph Stoffel, commercial agent at Grand Forks.

Other guests were Leonard Kronholm, president, and Richard Molamphy, secretary of the Crookston Chamber of Commerce; and Glenn Chapin, secretary of the Roseau chamber.

Jerry Joringdal provided music on the electric organ during the dinner hour, and three songs were supplied by the Lincoln high school girls trio, including Carol Nesland, Carmen Pederson and Rosemarie Stokke, accompanied by Janice Anderson.

In giving up the presidency, Kelly expressed appreciation for the support given him during the year by the board of directors, committee chairmen and Secretary J. M. Roche. His successor, Sig Quam, pledged his best efforts to make 1959 another successful year for the chamber.

Springtime Fashions

Today more women are sewing their clothes than ever before. So now that many of the new spring fabrics are arriving in the stores, many of you will be starting to make your Easter outfits.

For the spring and summer some of the floral prints will include fruits and vegetables. This season promises to be one of the most colorful to date. Hot pinks and reds; yellow-gold and orange, blue-green and lavender hues—the true Impressionist colors and enormous flowers headline the fashion forecast. This is the year to try a new color or combination of colors, anything goes! Clash colors become high fashion in the brilliant flower prints.

Stripes and checks are bold. The awning stripe is seen in denium and sail cloth for sportswear. The ribbon stripe and the striped flower print are also headliners.

Texture, the qality that lends depth to fabrics, is also very important this season. The newest is hopsacking, a loose, rough, basket-type weave, making an appearance in almost every fiber. This fabric is found in solid colors or more often in giant checks or flowers.

But the big news this spring is color—particularly clash of colors.

4-H Corner

Many of you in the 4-H food preparation project are busy planning a dairy foods demonstration for the Red River Valley Shows. So here is some information on milk which may be of help to you.

Milk is one of the best foods you can get. It contains many vitamins and minerals, also fats, sugars, and high-quality proteins. Milk, a dairy product, makes up one of the four daily essential food groups. Milk is rich in three things which build and repair our bodies:

1. Calcium, a mineral, needed for strong healthy bones.
2. The B-vitamin riboflavin, needed for healthy skin and nerves.
3. Protein, to build and repair all tissues.

It's hard to get enough calcium and riboflavin with-out using a good deal of milk. In this country three-fourths of the riboflavin and one-fourth of the protein come from milk. Therefore, one reason milk is so good for us is that it contains many nutrients which combine to supply the body's needs.

For more information for your demonstration be sure to ask at the extension office for the booklet "You and Your 4-H Dairy Foods Demonstration."

Remember to send your name into the extension office if you are planning to demonstrate at the Winer Shows. The deadline for registration is Friday, January 30.

Household Hints

Poke a raw fish with your finger-if the dent stays there, you have just poked a stale fish.

Too much fat in the gravy? Wrap an ice cube in cheesecloth and pull it back and forth over the surface. The fat will harden and stick to the cheesecloth as the ice hits it.

Peel onions from the root and toward the sprout to help avoid stinging eyes and tears.

The window sills will be easier to keep clean if you wax them after washing.

For a bit of extra flavor, spread a cake very lightly with peanut butter and then frost.

See you next week!

Club Leaders' Meeting at Middle River Jan. 29

A meeting on "The Making of Wire Jewelry" will be held at the Sportsman's club in Middle River Thursday, Jan. 29, at 1:30 p.m. for leaders of homemakers clubs in Marshall county.

This meeting will be taught by Mrs. Don Fuller of rural Thief River Falls. She received training at a district meeting for homemakers held last summer in Thief River Falls.

Each homemaker club may send two leaders to the meeting. They in turn will teach the women in their own local clubs. Leaders attending should bring, in addition to pencil and paper a round-nose pliers, a small hammer, solid surface for pounding (steel block—perhaps an old flat iron base), old scissors.

This lesson is in addition to training meetings scheduled in the regular home program according to Janice Kyseth, home agent.

Dept. of Agriculture OK's LOL Plant under New Inspection Law

The poultry dressing plant of Land O'Lakes Creamery at Thief River Falls is one of the plants approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture under the new compulsory inspection law which went into effect on January 1.

Company officials as early as August 1958 were notified by USDA that the dressing plant met all of the rigid requirements necessary to merit approval under the law. Dr. Wayne Brooks is USDA's inspector in chargeat the plant.

A law enacted by Congress in 1957 requires that all poultry produced after January 1, 1959 must be inspected for wholesomeness if it moves from one state to another. Inspection on a voluntary basis, with the plant operators paying a fee for the service, has been provided by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for about 30 years. The new law makes inspection compulsory, and it will be provided without charge.

Before the Land O'Lakes plant qualified for Federal inspection, Government veterinarians approved the building, its equipment, and its dressing methods. In day-to-day operation, a Federal inspector examines the birds while they are alive and again on the inspection line. Any diseased birds are removed and are disposed of to insure that they will not be used for human food.

"As Americans eat more and more poultry each year, increasing from 17 pounds per person in 1940 to 32 pounds last year, it is increasingly important," Dr. Brooks said, "that the healthfulness of that poultry be insured. That is the purpose of compulsory inspection under the new law. There is a difference between inspection for wholesomeness and grading for quality. Consumers may be sure that inspected poultry bearing the circular label came from birds that were healthy and were dressed under sanitary conditions."

Three Week-end Collisions Here

Damage Estimated by Police to Total $385

Three property damage accidents totaling $385 estimated damages were reported by police today. The first of these occurred Saturday about 10:45 a.m., when Alfred M. Mehus, city, was making a left turn off LaBree av. to go east on E. Third st. and struck the left-rear fender of a car driven by Axel W. Kohl, Lake Bronson, who was crossing East Third st. going north on LaBree. Estimated damage to the Mehus car was $25, to Kohl, $85.

At about 3:34 p.m. Saturday cars driven by Albert J. Brunelle, city, and Martin A. Alby, city, collided at the intersection of Conley av. S. and Michael st. Brunelle was going south on Conley and Alby was preparing to make a right turn onto Conley as he approached from the east. Both drivers braked and slid on the icy surface. Damages were estimated at $135 to Brunelle's car and $15 to Alby's.

Sunday, at 12:05 p.m. Lorene R. Martini, city, going south on Tindolph av. S. and Adolph M. Kleinvachter, city, going east on Nora were involved in a collision in which Kleinvachter struck Mrs. Martini's car as she crossed the intersection. Damage to the Martini car was estimated at $85 and to the other, $40. Both cars had been moved before the police arrived at the scene.

Wheel-track corn planting pays off on heavy soils of western Minnesota, according to Wilbur Henrichs, Chippewa county farmer, and Orville Gunderson, area extension soils agent. Henrichs compared wheel-track and conventional planting — using four-row equipment in each case. By planting corn in wheel-tracks directly on freshly-plowed, but undisked soil, he saved about $4 per acre. There was practically no yield difference between the two planting systems.

Vernal is the best buy you can get in alfalfa, according to William Hueg, University of Minnesota extension agronomist. This holds true even though it may cost 15 cents per pound more than Ranger. The reason: It has consistently yielded half a ton of high quality forage above other varieties in tests around Minnesota. It has high resistance to bacterial wilt and a high degree of winter hardiness. And use certified seed — it's a good investment.

Emil Schluter, Sedan, Minn., completed improvement of his marsh, with level ditching and dike construction, 3 years ago. This year, he says, hunters that leased it had excellent shooting. And he received a good return for his work.

George Nadeau, Stillwater, is one farmer who definitely plans to wheel-track plant his corn from now on, according to Clifton Halsey, Washington county extension soils agent. Nadeau found corn planted in wheel-tracks on freshly plowed and undisked soil yielded just as well as where he followed the old procedure. Fall-plowed soil produced 74 bushels corn per acre, which tested 34 percent moisture at harvest time. Wheel-track planted corn on spring-plowed land yielded 76 bushels, testing 30 percent moisture when picked. Also: the "minimum tillage" area had fewer weeds between the rows and the ground was still loose at harvest time.

a peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

THE cry of "the bands are coming back" has been raised periodically for the past few years but recently there have been growing indications that such might be the case, according to Capitol Records' Music Views . . . The interesting thing is that the revival is happening to the same bands that made it the first time around . . . The Glenn Miller ork, under the baton of Ray McKinley, has been doing very well, as has the Benny Goodman band . . . The Tommy Dorsey outfit with trombonist Warren Covington at the helm, has been making a successful tour of one-nighters and has had a single record of hit proportions, "Tea for Two Cha-Cha" . . .

On the record scene, Glen Gray's "The Sounds of the Great Bands" album on Capitol has been a big seller . . . An album featuring vocal arrangements of dance band themes recorded by the Clark Sisters has also been successful . . . Eventually each generation gets around to thinking that their parents' had some pretty good music, too . . . Should rock 'n roll fade out completely you can bet it will be revived as something "brand new" in about 1978 (survive it again? Oh, no!).

PLATTER CHATTER

MERCURY:—June Valli has her first big hit on this label with "The Wedding," an unusual type of ballad that is bound for Hitville . . . Reverse has "Lunch Hour" which comes about 20 years too late for June . . . We wish Mercury would stop giving these cooing, gurgling type of songs—especially school songs — to old-timers Valli and Patti Page . . . Especially when they have a legitimate teenager with a great voice in Joy Layne who would lap up "Lunch Hour" and "Fibbin'" . . . Tony Dalardo debuts impressively with a pretty Italian ditty, "Come Prima" backed by "Condannacal."

Rusty Draper, always great, comes up with "Shoppin' Around" and "With This Ring" that have a good commercial sound.

SUNDAY SERMON

Rev. Robert H. Harper

Our Dwelling Place

PERHAPS the last thing Moses wrote was the 90th Psalm. Its first sentence has the sound of a grand music that can never be forgotten—"Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place, in all generations."

If Moses was the author, a hundred and twenty years of mighty achievement must have come to his undimmed vision one after another like the shifting scenes of a great kaleidoscope. Through all the mazes of his amazing career, he had seen the hand of the Almighty God. And he wrote that God had been the dwelling place of him and his people through all generations.

So let us close the month which men have chosen to be the first of the calendar year with the thought of God and the privilege of claiming him as our dwelling place.

"Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." Surely, then, God is eternal and our dwelling place for ever. And he who made the worlds has numbered the hairs of our heads and makes us each the object of his love and care.

D. Lawrence Given Suggestion Award

Offers Plan for Wild Life Conservation

H. G. Halverson, area conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service at Thief River Falls, presented Don Lawrence, SCS farm planner for the Pennington county soil conservation district, with a citation and cash award at a staff meeting Friday, January 16.

The citation and award were for a work improvement suggestion prepared and put into effect by Lawrence.

The suggestion is for digging small water holes in drainage ditches on farms to retain a little water for the benefit of wild life, especially ducks, on the farm.

Some of the water holes are used by ducks, deer and other wild life. Reports show that several pair of ducks, especially blue-winged teal and a pair of mallards, raised their young on the Andrew Skaar and Gordon Hunt farms because of the man-made water holes.

Man from Iceland in City to Study Merchandising

This, of course, is in line with Grimur's coming here—he will learn practical retailing as done in the U. S. and when his training program is complete will go back to Iceland to see how applications of what he learned here can be made in that country.

Grimur should fit in well with the businessmen in Thief River Falls. He is 34, a high school graduate and also a graduate of a 2-year business college course provided him by the National Federation of Co-ops in Iceland. Before coming to the U. S. he was a co-op branch manager.

Grimur's home town is Hveragerdi, a little inland town east of Reykjavik, where he was a member of the Conservative party and also was on the village council.

Grimur is very much impressed with the U. S. but says the climate in our upper midwest is rather rigorous compared to that of his native Iceland. There, he said, the temperature seldom drops below 20 above in winter and rarely gets higher than 70 in summer. Iceland's climate, of course, is of the oceanic variety and the temperatures are largely controlled by the ocean currents flowing around it, despite its far northern latitude.

In the northern part of Iceland, Grimur said, the sun can be seen all day during its summertime height. On the other hand the nights are considerably longer in winter.

Grassland farming is the main agriculture practiced in Iceland. Farmers also raise their own perishable vegetables, while in town the people can raise their vegetables on small plots provided by the city. A unique feature of Grimur's home town is that cucumbers, tomatoes, flowers, and even bananas are raised in hothouses heated by numerous hot springs in the area. American servicemen there during the war called the place "Steam City," according to Val Bjornson.

Grimur is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Olson, 122 St. Paul av. S., while working at Penney's, and says he is looking forward to his experiences here very much. After completing his four-month stint at Penney's, he will spend another like period in a grocery supermarket before returning to Iceland.

Baudette Gasoline Truck Exploded

Welding Operation on Transport Causes Blast

The explosion of an empty gasoline transport rocked the village of Baudette Wednesday morning about 10:15, shattering windows in the vicinity of the blast and shaking buildings all over the community. Miraculously, no one was injured, says the Baudette Region.

The blast occurred as Lee Ellis was on the rear of the transport belonging to George Felker. He was doing a welding job on it, and was tumbled to the ground uninjured.

The truck was parked in the "L" formed by the buildings formerly known as the Elde garage building, and the Rullen building in which are the offices of North Star Electric.

Not a sliver of glass was left in the windows in the immediate blast area. And at least one large chunk of metal plate was tossed several hundred feet. Smaller pieces from the transport were also being found a long way from the site of the explosion.

Mrs. B. Froiland Injured in Mishap

A city resident, Mrs. Ben Froiland, was injured in an automobile accident about 10 p.m. Friday when the car driven by her husband, Ben Froiland, was involved in a collision with another vehicle driven by Andreas Homme, city, at the intersection of Atlantic av. N. and E. Fourth st.

Mrs. Froiland was taken to Northwestern hospital where she was still a patient Monday afternoon. Her doctor reported that although she had no broken bones, she is suffering from bruises and sprains.

How Well Do You Know Your America?

Test your knowledge—or your guessing ability. See if you can identify the spot where the above picture was taken from the information given below.

In the year 1750, Dr. Thomas Walker and five companions stood near the spot pictured above and congratulated themselves upon finding a pass through the mountains. What Dr. Walker and his party of surveyors from Virginia had discovered was an Indian Trail, known as Warrior's Path, used for thousands of years by the Indians in their journeys from the lake region of the North to the mountain empire of the Cherokee and other Indians in the South.

Dr. Walker's discovery of the "gap" led to the Wilderness Road and to the development of the west, the conquest of the Northwest, and spreading of white civilization to the Mississippi River.

Walker pushed on to build the first log cabin in Kentucky. Behind him came Daniel Boone and it is estimated that between 1775 and 1790 more than 200,000 men, women and children poured over the Wilderness Road on horseback or foot.

National Guard Units to Be Retained in All 67 Cities Now Served

Governor Orville L. Freeman announced Friday that he has approved a new troop basis for reorganization of the Minnesota Army National Guard. It will parallel the comparable combat elements of the Regular Army as it is modernized into Pentomic Divisions.

Under the approved plan, the 47th Infantry Division (Viking Division) will consist of 98 separate units as against 107 units under the old divisional structure. However, the relatively small reduction in units assures the continuation of National Guard activities in all 67 communities in Minnesota currently in the program, Freeman said.

The Pentomic concept will reorganize the Army National Guard at a nation-wide strength of 400,000 in which all infantry divisions are organized into five battle groups and other supporting elements. The modernized Viking Division will consist of the five battle groups, a 155 howitzer field artillery battalion, and a transport tactical carrier battalion, broken up into 98 separate units.

Freeman said he approved the modernization of the Guard last July subject to negotiation which would assure Minnesota a troop basis "which would not require units to be withdrawn from communities with long and rich traditions in maintaining Guard units.

"In addition, we wanted assurance that Guard units would not be withdrawn from communities where the state and federal governments have substantial investments."

Negotiations to obtain the most favorable troop basis were conducted by the adjutant general, Major General J. E. Nelson, with the National Guard Bureau and the Department of the Army and have culminated in the announcement from the governor's office.

General Nelson said the problem of reorganizing the Guard in the 67 communities of the state where there are one or more units has been under study, and the recommendations from that study will be submitted to the Guard Bureau and Army Department in Washington within the next two weeks.

The complete reorganization plan will be announced as soon as approval is received in Washington. General Nelson said that the reorganization will be completed before the active-duty training session begins in June at Camp Ripley.

Rural Youth Told of Traffic Safety

Highway Patrolman M. Johnson Speaks to Group

The subject of traffic safety was discussed at the January Rural Youth meeting held last week. Mitchel Johnson, Minnesota highway patrolman, showed a film entitled "The Incredible Journey" which showed six common wrong attitudes about driving.

Johnson then emphasized that the attitude of the driver is the most important factor in highway safety. He stated that when people are brought into court for traffic violations and fined, it is hoped that their attitude toward driving is improved. Carelessness, showing-off, "that can't happen to me," "you can't prevent an accident if your number is up," and poor driver training are among the most common bad attitudes which lead to accidents.

The Minnesota highway patrol has a three-point program for accident prevention which is emphasized and is called the "E" program.

One is education. Driver education prevents formation of bad habits and familiarizes the driver with all the rules and regulations of the highways.

Two, is engineering: Proper car, road and street engineering to avoid hazards which lead to accidents.

Three is enforcement. When laws are violated, enforcement of justice becomes necessary.

Sgt. John Oven, also was present at the meeting, which thirty young men and women attended. The meeting was concluded with square dancing.

The date of the February meeting will be announced later. At this meeting, Mr. Charles Martin, a family life specialist at the University of Minnesota, will be on hand to speak to the group.

Clarissa Farmer Top Farm Manager

LaVerne Clow, Lancaster, Named Regional Winner

Ray LaVoie, Clarissa, Minn., Thursday received a plaque award for being the top farm manager of 1958 in the Minnesota Cooperative Farm Management service.

He received the award during the noon convocation of Farm and Home Week on the St. Paul campus of the University of Minnesota.

LaVoie has a herd of 48 milk cows, which averaged 331 pounds butterfat — 81 pounds above state average — last year.

The Farm Management service is conducted by the University's Institute of Agriculture in cooperation with vocational agriculture instructors in Minnesota and the state department of education. Farmers in the program keep their records in the Minnesota Farm Account book and the records are analyzed by area centers. The local vocational agriculture teacher then interprets the analysis for the farmer.

Also recognized today in addition to LaVoie, were five other regional farm management award winners. They were: Laverne Clow, Lancaster; Don Richardson, Canby; Sigvald Svendsen, Lake Crystal; Stanley Gronseth, Austin; and John Waldo, Winona.

Brucellosis Test Started Today in Marshall County

A partial brucellosis test began in Marshall county Monday, Jan. 19, according to William Henderson, county agriculture agent.

The test will cover about 30 per cent of the herds in the county and will be conducted by veterinarians from the northwest district.

All herds on the current retest list will be checked, along with all suspect and infected herds, and herds for which the Livestock Sanitary Board have no record of negative ring tests.

CANDID COMMENT

by Mack Burger

One of the things we've noticed lately is that it is extremely hard to be profound when the temperature is standing somewhere around 20 below and the dial on the fuel tank is dropping almost as fast as the mercury.

Scientists tell us the Earth's climate is getting warmer. We're in no position to dispute them. Who's going to miss a lousy 10 degrees if the lowest temperature has jumped from -30 to -20?

The scientists do, of course. In the long run a fairly significant warmup in the world climate can have Earth-shaking consequences. The overall damage to our coastlines would be more than all the nuclear bombs in the world could do. Man, after all, is a pretty puny creature!

We laymen never stop to consider those things, however. Far too many of us don't live any farther ahead than the next pay check, which is one of our major faults. And to some of us even that would be extremely long-range thinking.

What appear to be minor actions by our congress can often have great impact on our lives. So can the minor policy changes by the bureaus that have more and more effect on our everyday lives. Those "minor changes" are accumulative, and if we aren't always alert some day the load may bring the whole roof crashing down about our ears.

Unfortunately history has proved many times the so-called "common man," if given his preference of a full tummy and plenty of beer or good democratic government, will usually choose the former. We aren't referring to U. S. history but to that of ancient Greece and Rome, and more recently, Germany and Russia.

One is reminded during our recent cold snaps that not all the improvements in modern automobiles are to the good. The old hand throttle would be a good deal for warming up one's car on a frigid morning. The automatic choke has an arrangement that causes the engine to idle faster when it is started cold but it isn't quite the same because it uses too much fuel and isn't dependable.

Remember the hand levers under the steering wheel of the Model A Ford? One was for the spark advance, the other was the throttle. You fired Ol' Lizzie up with the spark retarded then advanced it afterwards. The choke was an affair that could be pulled out or turned to give the desired amount of choke.

To get Liz going mornings you'd retard the spark, pull the throttle lever down a little and pull the choke out, whether cranking or using the starter. No two Model A's were the same, of course, so procedure might vary some. Nevertheless, every drive in a Model A, and even some more so with the Model T, was an adventure.

My first car, a 1930 Model A roadster, will always be remembered as a wonderful old car—and an awfully cold one. Every winter trip in it was like going down a long hill on a bobsled!

Each year through New York City's 45-year-old Grand Central Station some 50 million railroad passengers are whisked to and from their destinations over 67 tracks.

Employment Here in Seasonal Slump

190 Fewer Workers in December Than in Fall

Employment in Thief River Falls as of mid-December 1958 stood at 2700. This was a drop of 190, or 6.6% compared with mid-September 1958 when local employment totalled 2890 according to a report by R. S. Eldevik, manager of the local employment office.

Heavy decrease occurred in manufacturing and construction. Manufacturing employment dropped from 347 in September to 237 in December. Completion of seasonal turkey processing operations account for this drop.

Employment in construction declined from 168 in September to 89 in December. Severe winter weather halted most outside construction work and was responsible for this decrease.

Decreases in construction and manufacturing employment were partially offset by small gains in local trade and government employment.

The outlook for the first quarter of 1959 is for continued high employment, with little hiring expected until next spring when construction and farm work get under way.

Bemidji 'B's Edge Prowlers 40 to 38

Bemidji Scores Twice in Last Minute to Win

Coach Jack Luoma's Bemidji reserves, with Joe Sarff and Mike Barclay scoring field goals in the final minute of play, defeated the Prowler 'B' team, 40 to 38, in an exciting and entertaining preliminary game played here Friday night. The Prowler 'B' team held a 38 to 33 lead late in the fourth period, but Wayne Bjerken's removal from the lineup, on personal fouls, with 3:06 to play, gave the Jacks their incentive for their game-winning rally.

Prowlers Lose by 54-48 Count to Bemidji Quint

[illegible]eb Glas' three field goals in the final minute of play, scored on high-arched shots that swished into the west basket, provided [illegible] Buz Fortier's Bemidji Lumberjacks with the points that broke a 48-all tie and gave the Jacks a 54 to 48 win over the Prowlers in a thrill-packed Northwest conference basketball game played here Friday night.

The game, which kept a near-capacity crowd in an uproar as the two teams battled for the lead, was won by the Jacks thru the spectacular fourth period scoring performance of Glas, a stocky, poker-faced guard. Glas accounted for 26 points during the game, and notched 16 of those points in the fourth period.

The two teams were even-steven at the end of the first period of play, deadlocked at 10-10, and all of the points being racked up on field goals. In the opening minutes of the second period, the Prowlers opened up a four-point spread, with Lynn Nicholson, Phil Hanson, Mickey Hanson, and Ron Solheim scoring field goals, and Solheim adding a free throw, to take a 19 to 15 lead. Gary Strowbridge, who had replaced Dave Suman at forward for the Jacks in the second period, rammed in three straight field goals, scoring a pair on rebounders, and hitting from the line on another two-pointer. His jump shot, from the circle, moved the Jacks into a 20 to 19 lead. Solheim's field goal regained the lead for the locals, but Jim Vickery, breaking up a play at mid-court, dribbled in for a layup, giving Bemidji a 22 to 21 lead at half.

The two teams rocketed thru the third period, with the lead being gained and lost and tied several times during the frantic eight minutes of play. And the game, as the two clubs moved into the fourth quarter found the Jacks holding a 34 to 33 margin. Solheim opened the final period with a Prowler field goal; Phil lofted in a pair of outside shots, and then added two points from the free-throw line, and the Prowlers were ahead 40 to 35. Phil Hanson dropped in two field goals, paring the Jacks' lead to a point; but Glas converted twice on a bonus free throw, and the score was 42 to 39. Phil Hanson scored a Prowler free throw, and then with 3:37 to pla, Phil notched a field goal, evening the score at 42-42. Glas looped in a shot from the lane; but Mickey Hanson again knotted the game when he hit on a jump shot. Big Larry McDowell, on a jump ball play in the Prowler zone, scored from close in. Mickey Hanson's two-pointer brought the game to 46-all. Jim Vickery, on Phil Hanson's fourth foul, scored a pair of points; but Phil, on Vickery's personal, tallied two points on a bonus foul try, and the game was again knotted, 48 to 48, with 1:20 to play. Glas then took charge of the scoring, dropping in three field goals, his last goal being scored with seven seconds of play remaining.

Glas, with 26 points, was the game's high scorer, with Phil Hanson of the Prowlers scoring 18 points for runner-up honors. Strowbridge of the Jacks was the only other player to hit in double figures, having 12 points.

The Prowlers, with a season's record of six wins and two losses, will play their next game on their schedule on Friday night when they meet the East Grand Forks Green Wave on the Lincoln high school gymnasium court. The game will be a Northwest conference and 31st district conference game.

Roseau Six Whips Prowlers 9 to 2

Held to a 1 to 1 tie at the end of the first period of play, the defending state champion Roseau Rams exploded for five goals in the second period, and added three more tallies in the third period to defeat the Prowlers, 9 to 2, in a regional conference hockey game played at Roseau on Saturday night.

The Prowlers will have an attractive home rink slate this week. On Tuesday night, the Warroad Warriors will play the Prowlers in a regional conference game; and on Thursday night the Williams Wolves will invade the Arena rink for a conference tilt. On Saturday night, the St. Paul Johnson high school Governors, long a "power" in high school hockey circles, will play the Prowlers on the Arena ice sheet.

Saturday night's hockey game at Roseau was, for the first fifteen minutes, a tightly-contested affair, with the score being 1 to 1. At the 8:32 mark of the first period, Don Ross intercepted a Prowler pass in center-ice, and on a two-man rush, with Dale Olson on the left flank, the Rams moved in on goalie Wayne Halvorson. Olson, taking a pass from Ross, beat Halvorson with a hard drive that found the upper left hand corner of the east net. The Prowlers, at the 12:51 marked, evened the score when hard-working Dale Wennberg pilfered the puck off a Roseau player's stick near the Roseau cage, and beat the surprised Rams' netminder, Dick Roth, from close in.

With Roseau's superb defensive duo of Dale Olson and Keith Brandt scoring four goals, and with Brandt assisting on the fifth goal, the Rams moved into a decisive lead in the second period.

In the final period, the Rams capped their fine performance by scoring three more goals while the Prowlers, on a goal by Bruce Ranum, recovering a rebound fired by Jerry Jorgenson, were held to but one tally.

Dale Olson, Roseau's right defense, scored four goals during the game, getting single goals in the first and third periods, and scoring twice in the second period.

In an interesting and entertaining preliminary game, the Prowler 'B' team and the Roseau 'B' team played to a scoreless tie. A five-minute overtime period was played, but the two teams failed to break the scoring drought. Goalie Lyle Molskness played an alert game in the nets for coach Dave Rogers' Prowler squad.

'Bottoms up' at Saturday Wrestling Match

Neil Lofberg of Thief River Falls finds himself in a most unfortunate position as LeRoy Yoki of the Frazee team upends him in the wrestling match Saturday night at Lincoln high school. The referee is Jerry Kruta of the Northwest school at Crookston. Frazee won the match by a score of 29 to 21.

Winner of Grand Prize

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Ceremonies

Proper and fitting ceremonies were held one day last week at Eveleth, and the reason for these festivities was the six-hundredth hockey victory registered by a Cliff Thompson-coached team. That's a remarkable record.

Thompson, a native of Minneapolis (in his boyhood days he was a batboy for the Minneapolis Millers), arrived in Eveleth shortly after the conclusion of World War I, and since that time he has been Mr. Hockey of the Iron Range.

The Eveleth community was introduced to hockey by the Oliver Mining company, which, in the early years of this century, brought such famed hockey players as Ivan (Ching) Johnson, Moose Jamieson, Perk Galbraith, and others, to the city. The Eveleth Rangers in those days competed with teams from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Pittsburgh.

While the youngsters at Eveleth had an opportunity to watch and copy the style of some of the finest hockey players in the country, it was Cliff Thompson that funneled these youngsters into organized play.

It's doubtful if this six hundred victory record will ever be matched. Roseau's Oscar Almquist, a one-time Thompson pupil, has coached hockey for 26 years, and his teams have racked up 250 or 60 wins. But hockey competition on the high school level is much tougher these days than it was in the heyday of the Eveleth Golden Bears. And too, Cliff Thompson for a number of years was the hockey coach for the Eveleth junior college team, and that was an ever-winning outfit.

Another Elimination

Lloyd Samuelson is proving to be the surprise of the singles bowling eliminations that are being held every Sunday at Al Brunelle's Family Bowl lanes. A week ago, Lloyd took the measure of Am Wysoski, and yesterday, bowling a fine 632-pin total, he defeated the Plummer stylist, Jesse DuChamp, by a margin of 98 pins.

In Sunday's match, Jesse had games of 168-185-201, for an aggregate of 554 pins; while Lloyd racked the pins for games of 186-208-238, and total of 632. In his final game, Samuelson opened with a spare, then laid in four strikes, marked up a spare, a strike, a spare, and a double, for a 238.

The win in the match was worth five dollars of Al Holzknecht's prize money; and next Sunday, at 2:00 p.m., Samuelson will attempt to keep his win streak alive by meeting Del Harbott.

We Give Up

In ordinary years we have been able to tick off the teams that are favored to win the district basketball tournaments in Region Eight, and we have furnished invaluable information to such local basketball experts as Rog Tunberg, Garf Benson, Bill Spoonheim, Cliff Bjorkman, Charley Emanuel, Nels Holmberg, Andy Williamson and Al Holzknecht. But not this year. We've torn up our form charts.

What can you do with a season that finds Crookston beating Bemidji, Park Rapids beating Bemidji, Thief River Falls beating Ada, Ada beating Crookston, Twin Valley and Halstad beating Ada, McIntosh beating Bagley, Bemidji beating Thief River Falls? It's just as reliable to read tea leaves as it is to study the performance charts.

The only prediction we can make with certainty is that the 29th, 30th, 31st, and 32nd district tournaments will be tumultuous affairs. And so, too, is our prediction for the Region Eight tournament. We do have a tidbit, though, for Rog and Garf and Bill and the others, and that is to take those modest wagers on the Bemidji Lumberjacks, but we get those odds!

Correction

On several occasions we have mentioned that Johnny Mayasich, the former Minnesota All-American hockey star, is the player-coach of the Green Bay Bobcats of the Mid-America hockey league. That is not so. Mayasich is with KSTP in St. Paul, and plays and manages that team in the St. Paul park board league.

Mayasich, though does play, or has played a few games with the Bobcats. And he was instrumental in organizing the club, doing some recruiting for the team.

We have learned, too, that Jackie Poole was not injured too severely when he crashed into a goal-post a few weeks ago. X-rays taken of Jack's back and hip failed to reveal any fractures, but the painful bruises he received in the mishap will keep him out of action for a week or ten days.

Senior Hockey Thieves Edge G. Forks 5-4

Steenerson's Goal Breaks 4 to 4 Tie Near End of Game

Allen Steenerson's goal, nipped into the lower right hand corner of the north cage at the 16:15 mark of the third period broke a 4-all deadlock and gave the senior hockey Thieves a 5 to 4 win over the Grand Forks Jets in a Northwest hockey league game played on the Arena ice sheet Sunday afternoon.

The Thieves will have a busy schedule next weekend, playing the Roseau Cloverleafs at Roseau on Saturday night, and traveling to Grand Forks for a return game with the Jets on Sunday afternoon.

In Sunday's entertaining tilt here, the Thieves held a 3 to 0 lead entering the final period, but the Jets, opened the third period scoring when John Knauf scored at 2:11. Wendy Johnson boosted the locals lead to 4 to 1, with Steenerson assisting. Grand Forks notched three goals, with Ron Geatz scoring on a solo-rush at the 10:52 mark when the Thieves held a man advantage, to even the game at 4-all.

In the game-winning effort, Paul Bedard, from the right point, flipped the puck to Monty Markstrom, the Roseau veteran who was making his first appearance of the season for the Thieves, and markstrom fed a pass to Steenerson, who beat goalie Cooper.

Ken Sauve in the nets for the Thieves played a strong game, booting out twenty-seven on-goal shots, and several times foiled solo rushes that carried to the goal-mouth.

Postage Due Five Cent Penalty Fee Suspension Holds

Application of Fee Is Halted Pending Possible Congressional Action

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced today that he has ordered indefinite suspension of the 5-cent charge on "short paid" mail (mail with insufficient postage.)

The extension of the deferment has been ordered as a result of Congressional action designed to abolish the extra charge permanently by legislation.

Public law 85-371, effective July 1, 1958, provided that a short paid charge in addition to the lawful postage should be collected from the addressee on delivery of mail not fully prepaid by the sender to cover the costs incurred. The 5-cent charge was adopted to cover the costs.

However, under authority contained in the law, the postoffice department, on August 1, suspended the 5-cent charge pending, further study. This suspension had been scheduled to terminate Feb. 1, but will now be continued for an indefinite period, until a final Congressional decision on the matter is forthcoming, Summerfield explained.

The 5-cent short paid charge should not be confused with regular "postage due charges" for unpaid mail or mail bearing insufficient postage, Summerfield pointed out.

Postage due charges are not involved in the present deferments. For example, an ordinary first-class letter with a 3-cent stamp instead of the required 4-cent stamp is still subject to a penny postage due charge.

Farmers Reminded of Social Security Tax Due on Farm Workers

George O. Lethert, director of internal revenue for the St. Paul district, stated today that January 31 is the deadline for reporting the cash wages paid in 1958 to farm employees.

Farm operators or farm owners must file an employer's annual tax return, Form 943, if they had a farm employee who worked for them on 20 or more days during 1958 for cash wages computed on a time basis, regardless of the amount of such wages.

For 1958, the social security tax rate is 4½% (2¼% each for employer and employee). This tax applies to cash wages paid to a farm worker up to a total of $4200 in the year. The tax amount must be entered on Form 943 (employer's annual tax return for agricultural employees) together with the total amount of cash wages paid to the farm worker.

It is required that the farm employer do this and file the return with the district director of internal revenue at St. Paul on or before January 31. For 1959, the social security tax rate will be 5% (2½% each for employer and employee). For 1959 and years thereafter this tax will apply to cash wages paid to a farm worker up to a total of $4800 in the year.

Mr. Lethert points out that in determining whether a farm employee meets the "20 day a year" test, the farm employer should count only days for which the employer works for cash wages figured on a time basis. However, if the worker meets this test, the farm employer must pay social security taxes on all cash wages paid the employee during the year (whether on a time, piecework or other basis).

Farm employees include household workers if they are employed on a farm operated for profit.

Veterinarians to Hold Convention

Annual Meeting Set for Minneapolis Jan. 26-28

Minnesota's 600,000,000 livestock and poultry industry becomes increasingly important as the population of the country increases—and so does the need for protecting this industry against disease losses.

The continuing drive against epidemic animal diseases that threaten livestock income will be further intensified when 600 members of the Minnesota State Veterinary Society meet in Minneapolis, January 26, 27, 28, to discuss new techniques and increased cooperative effort to seal off and control outbreaks before they spread.

The meeting will attract experts on diseases currently causing losses in other states and always a threat to Minnesota, who will describe the newest findings of science and procedures for detection and treatment, especially the need for early detection and fast action.

That Minnesota has not been the victim of disastrous livestock plagues in recent years is due in part to the continual vigilance of both the livestock raiser and the professional veterinarian in detecting symptoms early and moving fast before any outbreak can gain headway. Delays can be dangerous.

Playing an important part in this cooperative effort to stamp out dangerous diseases is the Veterinarians' statewide warning system, by which all veterinarians in Minnesota are immediately alerted any time any disease is discovered at any point in the state.

Language Story to Be Told on TV

Bell Co. Will Telecast Show on KNOX-TV Monday

"The Alphabet Conspiracy", the story of language, how and why people talk as they do, will be telecast next Monday over NBC-TV at 6:30 p.m.

George Hale, Northwestern Bell Telephone company local manager, said Thief River Falls residents may see the hour-long new Bell System science series program about the science of linguistics over KNOX-TV, channel 10.

Dr. Frank C. Baxter is featured in the program, which shows a fantasy in which Hans Conried, Cheryl Callaway and Dolores Starr plot to kill all the letters in the alphabet and thus destroy all words. But they are foiled by Dr. Baxter as the scientist who shows them many facts about language that they had never considered.

One is that language is based on sounds rather than alphabets, and that man has been talking for 70 times as many centuries as he has been writing. Another is that a machine that actually talks was invented as early as 1780 and that there is a modern machine that produces rather than reproduces speech. A third is that the home areas of people can be located with surprising accuracy by their speech.

Both animation and scientific motion pictures are used to illustrate this story of language. Among the latter are motion pictures of the vocal cords in action and of the unique whistling language of the Canary Islands.

Color prints of the 16mm film will be made available to schools and other interested organizations for showing after the telecast. Arrangements for obtaining the film may be made through local Northwestern Bell Telephone company business offices.

"In This Together"

Ross Thorfinnson, Soo Line vice president in charge of traffic, was the speaker at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening and we liked his talk. Developing the theme, "We Are In This Together," he pointed up the importance of Thief River Falls to the company and the importance of the company to Thief River Falls.

The importance of the Soo Line to Thief River Falls is not generally appreciated by citizens of our community. It is our biggest payroll. In 1958 there were 211 employees on the local payroll which totalled $1,260,000. Most of these employees are home owners and taxpayers. All of them are customers. Those payroll dollars pass through the hands of others several times before they leave us.

It probably is fair to say that Thief River Falls needs the Soo Line more than the Soo Line needs Thief River Falls. Losing a Thief River Falls would not be a crippling blow to the Soo Line operation. For Thief River Falls the loss of the Soo Line payroll and the activities it generates would be a serious setback.

Mr. Thorfinnson thinks the company is not getting its due share of the community's transportation business, and we agree with him. On this point, however, it is our opinion that the Soo Line is itself largely to blame for its failure to get its fair share of the volume. The Thursday evening program could have been more interesting if it had been presented on a less formal occasion with an opportunity for discussion of some of the questions that are involved.

We are sure, for instance, that the future of Thief River Falls would not be bright if the community rejected all other forms of transportation except that offered by the railroads. In a comparatively short time we would start shrinking into speedy oblivion. To say that we should not support an airport because it invites competition for the railroads would be just as shortsighted in the light of modern trends as it would be to say we want no highways because highways encourage trucking.

We are satisfied that the best interests of the Soo Line are served as Thief River Falls provides a complete service for the needs of the area in which it is located. It should be a good, competitive market, to distribute the products that are needed and to provide facilities for the processing and handling of that which is produced. It needs schools and churches, and recreational and health facilities. And it should provide whatever kind of transportation facilities the people of the area would like to have. The more complete our services and facilities in Thief River Falls, and the less our people are required to travel to a distant community to secure the kind of services and facilities they want, the greater will be the opportunities of all our businesses and industries, including the Soo Line, to expand.

Mr. Thorfinnson's talk served a good purpose because it pointed up the interests the community has in common with the Soo Line. It also served a good purpose by bringing into the open some of the questions on which there may be reasonable differences of opinion.

We hope arrangements will be made for a return engagement, under less formal circumstances, when these matters could be discussed. As we have stated, we think the Soo Line has brought upon itself some of its problems. You do not win wars by continually retreating and many of us who are sitting on the sidelines would welcome a counteroffensive. We say this in the spirit of Mr. Thorfinnson's frank talk and his theme, "We Are In This Together."

Why Should It Be For Free?

Ten years ago the average tuition fee in the Ivy League colleges was $600. Substantial increases this year has brought the average up to more than $1,400. That is a lot of money for those who don't have it. For the well-to-do it is not a difficult obstacle in the process of getting an education.

Here in Minnesota we operate our public colleges and the university on the theory that we have no well-to-do families who can afford to pay for their children's education. The burden is shifted to the taxpayer. The taxpayer gets no sympathetic consideration.

We like the idea of making our schools available for all who have the aptitude and the inclination to absorb higher education but we can see no justification for giving college degrees to all who are willing to attend classes, at the expense of the taxpayer. It strikes us as being fair that those who have the means should pay the total cost, providing that those who are not able to pay cash may buy their schooling on credit. Those who receive their education on credit now would replenish the revolving fund as they acquired earning power and thus help make schooling available for the next crop of young people who would need help.

What's wrong with that?

Let's Think It Over

In our opinion the best answer the legislature could come up with for Governor Freeman's program of increased spending and higher taxes would be a decision to think it over for a couple of years. We are sure we could survive such an interval of time without any serious adverse consequences.

There is no emergency that makes it necessary to act hastily on any of his proposals, and by deferring final action until they meet again in 1961 the members probably would be able to come up with more sensible solutions for some of our problems.

Orville might come to a more moderate conclusion too if he gave the overall problem more thought. The lad has the understandable enthusiasm of youth. In time he too will learn that it sometimes is better to live within our means, and that the good things we would like to have but cannot afford now probably should be postponed at least until we get our overdraft at the bank taken care of.

It has been pleasant to have comrade Mikoyan with us. He has handled himself well under some rather trying conditions. In moving about among us he has made no pretense to being other than what he is, a sharp trader, and we like him for it. But we will be glad when he is safely on his way back home, out of range from some crackpot's rifle. As we recall it, one murder started the first world war.

A Race No One Could Lose

(Milwaukee Journal)

Premier Khrushchev's forecast that the Soviet Union will outstrip the western powers, and most specifically the United States, in the race for a better standard of living gets more attention now than it used to a few years ago.

The Soviet Union has shown that it has the ability to produce. In many scientific fields the Communists already lead the west. . . .

There is no reason to fear competition like this. We have our abilities, too, and start with a strong lead in the matter of standards of living. Given an understanding of the challenge and a sense of urgency this country and its allies can hold their own.

But beyond that, as Vice-President Nixon said in London the other day, "In such a contest, no one could really lose. The world would be infinitely better off if man's energies were used for the welfare of families rather than the building of armies."

What a world this could be if everyone in it was dedicated to improving the lot of man instead of the power of bombs.

The $4-Billion Question

(Hoard's Dairyman)

Truman Torgerson is known as a fighter.—Years ago he was a national intercollegiate boxing champion. He won many "fightingest fighter" awards. Today, he manages one of the most successful dairy cooperatives in the nation and is president of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture Cooperatives.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the council recently, he asked this significant question of the 500 delegates present:

"Are we willing to bury our pride, submerge our personalities, and form a federation of cooperatives to form a base for a market structure of that part of agriculture in which we operate?"

That was the big question but then he went on with supplementary questions which cooperative leaders could ask themselves:

"As a leader, am I courageous enough to take a forward position that will enhance the over-all position of farmers and cooperatives?

"Do I recognize a basic agricultural problem that production has outstripped marketing techniques?

"Will I forcibly bring home to those with whom I work that we must gear ourselves to changed environment or else the government or corporations will do the job for us?

"Will we be willing to serve the needs of larger farms or will we drive them out of our organizations?

"If we cannot rise to the occasion ourselves, will we be big enough not to hold back those we represent?

"Do we recognize that the farmer is becoming increasingly dependent for success on off-farm services?

"Are we willing to achieve these answers before going to our government for help?"

In our opinion, Torgerson has asked the $4-billion question. That is the stake we have in the dairy industry as we realize annually a gross income from the sale of milk and cream in excess of the $4-billion figure.

Without the federation of cooperatives proposed by Torgerson dairy farming will become more and more involved in government controls, direct payments, and other attending provisions of government farm programs. Only through united, federal action and effective control by cooperatives over milk and cream going to market can government interference and dominance be prevented.

Thus far, dairy cooperatives have apparently lacked the vision and the vigor to rise to today's challenge. They often operate effectively and well on local and regional bases but fail to provide adequate farm income nationally because of lack of coordinated effort. Thus far there is no strength through unity on the national level.

WHEN the Republican National Committee meets in Washington to re-align the party policies and kick off the 1960 Presidential election campaign, it will be presented with a mass of figures and statistical evidence relative to the part labor unions played in the November elections.

Informed sources indicate there will be deep changes in party strategy, as there must be. Observers are convinced that it was the efforts of organized labor which turned what might have been a close November election into an impressive Democratic sweep.

The right-to-work proposal on the ballots of six states hurt Republican candidates, not only in these states, but in neighboring states as well. Republican identification with right-to-work programs, coming at a time when people were still concerned with recession, cost the party many votes. Despite the fact that high administration officials, including those in the White House, assured the people that the economy was recovering, the recession was a major issue at the polls.

Some party leaders are convinced that it was the efforts of organized labor which caused the Republicans to lose the big cities by wide margins. They dropped 28 of 65 Congressional seats from urban areas. Democratic efforts, backed up with solid support from labor organizations, proved too much of a hurdle for Republican candidates.

One of the biggest tasks facing the Republican party, observers say, is that of impressing all party leaders and party professionals with the significance of the Democratic victory and the factors that were responsible for it. Republican staffers have been busy since the election last November, gathering a mountain of evidence which they will present to the National Committee meeting. Two things are certain to come out of the meeting: First, the party will realize that it must find new sources of campaign money to match the combined resources of the Democratic Party and the Unions. Second, the party must begin campaigning immediately for the election two years hence.

Washington observers believe the Democrats will work to strengthen their position with a wide-scope legislative program which goes beyond that already outlined. This is based on the fact that new "liberal" Democrat leaders are impressed with the strength of labor support and convinced that the South can be dealt with more strongly on civil rights, inasmuch as Southerners have nowhere else to turn at election time.

This is the pattern that develops. But, it may not be as simple as it appears. Such a pattern is based upon the ability of the new "liberal" Democrats to curb the Southern Senators and the many Congressional Committees whose chairmen are Southerners.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

The Budget Message

The budget message I presented to the legislature last week contained my recommendations for programs for state services during the next two years, and my recommendations for a tax program to pay for those services. Most people are in favor of the services. They are concerned about how to pay for them, and the greatest public interest was therefore expressed in regard to the tax program.

Increased Taxes

My recommendations for additional revenue included increases in the kinds of taxes we already have, rather than the imposition of new taxes. The one that will affect most people is the recommended increase in individual income tax. Therefore I want to illustrate here just what that tax will mean to the average Minnesota family.

The Average Family

The average family has an income of about $5,000 a year. If this family has three children the total income tax under the increased rates that I recommend would be $81.18 a year. This amount is not the increase, it is the total tax liability under the new rates.

What Does This Buy?

The money from the individual income tax goes primarily to pay for the state's share of the current operating cost of our public schools. That average cost in Minnesota is more than $300 per pupil per year, and of this amount the state supplies more than $130.00. Thus if two of the children of this average family were attending school, the state would be contributing $260.00 toward their education. I believe that most parents would regard this expenditure of $81.18 as a very good buy.

Compared with other Purchases

Most of us cannot afford to buy everything we want, and so we need to compare values. When we go shopping, and must make a choice, we usually do it on the basis of either what we need the most or what we regard as the better value. Let's consider what this average family might choose for $81.18 a year.

I think there would be little argument but that education for the children would be a greater need than anything else that could be purchased for $81.18.

Other Comparisons

This annual income tax for the average family, under the rates I recommend, would amount to $1.56 a week. Compare that with an evening at the movies, or a haircut. It amounts to less than 23c a day, which might be the cost of one order of coffee and doughnuts. Thus if we look at taxes in terms of what they buy, the way we look at our other expenditures, they seem to represent the best bargain we can get.

Pay-As-You-Go

One very important part of my recommendations is the adoption of the pay-as-you-go or withholding method of collecting income taxes. This has two major advantages. One is obvious. It is much easier for the taxpayer to pay this $1.56 a week than it is to pay a lump sum of $81.18. The other advantage is that by this payroll deduction method we are able to collect their fair share of taxes from many who now escape their obligations by failing to file an income tax return.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

Being a Teenager is Confusing!

John was bewildered. He really felt quite grown up . . . almost out of high school and almost ready for his first full time job. But, on the other hand, soon he would have the expense of his own car and then probably marriage, a home and a family. Gosh, it would be fun to stay in high school and keep on having fun. But, one cannot remain a youngster forever, he reminded himself. And it was rewarding, too, being treasurer of his club and earning money with his paper route and his job at the grocery store. But, it was confusing. John's parents were bewildered, too. Sometimes he acted so grown up and sometimes he was so childish.

John and his parents are facing typical problems of the teenager and his time of growing up to adulthood. A recent study showed that many teenagers have mixed feelings about growing up. On the one hand, they want to accept the duties and pleasures of being adults. But, on the other, they feel uncomfortable and unready for some responsibilities and would like to enjoy the protection and guidance of their families a little longer.

Parents have the same problems. They are proud of the accomplishments of their adolescent son or daughter who is showing strong signs of becoming a successful, self-supporting person. But, many parents have enjoyed the years and years of support and guidance necessary to do a good job of parenting. They do not look forward to losing their "babies."

One parent put it very well. He explained, "I have got to go easy with my teenage son . . . to watch and be patient . . . and to try to understand Bill from his own point of view. If he acts confused, I sit down and talk the matter over with him. I don't try to sound like I know the answers for I don't. But I try to show him I am willing to help him find the best solution for himself. Showing him respect and understanding helps him stand on his own feet."

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Esther Tierney, Freehold, N. Y.: Whenever I see a rooster I invariably chuckle. It brings back the time I set fire to Mrs. Scutt's rooster.

One of my daily chores as a child was to get the mail. Mrs. Scutt, who lived along the road, had an ugly rooster that made my life miserable. He would come charging out at me like a miniature cyclone with murder in his beady eyes. I always provided myself with a weapon of some sort if he was on the landscape.

On this particular day I had scanned the land and decided that he must be in the coop. So I was without protection and totally unprepared when suddenly I heard his ugly chuckle behind me. I had, however, a box of kitchen matches which my grandmother had wanted from the store. There was only one thing to do and I did it. With all my strength I heaved the box of matches at him. They landed smack dab under him and as they landed they exploded and burst into flames. He jumped higher than my head, screeching like a banshee. When he came down and took off for other parts his tail feathers were smoking.

From then on his spirit was broken. He was good for nothing. Nothing at all. Every hen in the flock pecked at him and very soon he landed on Mrs. Scutt's dinner table.

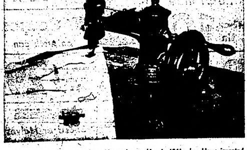
A Revolution in Sewing



For the first time, Milady could sew by machine in 1846 when Howe invented a machine like the one shown above.

Singer, in 1851, brought out a new machine that was greatly improved because it had a sliding bobbin. Howe's machine was not too practical because the thread would wind tighter and tighter on the bobbin until the thread broke.

John Milton, the poet, in his famous work "L'Allegro," suggested "Then to the spicy nut-brown ale." Today, no less than in Milton's time, beer and ale are beverages that belong. They are part of today's easy, relaxed informal way of living.
Bridal Background
Going to a shower? Amuse guests and bride-to-be with a run-down on the word "bridal." The noun bridal, meaning nuptial feast, comes from the Anglo-Saxon "Bride ale," which was a wedding celebration at which ale was the beverage. There were "church ales," much like our church bazaars. Our charity bazaars may have originated with the "give-ales" of the Middle Ages. These were ale festivals to raise money for some deserving person or cause. To insure good attendance, special brews were made up.
Farmers' Good Customer
Good friends and customers of Minnesota farmers are the local brewing firms in Minnesota. Last year the 13 Minnesota brewing firms purchased enough agricultural products from farmers to equal over 225 pounds of produce for every family in the state!
Serving tip: For real thirst-quenching satisfaction, try serving beer in pre-chilled glasses or mugs. Place the neck of the bottle or lip of the can over the edge of the glass and then tilt to a high angle, so the beer gurgles into the glass and a fine, dense, textured head results. You'll have a sparkling cool drink with just the right amount of creamy collar.

Males More Numerous Than Women in State

Males continue to outnumber females in Minnesota despite higher death rates among men, according to statistics from the section of vital statistics, Minnesota department of health.

The percentage of males in the state's population during 1957 was estimated at 50.2 percent, giving a masculine majority of approximately 18,234 in a total population estimated at 3,307,232. Male deaths during the year totaled 18,097, a figure 38 per cent greater than the number of female deaths and representing roughly 58 per cent of the total of 31,231 deaths.

The excess of males is partially explained by the fact that more boy than girl babies are born annually. Vital statistics records show that 51.4 per cent of the births during the past 42 years were boys. A total of 48,877 boy babies, 51.0 per cent of a record [illegible] live births, were born in 1957.

In earlier years, the excess resulting from the birth ratio was augmented by an excess of males among immigrants coming into the state, a situation which no longer exists. In 1920, for example, 52.4 per cent of the state's residents were male.

During 1957, male mortality was greater than female mortality in all age categories up to 80 years. Between the ages of 10-24, 40-49, and 55-59 years, male deaths exceeded female deaths by 100 per cent or more. Median age at death (the point dividing the total number of deaths into two equal groups by age) was 69.1 years for men and 73.5 years for women.

In marked contrast, the 1920 medians were 47.9 years for males and 45.3 years for females, an increase of 21.2 years for men and 28.2 years for women in 37 years.

A breakdown of 1957 mortality from several leading causes of death such as cancer, heart disease and accidents, also shows an excess of male deaths. Cancer victims included 2,556 males and 2,383 females; heart disease, 7,228 and 4,636; and accidents, 1,276 and 507.

The 1957 statistics also show that 1,369 persons died at ages of 90 or more. Nearly 300 were 95 or older at death and 30—ten men and 20 women—were 100 years or older. Deaths of children under one year totaled 1,978—1,142 boys and 834 girls—a figure greater than the total number of deaths in any age bracket up to 60 years.

Farm and Industry Forum at G. Forks February 18 and 19

Speakers and Displays on Program Sponsored by Valley Association

An areawide agricultural development forum will be held in Grand Forks February 18 and 19. Sponsored by the Red River Valley Resources Development association, the two-day event will include an area products and handicraft show. It will be open to the public.

The forum program will include a number of outstanding speakers, and area manufacturers will display their products all in an effort to focus greater interest and attention on the resources of the area.

Local communities will have exhibits designed to sell the attributes of each community as a good place to live, and as a potential site for industry.

To encourage hobbies and handicraft on an area level, exhibit space is available to individuals who wish to promote their hobbies, especially if these hobbies have a potential commercial development.

The Red River Valley Resources Development Association, formed last year by Northern State Power Company, Minnkota Power Cooperative and Otter Tail Power Company, is in charge of planning and executing the show. Inquiries for further information should be addressed to Mr. Wally Hjelmstad, Minnkota Power Cooperative, Inc., Grand Forks, North Dakota.

New State Egg Law Is Termed Success

None of 36,000,000 Rotten Eggs Come from Minnesota

None of the 36 million "rotten" eggs involved in a recent report by the U. S. Food and Drug administration were processed or frozen in Minnesota according to Byron G. Allen, state commissioner of agriculture, dairy and food.

This was in response to disclosures made January 14 by the U. S. food and drug administration that Americans are unwittingly consuming about three million dozen rotten eggs a year primarily in the form of bakery products. These eggs, it was pointed out, are infertile incubated eggs purchased from hatcheries by shady operators who process and sell them to unsuspecting bakeries. Such eggs are defined by State and Federal pure food laws as "adulterated" and must be smashed and mixed with substances which render them unfit for human food.

Upon inquiry, the state department was assured by the Minneapolis office of the Federal Food and Drug Administration that none of the illegal shipments of such eggs seized by them were processed in Minnesota.

Commissioner Allen stated that the new Minnesota egg law passed by the 1957 state legislature is a definite factor in preventing shady operations such as this from getting started in this state. Firms in this state engaged in the business of processing millions of pounds of frozen eggs annually are licensed by the state department and routinely inspected for compliance with high standards of sanitation and quality of the product being processed.

In addition, the majority of the frozen eggs processed in Minnesota are broken and packed under continuous federal inspection by the U. S. department of agriculture grading branch.

It was also pointed out by Commissioner Allen that bakeries are continually being inspected so as to insure their compliance with state sanitary and quality regulations.

State Job Offices Find Employment for 163,015 in '58

Total Placements Were Only 4.8 Pct. Less Than '57 in Spite of Recession

The Minnesota State Employment Service last year found 163,015 jobs for people looking for work, according to a year-end summary released today by Frank T. Starkey, commissioner of the department of employment security.

The report indicates that the recession year of 1958, with non-farm employment down by 15,000 workers, made the job placement task more difficult for the 33 State employment offices. Nevertheless, with 14,342, or 12 per cent fewer job orders from employers than the year previous, the total placements made by the Employment Service in 1958 were only 4.8 per cent below the 1957 total of 170,892.

Non-farm placements, at 94,462, represented 58 per cent of the jobs filled during 1958. Twelve of the 33 employment offices reported gains in finding people for non-farm jobs during 1958, while 16 offices bettered their 1957 record in professional and managerial, and clerical and sales jobs.

Year's end found the picture brightening with December non-farm placements totalling 6,681, up 31.3 per cent over the same month a year ago.

Quality Big Factor in Dairy Products

States Raising Standards; Minnesota Changes Due

How clean you keep your dairy equipment has a lot to do with how well Minnesota milk products compete in distant markets.

County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk and James H. Gholson, extension dairy products specialist at the University of Minnesota, point out that quality plays a big role in markets for dairy products manufactured in Minnesota and sold elsewhere.

In fact many plants and even state have raised quality standards for milk used in dairy products manufacturing. One of the dramatic effects of the U.S. department of agriculture dairy price support program has been quality improvement.

The higher standards on non-fat dry milk purchased by the government in the last two years has definitely resulted in higher quality raw milk. Yet, these regulations didn't cause any real hardship to the industry.

The trend toward higher quality will continue. We can look for higher raw material standards to meet the market's quality specifications. In fact, a hearing was scheduled for Jan. 22 in St. Paul by the Minnesota department of agriculture, dairy and food on proposals for changes in manufacturing milk quality standards.

Any changes in Minnesota regulations will depend upon the outcome of the hearing.

But whether the standards are changed or not, cleanliness will continue to be the answer to most quality problems. Almost every case when milk didn't get a No. 1 grade at the creamery, poorly-cleaned equipment has been the answer.

Expensive equipment simply won't substitute for milking utensils that have not been washed after milking.

Polk Co. Turkey Thieves Appear in Crookston Court

Three Are Charged with Theft of $2,800 Worth of Turkeys in Lengby Area

A turkey rustling gang which allegedly stole more than $2,800 worth of registered turkeys from the Lengby vicinity in Polk county recently appears to have been broken up with the arrest of a 19-year-old youth in Montana.

Donald R. Klinke, 19, appeared in municipal court in Crookston on a charge of first degree grand larceny in connection with the thefts. Preliminary hearing for Klinke was set for Jan. 26.

Two other men, Melvin E. Clark, 26, Mahnomen, and Bruce W. Luhman, 19, Lengby, appeared earlier on larceny charges and were bound over to Polk county district court for trial.

Klinke's bond was set at $1,000. Clark and Luhman are free on $500 bond each.

Charges were brought against the three by Verner Pearson, Lengby farmer, who complained the trio took 142 turkeys valued at $2,840 while Klinke was employed by him.

Pearson said each turkey hen produced about $18 worth of high quality fertile eggs each month.

Klinke was returned to Crookston from Butte, Mont., where he was arrested after an alarm had been broadcast. Four Lengby and Fosston area youths who were with Klinke at the time of his arrest, returned with him but were released after questioning.

The airline carried a total of 302,131 ton miles of mail, of which 83,754 ton miles was regular surface mail. This was a 14 per cent increase over 1957. North Central hauled 406,478 ton miles of air express during 1958, a 12 per cent increase.

North Central will inaugurate service to 11 new cities in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota March 1. The new service will increase the airline's route mileage from 3,471 to 4,987, and the number of certificated cities from 53 to 65.

1959 Mothers' March Set for Next Thursday

Large Group to Seek Funds for National Foundation Drive

The Mothers' March, staged annually on a nation-wide basis under the sponsorship of the National Foundation, will be conducted in the Thief River Falls residential district Thursday evening, Jan. 29, under the direction of Mrs. Frank Bond, it was announced today by Mrs. Henry Bothman, county chairman of the campaign.

Members of nearly 30 local women's organizations have been invited to assist in the drive, Mrs. Bond said, and any others who may not have been contacted are invited to take part. The solicitors will assemble at the city Auditorium at 6:30, and coffee will be served after they complete their rounds.

The National Foundation, which originally devoted its efforts exclusively to combating polio, has broadened its program to include virus diseases, arthritis, birth defects and central nervous system disorders.

Speaking of the new program, C. W. Rodekuhr, chairman of the Pennington county chapter, stated:

"The experience of the National Foundation has qualified it to undertake these new goals. Like polio, arthritis and birth defects are diseases that cripple and often keep their victims from normal, productive lives. Expanded research in virus diseases is expected to throw new light on many diseases, since the program will be sufficiently flexible to move in whatever direction research leads.

"For 20 years the National Foundation has fought polio and brought about a preventive medicine. With the encouragement and support of the American people, physicians also made great advances in helping repair the damage done by polio thru rehabilitation. This experience will be useful in our new work."

The chapter will continue to assist local polio patients who need help, the chairman added, and in time will develop a patient aid program for victims of arthritis and birth defects thru 18 years of age.

Newfolden Clinic Money May Be Used for Home for Aged

Meeting Friday, Jan. 30, to Decide Disposition of $8,000 Accumulated

A meeting was called this week by the Newfolden Civic and Commerce association, to be held in the Newfolden school at 8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 30, to discuss the question of "Shall the present clinic fund become a fund for a home for the aged?"

Everyone in Newfolden and surrounding trade area is asked to attend the meeting and vote on the question, according to C. H. Cook, of the Newfolden C & C association.

The question of using the clinic fund for a home for the aged arose at a meeting held last Monday evening. The clinic committee reported to the association that after much study they had decided the most practical use of the clinic fund would be to apply it toward the building of a home for the aged.

The fund, which was originally intended to be used to build a clinic, has grown to over $8000, but for the past few years interest in building a clinic has lagged because of the shortage of doctors to man the clinic and the fact there are excellent medical facilities available within a very short distance of Newfolden.

Cook said refreshments will be served those present, following the vote on the question. He also said people who cannot attend the meeting may vote by card or letter to the Newfolden Civic and Commerce Assn., and that such votes should be received on or before Jan. 30, the meeting date.

$10,280 Funds of Community Chest Divided

Agency Uses up Its Reserve Fund to Make Distribution

Disbursements amounting to $10,280 were made Friday to agencies participating in the Pennington County Community Chest, Harold Storhaug, Chest secretary-treasurer announced today. The disbursements were made at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce offices, with Chest President Orin Green presiding, and members of the board of directors in attendance.

The $10,280 disbursements compares with $9,611.34 raised during the 1958 drive in the county. The discrepancy, Storhaug explained, lies in the fact the Chest officers had to tap a reserve fund which had been set aside at the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. by the Chest.

The fund is now virtually exhausted as the result of withdrawals needed to make the disbursements.

The agencies receiving Community Chest funds, and amounts, were announced as follows: Lake Agassiz council, Boy Scouts, $3500; Thief River Falls Chapter, Girl Scouts, $2300; Salvation Army, $3000; N.W. Minn. Association for Retarded Children, $750; Minnesota Chapter, Children's Home Society, $400, and Arthritis and Rheumatism foundation, $330.

Storhaug said a meeting will be called within a month or so by the Chest president to draw up a slate of candidates to be elected at the annual meeting, which will probably be held in April.

The Silver Leaf Farmers Union local will meet at the Silverton Hall on Tuesday, Jan. 27. Cy Carpenter will speak. There will also be convention reports, musical numbers and door prizes. The Junior Reserves will meet at 8 o'clock and the Union meeting at 8:30.

Homemakers Share in Seed and Feed Show

Demonstrations of Electronic Cooking January 29 and 30

Homemakers in and around Pennington county are in for a real treat next week when they visit the Thief River Falls Seed and Feed Show. This event will be held Thursday, January 29, and Friday, January 30, in the city Auditorium. A special homemakers program has been planned for both days. Electronic oven demonstrations will be given at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and again at 1:30 p.m. on Friday.

Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, home service director, Northern States Power, Fargo, North Dakota, will present a program on the "Home of Tomorrow," at 2:00 P.M., Friday, January 30.

The electronic oven will demonstrate the beginning of a completely new era in cooking. Electronics in the field of cooking is perhaps the newest publicized use of microwave energy.

It is almost unbelievable how quickly foods will cook in the electronic oven, said Home Agent Roberta LeBourveau. A ten pound turkey roasts in just one hour; a five pound rolled beef roast, takes only 25 minutes to cook and a layer cake bakes in six minutes. Bacon cooks in 90 seconds, coffee in 35 seconds and an egg takes only 20 seconds.

A kitchen will remain cool, while cooking with an electronic oven because only the food gets hot.

The oven cooks nearly everything that is now cooked on an entire range, top or oven. All the food is cooked on glass, paper or—good china. No metal pots or pans are used.

Food looks better and tastes better because it will be evenly cooked. Nutritionally—speaking, the food retains more of the important vitamins and minerals which are essential for good health.

A preview of the furnishings and equipment in the "Home of Tomorrow" also will be given by Mrs. Anderson on Friday. This interesting program will give the women a chance to visualize their future homes.

A special invitation is extended to the women of Thief River Falls to attend the homemakers program during the Seed and Feed Show.

City to Get $38,560 from State Highway Road-user Allotment

Apportionment of $8,108,428 to 50 Minnesota municipalities of over 5,000 in population, to be used for street construction and maintenance during 1959, was announced today by Minnesota Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman. Thief River Falls will receive $38,560.

These funds are to be used for work on those streets that have been designated as a part of the municipal state-aid street system and are not a part of any trunk highway. The state highway department has responsibility for construction and maintenance on streets within a city which are on the Minnesota trunk highway system. Municipal-state aid streets are designated jointly by the highway department and the governing bodies of the communities concerned.

The $8-million figure represents nine per cent of the state road-user fund, made of state motor vehicle license fees and gasoline tax imposed by the state, available to municipalities over 5,000 in population. Counties receive 29 per cent of this road-user fund, while 62 per cent goes for the state trunk highway system.

Below is a listing of the amounts northwestern Minnesota municipalities will get from the present apportionment. These amounts are distributed on the basis of a formula giving equal weight to population and money needs on the approved municipal and state aid street system.

Storm Sewer Hearing Is Set on February 9

Council Considers West Side Project in District No. 3

The city council at its regular meeting Tuesday night set Monday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. as the time for a hearing on the proposed storm sewer project in drainage district three.

Various proposals were examined by the council including the extent to which the storm sewer should be extended, funds to be used and assessments to be levied. The work in the west section of the city will tie in with the extension of Third st. W. as a part of the Highway 59 relocation.

In other action, the council heard the first reading of two amendments to the animal licensing ordinance. The first amendment would reduce the impounding time of dogs and other animals coming under the ordinance from two weeks to one week. The second would authorize the special officer to use a firearm or other means to dispose of wild or ferocious animals capable of contracting rabies which do not bear proof of licensing or inoculation and which are impossible to catch.

The employment of Jerome Skjerping, 421 First st. W., as assistant operator of the city sewage plant beginning Feb. 1 was approved by the council.

The Northern State bank and the Union State bank were designated the official depositories for city funds during the coming year, and the Thief River Falls Times was approved as the official city newspaper.

The request of the Curling club for the city to pay the costs of water and lights during the season was examined and a motion was passed that the city would pay the first $50 of this cost.

Action on the application of W. H. Wettenkamp for a permit to build a $17,000 service station to replace the present Cities Service station on Riverside ave. was deferred until plans are presented. Counselors Discuss High School Guidance Program at Rotary

The results of the guidance program adopted at Lincoln high school several years ago were presented to members of the Rotary club Monday noon by Dennis Bolle, high school guidance director. Miss Geraldine Overland, in charge of the guidance service recently made available for junior high school students, enlarged upon the objectives of such programs and the manner in which the service is directed.

A chart showing the enrollment in mathematics, sciences and foreign languages during the past three years indicated a substantial increase in the percentage of students taking these solid courses. In 1953, offered as a typical year prior to the adoption of the program, 43.7% of the students were enrolled in math courses. Slight gains were made in 1956 and 1957, the two first years of guidance, when the percentage increased to 48.5 and 50.6. The big jump came in 1958 when 66% of the students were taking math.

Enrollment in the science courses followed a similar pattern with 46.3% of the students taking science courses in 1953, 46.4% in 1956, 43.2% in 1957 and 60.3% in 1958. Of a total of 319 students taking science courses in 1958, 24 were enrolled in physics, 96 in chemistry, 156 in biology and 43 in vocational physics.

No foreign language was available to students in 1953 and only 21 were enrolled in Latin classes. In 1956 18 were enrolled in Spanish and 39 in Latin. In 1957 there were 7 in Spanish, 22 in French and 58 in Latin. The 1958 figures show 133 taking Spanish, 31 French and 80 Latin, adding up to about one-third of the student body.

In explaining the guidance program and its objectives Miss Overland stated that each student is considered as an individual. School records are becoming more complete and a file on the performance of each student, now available in most instances, is helpful in revealing special interests and aptitudes. The important thing is to develop in each student an understanding of himself and to help him adjust to his own personal and social problem, she said.

Rev. Otto Dale Is Speaker at Knox PTA Monday Night

Trinity Church Pastor Discusses Parent and Family Life Education

The Knox school PTA held its January meeting Monday evening at the school gymnasium with Dr. Darr Greene, president, presiding. Pastor Otto Dale of Trinity church led in devotions. Lester Gustafson introduced the Knox sixth grade string quartet, which offered several selections under the direction of James Solsten. Included in the quartet are Kathryn Lafrenz, violin; Judy Tillman, viola; Paulette Nereson, cello; and Peter Isaacson, bass viol.

Pastor Dale spoke on "Parent and Family Life Education" and stated that "Our children are a stewardship of God and He will demand an accounting of them."

He further stated, "We are to show evidence of our trust in our children to inspire their self-confidence, to be honest and truthful with them and to show it in our own standards of living."

As to discipline, Pastor Dale said he believed that to 'Spare the rod was to spoil the child,' but that punishing should be done in love when the parent is not angry.

Referring to teachers in relation to children, Pastor Dale suggested that a "pleasant teacher makes for a pleasant child when he comes home from school, and means the difference whether the child likes or dislikes school. Teachers should have a sincere love for children and not expect adult reactions from them. We should also appreciate our teachers for their talents and abilities in preparing our children for life. A teacher is in a position to influence or squelch the ambitions of children."

Coffee time was served by the third grade mothers, and the cookie jar was won by Miss Harstad's second grade class for the highest attendance of parents.

Dr. A. E. Jacobson Speaks Monday to Washington PTA

Discusses Possibility of Establishing Junior College in This City

The Washington school PTA at its meeting Monday evening heard a talk by Dr. A. E. Jacobson on the subject of the proposed junior college. He gave much interesting information on what a junior college is and the possibilities of its being located in this city.

He stated that a junior college in this area should consist of two years of liberal arts courses that would be fully accredited to any other major college.

He also disclosed that before application for the college can be made, there must be a two-thirds majority consent of the people.

He advised that the best way to show individual interest in the proposed college would be to write personal letters to the state legislators.

There was a short question and answer period following Dr. Jacobson's talk.

Three numbers were sung by a trio of Lincoln high school girls, and piano selections were played by Susan Kvikstad and John Peltier, also of Lincoln high school.

The program came to a close with a film about polio, arthritis and other crippling diseases.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Ronald Scullthorp.

Two Minor Mishaps in City Wednesday

One Motorist Tagged for Careless Driving

Only two minor accidents in the city to date this week have spoiled an otherwise quiet week traffic-wise, police said today. The mishaps, which caused only property damage, oddly enough occurred within minutes of each other and less than a block apart.

At 10:09 Wednesday morning a car driven by Douglas Gatheridge, Humboldt, struck the left rear fender of a car driven by Charles Kotaska, city, who had stopped for a red light at the Main av.—Third st. intersection. Damages were estimated at $100 to Kotaska's car and $35 to Gatheridge's.

Gatheridge was tagged for careless driving.

Just 18 minutes later at 10:27 a.m. a truck parked between Main and Knight avenues on W. Third st. rolled forward after its driver, Fred Phillips, city, got out, and struck a parked car owned by Gordon Gunderson, rt. 3, causing about $12 damages. There was no damage to the truck.

Ormond Johnson Named Municipal Band President

Six Persons Fined in Municipal Court

Two Rural Residents Penalized for Fighting

Six persons appeared Monday to furnish the grist for that day's municipal court mill, with the hearings held before Judge H. O. Chommie.

Two men, both arrested for fighting, were brought to court by Sheriff Charles Richards. Galen Dahlen, Goodridge, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $3.50 costs, while Duane R. Lian, rt. 2, Grygla, paid $10 plus $9.50 costs after his guilty plea to the same charge.

Three persons were brought in by the highway patrol. Clifford T. Swanson, rt. 5, pleaded guilty to going through a stop sign and was fined 10 plus $4 costs.

Jon O. Wennberg, city, was fined $12.50 plus $4 costs after pleading guilty to a speeding charge, while a guilty plea on a careless driving charge netted Maurice Bjorgan, Ulen, a $10 fine plus $4 costs.

The only city police case was that of Oliver E. Gullingsrud, city, who was fined $10 plus $1 after pleading guilty to running a stop sign.

Donald A. Huerd Williams, arrested by the city police for running a red light, forfeited $15 bond.

In addition to Bible study, there are courses in child psychology, pedagogy and Sunday School administration in the class. A certificate is given to those who complete the course, issued by the evangelical teacher training office at Wheaton, Illinois. The class is open to all. Pastor Joseph Swan is the teacher.

Open your purse and your mouth cautiously; and your stock of wealth and reputation shall, at least in repute, be great. —Zimmerman.

Jaycees Dispose of Variety of Matters at Meeting Tuesday

At the make-up meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening, the membership of the organization went on record supporting the establishment of a junior college in Thief River Falls.

The action followed a report by Dr. George Martin on the progress that has been made in the movement.

The next regional meeting of the Jaycees will be held tonight in Thief River Falls at the Legion club, Milo Gulbranson reported, and everyone was urged to attend.

A training school for Jaycees who have volunteered to man the civil defense rescue truck will be started soon with Quentin Jones as the instructor, the Jaycees learned.

N. H. Kortuem read a letter to the group from the Jaycees of Hawaii urging the local group to do everything possible to encourage the establishment of Hawaii as the 50th state.

Walter Kavanaugh, chairman of the Boss-Employe banquet, reported that a date has not yet been set for the event but that blanks for the nomination of outstanding young men for the Jaycee award would appear in this issue of the Times.

Jon Metuzalem, co-chairman of the agriculture committee, reported that work is now in progress to select the outstanding young farmer of the area for recognition, and Ken Onken, chairman of the "My True Security" project reported on that committee's work.

A window in the Ben Franklin store was donated to the Jaycees to promote Jaycee Week from Jan. 18-24, according to Ken Bickel, co-chairman of the observance. Bruce Hall, extension chairman, reported that Charter night for the Red Lake Falls chapter had been changed from Feb. 5 to Feb. 9.

Guests of the Jaycees at their meeting were Jerry Engle and Grimur Josafatsson, a merchandising trainee from Iceland.

Lions Club Hears Talk by Starekow on Junior College

Club Endorses Project Following Discussion by School Board President

Following an informative discussion by Dr. M. D. Starekow, president of the local board of education, of the possibility of establishing a junior college in Thief River Falls, the Lions club day noon adopted a resolution to give its individual and collective at its luncheon meeting Wednessupport to the project.

Dr. Starekow assured his hearers that the board of education, in backing the junior college movement, had not the least intention of slighting in any way the community's present elementary and secondary school facilities, which, he added, also are in need of expanded facilities.

He expressed the opinion that the local school district can afford to support a junior college, and pointed out that the world today needs better-educated people.

At the meeting it was indicated that 20 persons would represent the local club last night at charter night ceremonies for the Warren Lions club, sponsored by the local group.

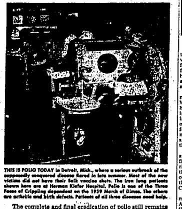
End of Polio Remains March of Dimes Goal



THIS IS POLIO TODAY in Detroit, Mich., where a serious outbreak of the supposedly conquered disease flared in late summer. Most of the new victims did not have their Salk vaccine shots. The iron lung patients shown here are at Herman Kiefer Hospital. Polio is one of the Three Faces of Crippling dependent on the 1959 March of Dimes. The others are arthritis and birth defects. Patients of all three diseases need help.

The complete and final eradication of polio still remains a prime concern of the National Foundation as it goes into its 21st annual March of Dimes.

The Salk vaccine, developed with March of Dimes funds, provides a powerful weapon for knocking out polio. With this victory in sight, even though not yet achieved, the National Foundation is preparing to march "Toward Greater Victories" in the realm of public health.

Initial new goals in this broad health program are arthritis and birth defects. But the National Foundation is still pledged to give patient aid to all polio victims past or future who need its help.

Estimates indicate some 150,000 survivors of paralytic polio might benefit from modern techniques of rehabilitation pioneered by the National Foundation. Some 60,000 are already on its chapters' patient aid rolls.

In polio research the National Foundation is seeking to increase the effectiveness of the Salk vaccine; indications are that it is 90 per cent effective with three properly spaced shots. Also being studied is a "live" virus vaccine that can be taken orally.

The Salk vaccine is a "dead" virus vaccine requiring a series of injections. Other National Foundation researchers are looking for better ways to lessen the crippling after-effects of polio.

While polio is on the run it is still crippling people more than three years after development of a preventive vaccine.

Accordingly, the National Foundation vaccination education program to prevent unnecessary crippling must continue and the stricken must be helped.

OVER THE BACK FENCE

By STAN PETERSON

Fuss and Fury

Two of the better rhubarbs of the past six months, both involving the city council, are due for airing during this month and, figuratively, there will be some heads cracked before the battles are over if present differences are not resolved.

"Discussion" on disagreement number 1 is scheduled for next Wednesday evening when members of the city council have been invited to attend a dinner meeting with Chamber of Commerce officials and, unless some ruffled feathers are soothed before dinner, there should be some king-size cases of indigestion before the participants leave.

The discussion will be over a suggested expansion of city offices into space in the Auditorium which is presently used by the Chamber for its offices. The council, at present, is divided on this proposed move but not the Chamber.

Some city officials wish to move some offices now in the Auditorium basement to the first floor. Reasons given for the shift are that records must be carried up and down the stairs, machines to be used are often on the first floor and that expanded city business and personnel make the present space too crowded.

Proponents of the move point out that the Chamber has been occupying the space rent-free and utilities-free and that the city also paid 50% of the remodeling costs of the Chamber quarters. Now that the city needs the space, they claim, the Chamber should give it up at an indefinite time in the future. They admit, however, that the exact amount of extra space needed by the city has not yet been determined.

The Chamber, on the other hand, points out that their efforts are for the good of the city and that other suitable space is not available. They reject the offer of a basement location as unsuitable.

Battle number 2 will be joined the evening of January 30, when bids on the proposed shop building at the airport are opened.

The pros and cons of this matter have been written and discussed enough that everyone should be familiar with the situation. Everyone, even remotely interested in the project has joined with one side or the other in the matter. There are few fence straddlers.

Councilmen are being praised or condemned for their stands, depending upon their judges' convictions, and the heat generated by "discussions" should have melted the snows of northwestern Minnesota by this time or at least raised the temperature of the area to a more respectable level.

Questions as to the legality of the construction, the cost of its financing, the value to the city and the area, the part which the council should take in providing educational facilities and other ramifications have been cussed and discussed. Tempers have flared and voices have been raised. Friendships have cooled momentarily and old differences have been renewed.

Meetings of civic bodies are usually rather dry and boring affairs and few taxpayers ever attend to see how their dollars are spent. May I suggest the evening of Jan. 30 as one which will prove both edifying and enjoyable.

No matter how these two discussions are finally resolved, it will be interesting to watch them as examples of democracy in action—the right of disputants to get together to thrash things out and arrive at a decision by discussion rather than by force.

Strandquist Man Found Dead Jan. 17

Victor Lefrooth, 81, Was Victim of Heart Attack

Victor Lefrooth, 81, of Strandquist, a retired farmer, was found dead Saturday evening, Jan. 17, in an outbuilding of his home.

Lefrooth, a pioneer resident of the area, had gone out to do his evening chores and had told his wife that he would possibly visit a neighbor. When he did not return for supper, his wife became alarmed and searched for him about 6:30 o'clock. Unable to find him, she returned to the house and her brother, Hedwin Holmgren, found him in the chicken house.

According to the attending physician, Lefrooth had a heart condition and had complained of dizzy spells recently. He was found to have a gash on the face which might have been caused by falling and striking his face on the edge of a feeding trough. The cause of death was listed as a heart attack.

Lefrooth sold his farm a few years ago and moved into town to live.

Funeral services were at the Bethesda church Wednesday afternoon.

Freeman Flays Auto Makers for Failure to Protect Safety

"There has been a failure to act properly on the part of the automobile manufacturers." Thus Governor Orville Freeman, speaking before the annual meeting of the Minnesota Safety Council, castigated the nation's automobile manufacturers in relation to safety in the design of cars. He further suggested that the term "irresponsible" applied to the manufacturers' failure to include such items as padded dashboards and safety belts on all cars as standard equipment.

He referred to his recent visit to a display of 1959 models and commented that he found few cars with padded dashboards and no evidence of seat belts included in display models. Governor Freeman said he believed that the public would accept such safety devices if they were presented in the proper manner and he felt that if manufacturers were truly sincere in their desire to aid the cause of traffic safety they would have included seat belts in their display models, especially in view of the fact that their own safety surveys indicated such a need.

Freeman pointed out that Minnesota pioneered in requiring by law that electric turn signals be included as standard equipment, and he expressed the hope that the state might pioneer in this area also be requiring that "seat belts should be installed in all new cars sold in Minnesota without exception."

He also recommended the inclusion of other safety devices such as padded dashboards and adequate safety door locks.

Freeman explained that his proposals were the same recommendations which had been presented to the 1959 legislature for its approval. Those proposals included periodic re-examination of all drivers upon renewal of their drivers licenses, an increase in the strength of the highway patrol by 96 men to put Minnesota more nearly in line with the national minimum standards.

Billion Dollars in U. S. Fire Losses Reported in '958

Fire damaged or destroyed an estimated $1,056,266,000 worth of property in the United States last year, the National Board of Fire Underwriters has reported. This is 3.2 per cent more than that for 1957, when estimated monthly losses total $1,023,190,000.

According to Lewis A. Vincent, NBFU's general manager, estimated losses for December totaled $100,523,000, an increase of 40.5 per cent over losses of $71,539,000, reported for November and an increase of 9.8 per cent over losses of $91,519,000 reported for December, 1957.

T8hese estimated losses include an allowance for uninsured and unreported losses.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

Referring to the recent action of the City Council in authorizing the construction of a vocational school building to house airplane mechanics trainees at the city airport.

If there is a demand for this sort of training in our vocational school setup, then the Board of Education should face up to its responsibilities and should be able to justify the cost of construction of the necessary facilities and assess such cost to the school system where it belongs.

We fail to see why the city of Thief River Falls should be pressured into building school buildings when they too will have to borrow the money to finance the project.

The refunding of present city bonds, which carry a low interest rate, by issuing new bonds at the present high rate will, in itself add thousands of dollars in additional city indebtedness for which we will get exactly nothing.

The matter of erecting a shop building at the city airport was proposed some two years ago by the same organization that is now pushing the project again. At that time it was proposed that the building would be financed with private local money and a long time lease would be granted by the city at no cost. The truth is, that no private money was available for this project and it never got off the ground. Why? You answer it.

The method employed in putting this one over was just another case of minority pressure groups applying pressure on public officials for quick action before the taxpayers can be heard from and many of us are plenty fed up.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA contact representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—My husband, a World War II veteran, died recently of complications from injuries received in service, and I wish to make application for death compensation payments. Will my present income have any bearing on my eligibility?

A—No. So long as you are otherwise eligible, you will receive death compensation payments regardless of your income. It is death pension payments, based on death not due to service, where income limitations apply.

Q—I have listed my mother as beneficiary of my GI insurance policy, and have designated that she receive the proceeds in a lump sum. Would she have the right to change to some other method of payment if she desired?

A—Yes. She may change the method of GI insurance payments from lump sum to any of several installment plans available.

Q—Is a peacetime veteran who is blind in both eyes eligible for special aid from VA, even though his blindness is not service-connected?

A—Yes. If the peacetime veteran is entitled to compensation for any service-connected disability, though not necessarily for his blindness, he may receive special aid such as approved electronic and mechanical equipment, as well as a seeing eye or guide dog.

Q—Now that is legally possible to convert my Korean GI term insurance to a permanent plan, I intend to do so. But what about some of the other advantages of permanent plan GI insurance? Will I be able to borrow on it?

A—Yes, provided your policy is in full force, under the law. The policy also will have other advantages of permanent plan insurance, such as a paid up and a cash surrender value, and, of course, a stable premium rate.

Stenberg Herd Shows High Production

A high producing dairy herd can return profits. Art Stenberg who farms one mile east of Thief River Falls has such a herd. In September, he completed one year of records. The D.H.I.A. tests show his herd averaged 412 lbs. of butterfat for the year. This was done with 10 two-year-olds, or first lactation heifers in the herd. The profit above feed cost on such a herd would be good even after the costs of buildings, equipment, bulk tank, interest or investment, and land charges are subtracted from the return over feed costs.

When this is done a herd like Stenberg's would average over two dollars per hour for labor, as shown by farm accounts kept by farmers. Since it is estimated that 100 hours of labor are required per cow, such animals with then make $200 per year. On a larger herd this means a good family living. Stenberg is milking 30 cows.

Art brought his herd along to the high production rate by purchasing good heifers from high producing dams. He now has five cows producing over 500 lbs. of butterfat and six other which did not have a full year of recording that may make 500 lbs. of fat.

Another attraction on the farm is a bull which is of Carnation breeding. Five of the bull's nearest dams produced 815 lbs. of fat per year. The bull was sired by Carnation Showboy, who is from an 803 lb. B.F. dam and is grandson of Governor of Carnation, which sired 146 daughters with records from 482 lbs. of fat to 1418 lbs.

A good dairy program consists of four parts, breeding, feeding, management and sanitation. If one of these goes out of order the production in the herd falls. To get a herd average over 400 lbs. of fat, as in the case of the Stenberg herd, close attention must have been given to all four points in the dairy program.

Lamb Feeding

Tranquilizers apparently don't reduce shrinkage in lambs during shipment, according to livestock scientist, R. M. Jordan, at the University of Minnesota. He says recent research showed that tranquilizer-treated lambs shipped to New York State had just as much "shrinkage" (weight loss) as did lambs not treated with the material. The same thing held true with lambs shipped from Greenbush to St. Paul.

Poultry Lighting

"Stimulighting" is a system for controlling light in the poultry house and which might mean a boost in egg production. According to R. W. Berg, University of Minnesota extension poultry specialist, it works this way: The chickens are raised from 1 to 20 weeks of age on 6 hours of light per day. After 20 weeks, the light is increased 15 minutes every week until about a year later, the house is lighted 24 hours per day. The system was developed in Alabama.

Barley Smut

Loose smut in barley comes from seed infection from the previous year. To prevent it, you need to use seed free of the organism, according to Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota. Fortunately, all certified barley seed has received the "hot water" or similar treatment which gives good control of the disease. So keep this in mind when ordering barley seed for spring planting.

Invited to Alaska Inaugural Ball

Mr. and Mrs. James Gunning of Fairbanks, Alaska, have been invited to attend the Alaskan inaugural ball to be held February 7 in the new state's capital at Juneau. Mrs. Gunning, the former Lois Grindeland of Thief River Falls, and her husband, have lived in Alaska the past five years, and own several business establishments in Fairbanks.

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Deep-rooted legumes have a definite place in the crop rotation. Jim Bernath, Hallock, cooperator in the Kittson county soil conservation district, plowed down 80 acres of alsike. He seeded wheat on this and another 80 acres where there had been alfalfa. When he harvested the wheat, he found the alfalfa ground out-yielded the alsike ground by about 4 bushels per acre. He has used 80 pounds of 11-48-0 fertilizer per acre.

Runoff from 6,000 acres had cut a 30-foot gully, 120 feet wide at the outlet of a ditch entering the Marsh River in Norman county. Then a group of farmers, the East Agassiz Soil Conservation district, combined forces, with cost sharing help through the Agricultural Conservation program, to lick the problem. The water is now safely dropped 25 feet through a pipe 42 inches in diameter and 136 feet long. It cost about $9,000. Next year, individual farms will get improved drainage systems.

Strip cropping, contour farming, a good soil fertility program and a well-planned crop rotation have solved the low yield problem on Robert P. Simonson's farm near Sanborn. According to Ernest Johnson, Redwood county agent, Simonson, who farms 360 acres, also put in a farm pond last summer, which collects water from 30 acres. As a result, Simonson now gets higher crop yields, has less wind and water erosion, has more good pasture through renovation, and grassed waterways make all land easily reached, through healing gullies.

Silt was collecting around the farm buildings and there was often water standing in the barnyard on the Paige Randall farm near LeSueur, a few years back. Then Randall put in a water diversion, a drop inlet structure, and constructed terraces, with help from Floyd Bellin, LeSueur county agent and Lynn Skaife, Soil Conservation Service worker. The silt problem has been ended.

Fast Time Bill Is Introduced in Legislature

Measure Calls for Statewide Vote on Question April 14

The voters of Minnesota would decide at a special election April 14 whether the state should have daylight saving time under a bill introduced in the Minnesota Legislature Tuesday.

"The issue of daylight saving time has generated deep-seated feelings and honest differences of opinion among our people," said Rep. D. D. Wozniak, St. Paul liberal who is principal sponsor of the measure.

Under the proposal, in which several rural legislators joined to sponsor, daylight saving time would extend from the last Sunday in May until Labor Day.

In other developments:

A prediction was made that a bill would be introduced to eliminate the 10 cents a pound tax on oleomargarine having a high vegetable oil content and the ban on sale of colored oleomargarine.

The Senate education committee delayed action until Friday on a bill to set up student loan funds at the five state colleges with assistance of federal funds.

The same committee set in motion machinery for election of four University of Minnesota regents at a Senate-House session Feb. 4.

The Senate finance committee heard an outline of budget requests for state hospitals, prisons and other institutions totaling $69,078,455. This is an increase of $10,160,022 over the amount appropriated two years ago.

It was Sen. John Zwach of Walnut Grove who predicted that an oleomargarine bill would be introduced. He said he would not offer such a proposal himself but that there is considerable pressure from growers of soybeans. Soybean oil is a principal ingredient of some oleomargarine of the kind that pays the 10 cent tax.

Only Minnesota and Wisconsin now have oleomargarine tax laws of this kind.

Terms of four University regents expire in February. They are Mrs. C. E. Howard of Excelsior, Lester A. Malkerson of Minneapolis, Dr. Charles W. Mayo of Rochester and Karl Neumeier of Stillwater. All except Neumeier have indicated they would accept re-election.

Pictures of pretty girls and mountain streams might represent various sections of this great country of ours, but visitors to the particular area shown above will know the spot instantly because it is the picturesque Little Pidgeon River.

Some 600 miles of mountain streams make this area excellent for trout fishing in the remote spots and many pools and dams offer swimming holes to the visitor.

Janice Sabo Wins Prize

The New Solum 4-H club met Thursday evening for their regular monthly meeting with Pres. Donovan Ranstrom conducting the business meeting which included, besides the usual reports, a review of the program booklets, a change of price for the lunch, which will now be 10 cents for 4-H members and 15 cents for adults. A dozen light bulb packages were distributed to be sold by the members to make some extra money for the club. Mrs. Elmer Kron had promised a prize to the 4-H member who, during the year, gave the most demonstrations; Janice Sabo, with a total of six, won the prize. For the program there was group singing and readings by Elaine Hellquist and Carolyn Copeland. The Emil Hellquist family served lunch.

Many readers of this column will be interested to hear about our former neighbors, the Christ Evensons of Springfield, Ore. Christ and Clara Evenson celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Dec. 2. There are 15 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren. We all wish for them continued good health and happiness. If anyone wishes to send them a belated greeting their address is 1010 51 Street, Springfield, Ore.

Prowler Six Defeats Warroad Tuesday 8-4

Center Dale Wennberg, getting a pair of goals in the first period and another pair of the goals in the third period, sparked the Prowlers to an important 8 to 4 win over the Warroad Warriors in a regional conference hockey game played here Tuesday night.

This week's schedule will find coach John Matchefts' club meeting the Williams Wolves in a regional conference game here Thursday night, and on Saturday night the colorful St. Paul Johnson high school sextet will play the Prowlers on the Arena rink.

The Prowlers jumped into a 3 to 0 lead in the first period of Tuesday night's tilt on the Arena ice sheet. Wennberg's opening goal, tipped off a Warroad defenseman's stick, hit the cage at the 5:08 mark. Arlan Hjelle, with Dale Holmes assisting, scored on a shot from a difficult angle at the 7:36 mark, with the Prowlers being shorthanded at the time. Wennberg's slap shot, from just inside the blue-line, gave the locals a 3 to 0 lead at the 11:32 mark.

The Warriors, with Jack Foster proving to be the ablest playmaker for coach Al Maki's squad, scored four goals in the middle second period. The Prowlers, on goals by Jerry Jorgensen, Hjelle, and Archie Schneider, left the ice at the end of the session holding a 6 to 4 lead.

In the third period, Wennberg, on some nimble stick-work, scored a pair of goals, getting the hat-trick plus one for the evening.

Explanation

Paul Bedard, the player-coach of the senior hockey Thieves, made one of his one-a-game solo rushes against the Grand Forks Jets on Sunday afternoon, carrying the puck to the goal-mouth, feinting goalie Cooper out of the crease, and then failed to score. Paul hit a goal post.

When asked for an explanation as to why he, an expert marksman, failed to hit the wide-open net, Paul replied, "Well, the play was on the north goal, and as I made the shot I looked back at the scoreboard to see if they had marked up the goal. That was just enough to throw my shot off the mark."

And the fans are surely enjoying the Northwest hockey league games, especially those in which the Thieves, the Grand Forks Jets, the Roseau Cloverleafs, and the Crookston Pirates participate. The Fargo Flyers are a bit below the standard of the other four teams in the league.

In the Top Ten

In the St. Paul Pioneer Press weekly high school hockey poll, the Roseau Rams continue to be rated, and rightly, as the state's best. Coach John Matchefts' Prowlers are rated among the "top ten", being in tenth place. The top ten, and their records: Roseau (16-0), International Falls (12-2-1), Duluth Denfeld (12-0-2), Duluth Central (6-1-1), Minneapolis Roosevelt (15-3), Coleraine (8-3), Eveleth (10-2), Minneapolis Southwest (12-1-2), North St. Paul (7-0), and Thief River Falls (6-5).

Harvard's Gain; Minnesota's Loss

It has been reported to us that Crookston's stellar all-round athlete, Bill Taylor, will be headed toward Harvard for his higher education. And we hear, too, that Roseau's all-state high school hockey player, Jim Stordahl, will probably be playing his college hockey for the Harvard Crimson.

Taylor, who has been the spearhead of Crookston Pirate football, baseball, and basketball teams, and the track team, too, will surely be an asset to Harvard. And Roseau's Stordahl, who quarterbacked the Rams to an undefeated football season last fall, and who is apparently playmaking the Roseau's Rams to another state school championship, will be a fine addition to Harvard.

The two boys are exceptional students, and that is the reason that they have attracted the attention of the Harvard "scouts" in this area. That Bill and Jim are outstanding athletes only adds "frosting" to the cake.

The Mighty Have Fallen

Last week the Lawrence Lubitz rink was leading the city's American curling league with a record of three wins and no losses, and the Ed DeLap rink was leading the city's National curling league with a mark of three wins and no losses. The two rinks were rightly proud of their undefeated status. But there was a falling off this week!

On Monday night, the Ray (Streamline) Olson ring, ably skipped by Lloyd Brunsberg, upset the Lubitz rink, winning by a 6 to 4 score. We label that result an upset, but Charlie Smith of the Olson rink says that the result was fair and proper, and that his ring always curls better when Streamline isn't skipping.

And on Tuesday night, in a match that was deadlocked at 6-all entering the final end, the Tom Anderson rink defeated the DeLap quartet, 8 to 6.

Why not make a trip out to the Fair Grounds and watch a match or two? Curling isn't a spectator's sport, but it is interesting to get an inkling as to what all the sweeping is about.

Whips Greenbush 63 to 28 in Game Friday Evening

The Newfolden Nordics kept their season's slate clean last week by downing Greenbush, 63 to 28, to cop their ninth win, in a game played Friday evening at Newfolden. This was the second meeting between the two teams, the Nordics having won at Greenbush, 53 to 24, before Christmas. The "B" squad also won their ninth straight game as they squeezed by the Greenbush "B" team, 24 to 23.

Dennis Bakke was high point man for the evening with 25 points on 12 buckets and one charity toss, while Don Engelsrud was also in double figures for the Nordics with 14 points. Docken was high pointer for Greenbush with 9 points.

The Nordics piled up a 21 to 9 point lead at the first quarter as Dennis Bakke and Don Engelsrud score 13 and 7 points respectively. This advantage was increased to 37 to 16 by half-time. The third period score was 51 to 23.

The next 4 games are important to the Nordics as they meet Williams and Baudette for the only time during the season on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 23-24 in a two-game road trip. On Tuesday, Jan. 27, the Nordics entertain Warroad for the first game of two this season. Then on Friday, Jan. 30, the Nordics travel to Roseau for a second game, having defeated Roseau at home, 59 to 45 early in the season.

Sunnyrest San Costs Were Down Last Year, Says Supt. Flancher

The total cost of operating Sunnyrest sanatorium at Crookston last year was $109,778.61 as compared to $115,273.99 in 1957. This was in spite of increased cost of food stuffs, drugs and increase in salaries in the general operation of the institution, said Dr. L. H. Flancher, superintendent. Extensive improvements were carried out which will help to keep costs down in the future.

The cost to the six counties in the district, including Pennington, was $71,846.49.

During the past year, a change was made which affected the bed capacity of the sanatorium. The infirmary ward, or north wing, of the hospital on the second floor was made available to the Northwestern Mental Health Center, a new organization controlled by the six counties of the sanatorium district, with the addition of a few counties outside of the district.

Cash receipts were only slightly smaller than 1957, due to fewer out-of-county patients, and slightly smaller daily average of patients in the institution. Also more x-rays for Mantoux testing are now being done outside of the hospital (paid for by Seal sale funds) in order to save long trips for students and teachers.

The out-patient department, with a full time field nurse, Mrs. Mary Vattendahl in charge, under the direction of Dr. Flancher, superintendent and medical director, has continued its work throughout the year with a few changes. All people who receive x-ray at the sanatorium get a copy of the x-ray reading which is also sent to their family physician. All patients are shown their x-ray, if time permits, before they leave the sanatorium.

The Mantoux testing in the schools was almost completed by the end of the year. Dr. Flancher gave 10,132 tests, traveling 3,424 miles.

The daily average patient load has remained practically the same during the last three years: in 1956, 38; 1957, 34; and 1958, 30. "However, this does not tell the true story," said Dr. Flancher, "inasmuch as we discharged 43 patients and admitted 42, during the year. The last three months of the year showed 18 new admissions.

"It is unfortunate," he said, "that the impression has been made that tuberculosis is just about licked. Our experience here is that this is far from being true. This is also shown in various parts of the county, that, instead of decreasing, there is an increase in tuberculosis, especially among the older age group."

Whether he winds up with a nest egg or a goose egg will depend a lot on the chick he marries.

20 Died in Firearms Accidents During '58

During 1958 there were 147 firearms accidents, 20 of these resulting in death according to a report just released by Lee Kuluver, state firearms safety coordinator. In the major hunting fields of deer, duck, pheasant, and grouse there were 6 deaths and 54 injuries. During the 1957 major hunting seasons there 12 deaths and 54 injuries.

There were 63 self-inflicted wounds and 84 wounds inflicted by others. Only one of the 6 deaths for the major species was self-inflicted. Four of the remaining 14 deaths in miscellaneous shooting and hunting were self-inflicted. Miscellaneous shooting (mostly target and home accidents) accounted for 10 deaths and 49 injuries. The fact that there were just as many deaths non-hunting as in hunting brought a stern warning by Kuluvar to all parents and gun owners. "All guns around the home should be carefully checked and stored separately from ammunition to keep them safe from inquisitive youngster's hands. All youths under 14 years must be supervised by the parent or guardian when they have any kind of a firearm or air gun in their possession."

Minnesota youth firearms safety training program has now completed the training of 54,000 youths. The trained youth fared much better last year than the untrained youth, Kuluvar said. Seventy-two youths 18 or under shot themselves or someone else and only 11 of these had received training. A University of Minnesota study this fall made a comparison of the ages of people involved in accidents today as compared to a study 5 years ago. It was revealed that last year the median age was 21.2 years for the accident shooter; in 1953 it was 16 years. This is the first real indication that the training program is reducing accidents in the youthful ranks.

In 1953 there were only 5 handgun accidents; during 1958 there were 36. This is a 700 per cent increase due to the increased sale and interest in handguns brought about presumably by the TV westerns. Included were 11 "quick draw" practicers who shot themselves. The amazing thing is that the majority of these are adults. Kuluvar said, "We plan to step up our training and direct an all-out attack on proper handgun usage as a result of these findings."

Once again, according to the report, shotgun slug shooting during deer season did not appear to be a safety factor. There were 12 rifle accidents and 9 shotgun slug accidents. With many times more rifles in use it appears as if slugs are as dangerous if not more so, than rifles.

Kuluvar pointed out that in spite of an increase in hunters, hunting is definitely becoming much safer. Fairly accurate records on deaths have been kept for 15 years in the 4 major game areas.

VA Cites Rules on Life Insurance for Young GI's

Young veterans who first entered service after April 25, 1951, and who are now being discharged, cannot buy GI life insurance unless they have a service-connected disability.

W. R. Byrd, manager of Fargo VA center, said considerable misunderstanding exists on the subject.

Veterans leaving service with service-incurred disabilities and who are insurable except for those disabilities, may apply to VA for GI life insurance any time within one year after VA finds their disabilities are service-connected.

He said further information is available at any VA office.

"Every year I live I am more convinced that the waste of life lies in the love we have not given, the powers we have not used, the selfish prudence that will risk nothing, and which, shirking pain, misses happiness as well. No one ever yet was the poorer in the long run for having once in a lifetime 'let out all the length of all the reins'."

Help Them To Help Themselves

An official of the Interior Department said thank-you last week to the good people of the Twin Cities area who had responded to an appeal for aid for starving Indians on the Standing Rock reservation in the Dakotas. He pointed out however, that the need was greatly exaggerated. There were no starving Indians.

This much we had already assumed to be true. What we liked about this official's statement was his concluding remark that he hoped "the same charitable interest" would induce these contributors to help find employment for Standing Rock Indians in the Twin Cities area.

By this suggestion the Interior Department official revealed the real need of most of our backward and underprivileged young people. Various welfare agencies provide for their physical needs, sometimes too liberally. Generally, as far as the young people are concerned, they would be better off if they were forced to hustle to help themselves.

What they do need much more than free meals and financial assistance is recognition as fellow citizens who are deserving of employment opportunities. In this respect we probably could be more helpful hereabouts than we have been.

The Right Direction

Canadian ranchers liked the American market for range cattle last year. About 500,000 head were sold to American buyers, on all of which Uncle Sam collected a duty of up to 2½ cents a pound. But the Canadians sold themselves short and now the traffic is moving the other way with a heavy Canadian demand for grain-fattened cattle. And Canada collects 1½ cents a pound duty on these imports.

Last year Europeans bought 80 million pounds of American ready-to-cook broilers, an increase of 20 per cent over the 1957 total. The increase for 1959 is expected to be just as great percentage-wise.

Last year about two million tanned calfskins, one-fifth of the total used in our country, came from abroad. Some of these hides were bought in our country and shipped abroad for the tanning process, to be returned as the finished product.

Strange thing, this international trade. Sometimes it hurts us. Sometimes it helps us. It is an effective equalizer if the machinery of distribution is not monkeyed with.

There is much to be said in favor of the removal of all trade barriers, and if we do not destroy ourselves in the meantime, that probably will be the main accomplishment of a civilized, sensible world. Our country has achieved a high standard of living mainly because we have enjoyed a free exchange of goods and services among our 48 states. A group of European nations are now adopting such a program. They are moving in the right direction.

Moderates Prevail

The manner in which the Senate disposed of the highly controversial question on a proposed rule change that would make possible a more effective curb on unlimited debate indicates that Senator Lyndon Johnson, majority leader, has the situation well in hand. His compromise proposal prevailed by a vote of 72 to 22.

This was a victory for those who understand the need for moderation in dealing with regional problems involving the established order. Such changes imposed by a higher authority should come gradually.

The old rule, providing that debate could be limited only by a two-thirds vote of the membership of the Senate, has been abused. By filibustering, southern members time and again have thwarted attempts to force reforms of various kinds upon their states. There was justification for impatience among those who were sincerely concerned about the need for change. And the agitation of the zealots is understandable.

But Time is a great healer, and when problems of deep-rooted prejudice are being dealt with it sometimes is well to make progress cautiously. The issues are not important enough to involve us in another civil war. Eventually the questions will be resolved by peaceful means.

We can sleep more comfortably in the knowledge that a few of our hot-heads are not directing the course of the government.

Incentive Is Essential

Probably the most significant statement made by Soviet deputy Premier Mikoyan in his off-the-cuff comments around the country was his observation that the pure communes recently established in China will not work because they offer no incentive to effort. They had been tried in his own country, he said, but had failed.

This is a complete reversal of the original Communist doctrine of "from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs." Recognition of the importance of personal incentives is in effect an endorsement of the basic principle of capitalism. The significant thing about the Mikoyan comment was not the fact that the rulers of Soviet Russia had discovered this fact. The significant thing was the admission of the fact.

The government of Russia today is a dictatorship just as absolute and autocratic as was the government of any czar. A comparatively small number of chosen party members are the ruling class. The rank and file of the people have no voice in the government. This is the government Mikoyan speaks for.

His willingness to admit the obvious fact was refreshing as it was unusual.

Without Strings

Not all of the news coming out of St. Paul is bad these days. In his "Political Notes," Pioneer Press columnist Fred Neumeier predicts ". . . the university will not get a red cent this session for the construction of any new buildings across the river. The land will be cleared and used for parking purposes."

Minneapolis got its foot in the door with this deal two years ago when the legislature appropriated $1,500,000 for acquiring property for future university expansion. The estimated cost of the completed program was well over $100 million. The best way to get out of this mess would be to give the acquired property to the city as a gift—without any strings.

Bag Soon Empty

As was expected, Governor Freeman has repeated his proposal for a withholding provision for the collection of income taxes but has suggested a forgiveness clause that would reduce the penalty of double taxation by about 20 per cent. This still would give him a very substantial windfall to ease for the time being the pain of huge expenditure increases.

But two years from now there would be no windfall and additional revenue would have to be secured from old or new tax sources. Much of the state's present trouble is due to the trick financing that was resorted to two years ago. Fortunately the trick bag will soon be empty.

English Spelling

Representative Harlan Hagen of California has introduced a bill to establish a national grammar commission to reform the spelling of English words and to publish an official United States dictionary. Most of us will agree that there is a need for simplified spelling but there probably will be little support for the approach to the problem that is suggested by Representative Hagen.

In the first place English is an international language and international uniformity should be encouraged. It would not be in our best interests to develop a distinctive American version of the language.

And spelling reform should continue to be a gradual process. Progress is not perceptible because it has been gradual, but there has been progress and no doubt it will continue.

We are fortunate that English is rapidly becoming the international language. Because English is our language Americans have little difficulty making themselves understood in any country of the world. Let's leave it that way.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

from the Desk of
SENATOR
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

86th Congress opens—After two rather hectic weeks, the new 86th Congress is now settling down to its work on new legislation. Much of the opening period was occupied with our effort to improve the Senate's own procedures, through adopting a new rule governing limitation on debate. While many of us worked for a tighter rule permitting a constitutional majority to force a vote on any issue after reasonable period of debate, the compromise finally worked out in the Senate is an improvement over the previous Rule 22. Now, two-thirds of the Senators present and voting can terminate debate and end the filibuster. Before it required two-thirds of the total members of the Senate, regardless of how many were present. Furthermore, under the old rule there was no way to stop debate on a motion to bring us a change in the rules. Now, the same two-thirds standard applies to halting any filibuster on rules changes or on basic legislation.

New Committees — While liberal forces did not gain all they had hoped to achieve in the rules fight, we did accomplish substantial gains in new committee assignments. In my role as a member of the Democratic Steering committee, I helped work out the committee assignments for the large class of incoming Senators. Our own new Minnesota Senator, Eugene McCarthy, was given important assignments on the Senate Finance committee and on the Public Works committee. Of interest to our rural people will be the fact that any change in co-op tax legislation must come before the Finance committee of which Senator McCarthy is now a member. Between the two of us now Minnesota is represented on the agriculture, small business, foreign relations, government operations, finance, and public works committees, with McCarthy eventually to get one more committee. Few states have more representation on key committees. While my increasing seniority provided me with an opportunity to advance to the appropriations committee, I declined to leave the agriculture committee for the appropriations assignment.

Early Action Due—Early action is likely in the Senate on airport construction, housing, federal aid to areas of chronic unemployment, and labor-management reforms. The last Senate enacted legislation in all these areas only to be blocked by presidential veto. Now, sufficient majority may exist to override vetoes on some major issues. Support of the Senate leadership has been pledged in moving ahead without delay on these programs so vital toward getting our economy expanded into high gear again. A broad legislative program is being developed covering many areas, including agriculture, social security, education, and statehood for Hawaii, conservation, health and hospital measures, foreign policy, and small business.

The Newest of Everything Great! The Greatest of Everything New!

Smart looking? You bet! And comfortable, too!

Sure, styling is important in a new car. You expect a new car to be sleek and smart — but not at the expense of comfort. Yet in trying to design a car as low and modern looking as the Swept-Wing Dodge, some '59 cars have practically designed out the people. Not Dodge. It's designed around you. It's easier to get into (no protruding door posts), easier to get out of (no high door sills to trip over), more comfortable to sit in (there's room to spare). All this and Swivel Seats, too!

Since 9 out of 10 fires start in the kitchen, a fire extinguisher should be kept near that room's entrance. A foam type extinguisher is good because it fights any type of fire. Firemen Called

Thursday night, a bad chimney fire, started in the tavern operated by Merlin Nelson in the old hotel building. The fire department from Karlstad responded very quickly to a call which we are grateful. The chimney passes through 3 stories and, being old, could easily have cracked. Luckily snow was on the roof so the sparks couldn't do any damage. Before leaving town, the firemen had another call to the home of Edward Carlson. The house was filling up with smoke caused by the stove pipe in the basement sliding out of the chimney. They were afraid of fire between the walls.

Mrs. Leroy Anderson and Mrs. Ted Kimbrough visited with Mrs. Robert Koland at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Roy Anderson, in Karlstad Saturday and with Emily Carlson. Mrs. Koland has been hospitalized for a few days. Last Monday, she started off to help Mrs. Morris Koland celebrate her bithday and fell on the icy street. No bones were broken but the injuries are painful.

Besides having new homes built, some modernized and new streets opened this past year we are now having four new flourescent street lights put up in town.

A skating rink on the corner west of Myszkowskis store is being enjoyed very much by the youngsters. Much credit should be given to Morris Lindstrom, Leonard Torkelson, Les Walton and Mrs. Andrew Lagerquist for their work in getting it in fine shape. Hugh Nelson was out in the wee hours of the morning so his grandparents had to turn on their porch light for him to find his way!

Invitations have been received of the approaching marriage of Chester Yon of Bathgate, N. D., to Miss Joanne Miller of Cavalier, N. D. Chester is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Yon, formerly of Strandquist, and will graduate from the University of North Dakota this summer, where he has studied law.

SHETLER'S TURKEY HATCHERY SWEEPS '58 MINNESOTA TURKEY RANDOM SAMPLE MEAT PRODUCTION TEST

Yes, SHETLER'S hardy northern grown Schneider strain Broad Breasted Bronze placed first in almost every important economic phase of the 1958 Minnesota turkey meat production test in competition with some of the leading breeders and strains of B. B. Bronze and Broad Whites in the U. S.

Here is how our Schneider entry placed in the test:
1. Tied for highest livability
2. Highest in total weight (both live and dressed)
3. Most pounds of meat per poult started
4. Highest fertility
5. Highest dressed grade on B.B.B. Hens

Our entry produced 3 pounds more meat per poult started than the average of all other bronze entries; and 7½ pounds more than the Broad White entries.
Why not be sure in '59? Why not buy poults with proven livability, proven performance and that are proven profit makers. That's your best guarantee for success.
We offer poults both from Schneider and Schneider X Lyons strain crossed B.B.B. this year.
All poults will carry our usual 2 weeks livability guarantee.
Our prices are reasonable.

Call, write or stop in and place your order today.
We invite you to inspect our breeder flocks.

Area Rabies Control Discussed by State and Local Officials

Dr. Mark Field, member of the state livestock sanitary board, and Dr. J. G. Flint, executive secretary of the board, met Tuesday morning at the Rex Cafe with city and county health and law enforcement officers to discuss the problem of rabies control in the area. Dr. Paul Wendt, city and county health officer, presided.

The skunk seems to be the No. 1 problem. The records show that more skunks than all other animals combined are infected. In recent weeks four skunks were found to be rapid, being killed near Plummer, Oklee, Gatzke and Thief River Falls. Dr. Flint stated that healthy skunks would be in hibernation at this time and it would be reasonable to assume that any skunk moving about under present weather conditions would be rabid. The fact that it is up and about is an indication that it is disturbed, Dr. Flint said.

Vaccination of dogs has proven to be successful, no vaccinated dog having become infected to date. Cats are more apt to become infected than dogs, the officials reported.

Plans were discussed for a more thorough drive to bring the disease under control, the eradication of skunks being the prime objective. There probably will be continued strict enforcement of the order for immunization and control of pets in the city, and township officials will be asked to cooperate in order that controls may be extended, especially to the suburbs of Thief River Falls. Many farmers in the area have had their dogs vaccinated voluntarily, local officials reported.

National Security Top VFW Aim, Says State Commander

Eldon Sell Discusses Objectives at Area Meeting in This City

National security and Americanism top the list of legislative objectives of the Veterans of Foreign Wars during the 86th Congress, according to Eldon Sell, commander of the Department of Minnesota, VFW.

The programs of the VFW were outlined by Sell appearing at Thief River Falls Friday as part of the state-wide observance of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the veterans' organization.

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars", he said, "has always considered an adequate national defense and strong security measures as absolute necessities and, during the sixty years of its existence, has constantly worked toward that end."

He scored the proposed manpower cuts in the Army and Marine Corps and suggested an investigation of the Defense Department as one of the early duties of the 86th Congress.

Sell also listed the establishment of a veterans affairs committee in the Senate, opposition to any weakening of veterans preference in either state or federal civil service, and strengthening of the veterans hospital programs as other top objectives of the VFW.

Newfolden Set for Evening Classes

Three Courses to Start First Week in February

It seems pretty definite that the Newfolden community school will offer three evening adult courses beginning the first week in February as registrations are coming in for the courses which were announced.

Definitely approved by the state department of education is a vocational course in Easter flats (fabric), and Block Printing which will begin Feb. 5, and run for seven weeks. Persons interested in these fields are asked to register at the school by writing or calling the office. Mrs. Nealda Erickson, vocation home economics instructor, will teach this class. The registration fee is $2.00.

Seven persons have signed for the course in Woodworking or Crafts which will begin Monday, Feb. 2, in the industrial arts shop with G. Edwin Mounger as instructor. The class will be limited to the first 12 persons signing up and persons are urged to sign up soon and arrange with Mr. Mounger for any materials needed. This course will run for 10 weeks and the registration fee is $5.00.

Six persons have signed for typing instruction which will begin that same week and run for 12 weeks, each class of two hours duration. Typing books must be ordered for this class, so persons wishing to take the course are urged to sign at the office by writing or calling immediately. Mr. Curtis Tonneson will instruct the class. Registration fee is $5. There are still openings for 15 to 17 persons. The starting date and night to be used will be announced some time next week.

Vinegar Ranks High in Number of Uses

Ever wondered what manufactured food product has the most uses?

The answer is vinegar. Aside from its predominant use in salad dressing and meat sauces, vinegar is used to add piquancy to vegetables, casseroles and for pickling and preserving.

There are many other cooking uses you may not have heard about, and can use to advantage.

For example, tough meat can be tenderized by placing it for a few minutes in vinegar slightly diluted with water. Boiled ham is greatly improved in flavor if vinegar is added to the water it's boiled in. Poached eggs will hold firm if vinegar is added to the water. Cheese can be kept from molding by wrapping it in a vinegar-saturated cloth.

Objectionable greasiness of fried potatoes is prevented simply by adding a little vinegar to the grease. A teaspoon of vinegar added to boiling vegetables will make them more tender. And the odor of boiling cabbage won't spread through the house.

The modern trend to more versatility in cooking and salad making is making steadily greater use of vinegar, according to Paul Egerstrom, vice president of Speas Company, makers of Speas Vinegars. People are more aware of differences in vinegar, too, he added. Such differences as uniformity in strength, aging and bouquet which may seem small but contribute greatly to flavor of a salad or other food creation.

Freeman to Try to 'Sell' Budget to DFL Party Jan. 24

Arranges Statewide Gathering in Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis

Saturday, Jan. 24, the DFL party will meet in a "Dollars and Sense" conference in the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis, for a full day of speeches, discussions and question and answer periods to consider a program for carrying out what Governor Freeman calls "one of the most important campaigns that our party has undertaken."

In a letter of invitation to DFL party people and independent supporters, Freeman said "Our budget proposals will be fully discussed and action will be planned for assuring their enactment at the 1959 legislative session. Your help is needed to make sure that Minnesota will continue to provide the services our people need, and to pay for them by means that are equitable and fair."

Arthur Naftalin, comissioner of administration, will describe "The Growing Pains of Progress" at the morning session of the conference and Walter Heller, the governor's tax advisor and head of the University's department of economics, will speak on "Who Pays the Bills."

Freeman will speak in the afternoon on "The Dollars and Sense of our Budget" and then will join other state officials in a press conference to answer the questions of newspaper, radio and television reporters.

The meeting is open to the public.

$198,957 Allotted to Pennington Co. Roads by the Highway Dept.

Minnesota Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman yesterday apportioned $26,520,631 to Minnesota's 87 counties to be used during 1959 for construction and maintenance work on county roads which have been designated as county-state aid highways. Of this amount, $2,393,795 must be spent on designated state aid routes within municipalities of less than 5,000 population. These county-state aid highways form an integrated and connected system of 29,128 miles of major county arteries.

The $26½ million amount comes from the state road-user fund which is made up of state motor vehicle license fees and state gasoline tax imposed by the state. Counties receive 29 per cent of the fund while municipalities over 5,000 in population get nine per cent. Sixty-two per cent goes for the state trunk highway system.

Amounts are determined on the basis of a formula which takes into consideration each county's motor vehicle registrations, number of miles of county-state aid highways and financial need.

Included in the allotments was $189,845 to Pennington county and $9,112 to villages in this county. Other Northwest counties and their allotments include Marshall, $479,765 and $20,006; Red Lake, $168,019 and $8,502; Roseau, $350,819 and $15,471; Kittson, $260,198 and $10,148, and Polk, $660,772 and $19,493.

Ada 4-H Youth Is Winner of State Ton Litter Event

Marilyn Johnson, 16, Tamarack, and Winfred Bauer, 20, Ada, are state winners in two 4-H livestock projects, Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, has announced.

Marilyn won top place in the ten-ewe contest by raising 20 lambs from her 10 Hampshire ewes to a weight of 1,636 pounds in 135 days, or an average of 163.6 pounds of lamb per ewe. Each ewe produced 7.2 pounds of wool.

Bauer won championship in the ton-litter project by raising a litter of 15 pigs to a weight of 3,405 pounds in 163 days, or an average of 227 pounds per pig. His pigs were farrowed by a purebred Duroc gilt.

A member of the Pleasant View 4-H club, Bauer has been a 4-H member for 12 years and has taken the pig project three years. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bauer.

The Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association is providing cash awards to state and county winners in both contest.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	II Corinthians	9	1-15
Monday	Philippians	4	4-7
Tuesday	I Corinthians	15	57-58
Wednesday	II Corinthians	4	15-18
Thursday	John	1	15-16
Friday	Psalms	34	1-12
Saturday	II Peter	1	5-8

"For Thy love we thank Thee, Lord . . . for Thy help we pray."

Just a few words, rooted in gratitude. But gratitude means so much . . . to the Giver . . . and to those who receive!

To God it means that we are not too busy enjoying His gifts to understand His love.

To us it means that we have not forgotten the heart of life. We haven't lost sight of the spiritual center toward which the Church constantly points our vision. And to our children it means a family life based on faith and prayer.

Of course, our "blessing" or "grace" is only a small part of the Christian Life to which the Church calls us. But, like every piece in a puzzle, it belongs there!

And the sooner we put all the pieces in place, the sooner we'll understand the WHOLE PICTURE.

City Empl Pay Scale s Hike of 7 Pct.

Most Department Heads Given $300 Yearly Increase

In a report of an adjourned city council meeting Dec. 19 which has just been released it is revealed that a resolution was adopted which increased salaries of city employees about seven per cent of the total payroll.

The top salary, that of P. G. Pederson, city clerk, was raised from $5,100 to $5,400 by the council's action.

Salaries were also raised $300 to a total of $5,220 for the chief of police, chief of the fire department, street commissioner, sewage treatment plant operator, superintendent of electric distribution, chief engineer of the power plant, superintendent of the water department and the manager of the liquor dispensary.

The increases for all positions average about $21.67 a month with department heads getting increases of about $25.

Firemen receiving the top pay for their work had the largest increase this year, an increase from $3,600 in 1958 to $4,092 in 1959. This figure includes an equalization of $15 to compensate for eight additional hours they are on the job each week over the maximum time of 40 hours for other city employees.

Male day labor was increased in pay by five cents to a scale of $1.60 an hour and female day labor was increased 10 cents an hour up to $1.10.

The mayor and aldermen remain on a salary of $600 a year.

Three City Water Mains Are Broken over the Week-end

Two serious water main breaks on the west side of the city and one on the east side were discovered over the weekend and water department crews worked all day Saturday and Sunday to repair the damage caused by expansion and contraction, according to Harold M. Johnson, superintendent of the water department.

Water was shut off this morning at 9 o'clock on the west side of the city while repairs were going on at a break in the 300 block on Duluth ave. N. and the 100 block on State ave. S. The area affected by the interruption of service is on Knight ave. between First and Ninth sts., on Duluth between First and Fourth sts. and between Duluth and Knight aves. on First, Third, Fourth and Ninth sts.

The break on the east side of the river was on Highway 59 near the new Mission Covenant church. Johnson classified this break as the least serious of the three, but was unable to tell how large an area would be deprived of water while repairs were made.

Breaks were discovered on Highway 59 and on Duluth ave. Saturday morning and the State ave. break was found Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

According to Johnson, water will be turned off in the affected area until the breaks are repaired. The amount of time necessary for repairs was impossible to predict, he said.

Phyllis Mostrom Winner of County Spelling Contest

District 1558 school walked off with two of the first three prizes in the Pennington county rural school spelling contest Saturday afternoon in the assembly room on the lower floor of the court house.

First-prize winner was Phyllis Mostrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mostrom, who had a score of 92%. She is a pupil of Mrs. Orland Rendahl in district 1558.

Second-place winner was Cheryl Iverson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Iverson and a district 1561 pupil of Milan Alby. Cheryl had a score of 82%.

Third-place winner with a score of 74% was Gail Rendahl, a pupil whose teacher is her mother. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Orland Rendahl. Her school is district 1558.

The 26 contestants were judged on a written examination of 70 words plus homonyms, synonyms, antonyms, possessives, plurals and a paragraph of dictation. A spelldown, which did not have a bearing on the contest, was conducted during the time when papers were graded and was also won by Phyllis Mostrom.

All schools in the county with the exception of this in the independent districts took part in the contest. Contestants were from fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Outstanding Young Farmer Nominations Asked by Jr. Chamber

Nominations are being sought by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Thief River Falls for the outstanding young farmer of the area, according to Charles R. Samuelson and Jon Metusalem of the Jaycees agriculture committee.

The young man will be honored publicly at the annual Future Farmers of America dinner to be held the latter part of March at Lincoln high school.

Anyone is welcome to nominate a young farmer, according to the committee. Civic and church activities will also be taken into account.

Nominees must be between the ages of 21 and 35 years of age and will be visited by a committee which will evaluate the records and select the winner. Nominations may be mailed to Charles R. Samuelson and Jon Metusalem, Lincoln high school, Thief River Falls, and must be made before February 15.

Previous winners of the award are Clyde Christianson, 1955; Kermit Maidment, 1956; Harry Oen, 1957; and Clayton Mathson, 1958.

New Tribal Government Is Set up by Red Lake Indians

A new government now directs the affairs of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians. Established under a constitution that was adopted with the approval of a large majority of the members of the Band, a new council, elected by the members, took office Wednesday night at an impressive installation ceremony at Red Lake.

Heading the new government as chairman of the council, and elected at large, is Roger A. Jourdain. Also elected at large for four-year terms are Otto Thunder, secretary, and Dan Needham, treasurer.

Eight members of the council were elected as representatives of four districts established by the constitution. From Ponema are representatives Rufus Johnson and Andrew Sigana. Representing the Redby district are Frank Johnson and Edward Holenday. The Red Lake district is represented by John Hanson and James Kelly, and the Little Rock district, made up largely of the western part of the reservation, is represented by Harry Simon Sumner and Eddie Johnson.

The new officials took their oath of office from W. W. Palmer of Bemidji, superintendant of the Indian Affairs agency for Minnesota and representing the Indian affairs division of the Department of Interior. Chairman Jourdain addressed the gathering, discussed the constitution, and gave assurance that the new government will do everything it can to advance the interests of the Red Lake Band.

Other speakers were treasurer Dan Needham, secretary Otto Thunder, Simon Howard, president of the Minnesota Chippewa Band; John Buckanaga, secretary of that organization; Superintendant Palmer, and three chiefs, Jacob Iceman, William Sumner and John F. Smith.

A Thief River Falls group, Don Olson of Station KTRF, William LaFave of Bridgeman's, and W. E. Dahlquist of The Times, visited the Council Friday afternoon and found the officials deep in the problems of reorganization.

Discussing these problems, Chairman Roger Jaurdain stated that the new government would follow democratic procedures. He hoped it would be possible to build up good public relationships with neighboring communities. An important objective of the new government, he said, would be to make the Red Lake Band of Indians an asset to society and not a liability.

He and other members of the Council indicated that there probably would be no radical changes in the immediate future and that changes would come gradually.

Head New Red Lake Government

Members of the new tribal council of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians took time out Friday afternoon to pose for pictures and be interviewed by Thief River Falls Times and Radio Station KTRF reporters. The new government was established Wednesday evening when the recently elected officers and council members were officially installed in their new offices in an impressive ceremony.

Stuart McLeod Is Renamed President at Session Thursday

Sponsors of Northwest Dairy Day held their tenth annual meeting at Thief River Falls Thursday afternoon and after reports on the highly successful ninth annual show, heard the recommendations of Lew Looking-Ahead Conlon for a best-show-ever to commemorate properly ten years of successful operation at the 1959 Dairy Day next June.

Mr. Conlon, manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industry committee and sparkplug of Dairy Days and Princess contests in this state, presented interesting figures showing that the Northwest show compares very favorably with the other area shows that have followed the pattern established here. In 1958 there were 1,040 entries in the eight shows held in the state, a substantial increase over the 1,192 who participated in 1957. Northwest Dairy Day show last year had 242 entrants in 1958 compared to 201 in 1957.

Conlon stated that the Northwest show was outstanding in that 29 per cent of the animals exhibited were purebreds. Judges were agreed that the general level of quality was higher here he said. He attribued this to the good work that has been done by county agents in requiring high standards at the county levels. Several other shows with many more entries are recognizing the need for more careful screening.

In looking forward to the tenth annual event, Conlon urged that special emphasis be given to the progress of ten years and the contribution this program has made toward higher standards in the 11-county area. Special efforts should be made to secure records of the progress that has been made by some of the entrants of the early shows, he said. Ten years is a long time, he pointed out, and many of the young people who were boys and girls when the Dairy Days program started now have dairy operations of their own. He thought consideration should be given to possible reunions.

Harold Rosendahl of Ada gave a report on the Waterloo Dairy Congress, which he and Marvin Peterson of Lockhart attended this fall. The trip was given as a prize to Marvin at Northwest

Personal Property Tax List Is Published in TRF Times Today

The 1959 Pennington county personal property tax list, prepared in the office of County Treasurer Ellsworth Jorgenson, is published in this issue of the Times, and will receive careful scrutiny from county residents. The taxes in most cases are higher than a year ago, due to the mounting tax levies.

A total of 40 firms are called on to pay more than $1,000 this year, compared to 30 in 1958. By far the largest taxpayer in the county again this year is the Lakehead Pipeline Co., which is calle on to pay more than $37,000 in five townships. In 1958, before its present increased holdings had been assessed, the company paid slightly more than $22,000.

The list of large city taxpayers is headed by L. B. Hartz Stores Wholesale, whose personal property tax bill is $11,778, followed by Land O'Lakes Creameries with $8,198. Six others will pay more than $3,000, including Minnkota Power oCop, Montgomery Ward & Co., Gamble-Robinson Co., Thief River Falls Co-op Creamery, Farmers Co-op Grain & Seed association and Glacier Park Co.

Beauty Tips from ME to YOU

By JO ANNE WEDUL

Last week, we discussed the care of dry skin and you will remember that I advised that this type of skin should be washed only once each day.

In contrast, those who have oily skins should cleanse their faces with oily skin cleanser or with tepid water and soap three times daily. Work up a good lather, apply with the finger tips and gently massage the skin.

Use an astringent after each cleansing and apply night-care fluid to discourage oil secretions on retiring.

Remember, BEAUTY IS OUR BUSINESS. To look your loveliest, call JO ANNE'S BEAUTY SHOP, MU-1-4405, or drop in the next time you are down town at 107 EAST THIRD STREET for an appointment.

February 2 Is Last Day for CCC Loans on '58 Grain Crops

Culkins, Manager of ASC Office, Asks That Loans Be Completed by Jan. 29

Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, stated today that Monday of next week, Feb. 2, is the final date that 1958 producers of flax, oats, barley, rye and wheat can cover ther production by means of a CCC loan or purchase agreement.

There are a considerable number of loans that have been prepared by the county office and held there pending the decision of the producer as to whether or not they will take out the loan or gamble with the market.

Producers are asked not to call at the county office to complete their loans on Thursday, Jan. 29, because some of the county office personnel will be attending a district meeting in Roseau on that day, with the county office manager, whose signature is required on certain of the loan documents.

Argyle Child, Age 3, Dies in Mishap

Guy Reopelle Killed in Auto Upset Wednesday

A three-year-old Marshall county boy was killed last Wednesday when the car driven by his mother slid into a roadside ditch and rolled over, pinning the boy beneath it.

Guy Reopelle, the death victim, was riding in the car driven by Mrs. Richard Reopelle about seven miles southeast of Argyle when the mishap occurred. Also in the car were two other children, who, with their mother, were uninjured, according to Marshall county sheriff's officers, who investigated the accident.

Apparently Mrs. Reopelle hit an icy patch on the county road on which she was driving, and skidded, eventually overturning in the ditch. Guy was pinned beneath the car.

Dr. Ervin Pumala, Marshall county coroner, said death was due to a broken neck and other injuries.

Besides his parents, the child is survived by two sisters, Kathy and Patricia, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reopelle of Argyle and Mr. and Mrs. Carr of Warren.

Funeral services were held Thursday at St. Rose Catholic church in Argyle with Rev. Rousseau officiating. Burial was made in the church cemetery.

THE SECRET DRAWER

By H. Louis Raybold

FOR AN entire year Deborah Kane had wanted to get into the old Blakeman house, and now the old Blakeman house was coming out to her.

Debbie was interested in just one item, the shabby black walnut desk with its secret drawer in which she and Jon Blakeman used to hide, first their notes as children, later their love letters.

She and Jon had grown up together, with the home of one always open to the other. It had been Debbie's habit to run into Jon's house through a convenient cellar door, then up an inner stairway. One day she had noticed an old desk in a cellar corner and had shown it to Jon. Together they had dragged it forth, opened it, and by accident pressed a spring that released a secret drawer. From then on the desk became their secret mailbox.

On the evening that Jon had taken her into his arms, kissed her, and seemed on the verge of asking her to marry him, she had gone to her room to pour out her heart in a long, loving letter, then to steal across after everyone was asleep, and slip it into the drawer.

That very night Jon's father had died from a heart attack. Except for a brief moment at the services, she hadn't seen Jon again. He had left with his family to bury his father in Maine and had stayed on with them at his grandparents.

The house had been closed up tight and, a year later, put up for auction.

On the morning of the sale, Debbie made her way to a chair near the auctioneer's stand.

"What am I bid for this desk.

Debbie was quick with "One dollar!"

"One and a quarter!" The voice came from the rear of the crowd.

"Two!" said Debbie.

"Three!" said the voice.

"Three-fifty!"

"Five!" said the voice.

"Seven!" Debbie stood up and looked in the direction of the voice. It was Minnie Baker who was bidding against her!

"Ten!" said Debbie firmly, resolved to forfeit every cent she had in the world to outwit the girl who had once been a rival.

"Fifteen!" said Minnie, as a ripple of amusement ran through the crowd. Fifteen dollars for such a beat-up old desk!

Debbie opened her mouth to bid twenty, just as the auctioneer clapped down his hammer with "Sold!"

Debbie rose quickly. She must reach that desk before Minnie. She actually had her hand on the panel with the spring when a voice whirled her around on her feet.

"Debbie!"

"Jon!"

"I planned to be here for the sale. When I found I would be late, I called Jack Baker to get someone to bid on the desk for me. He asked his sister. I've always wondered if you found my letter. There was so much confusion at the time, and—"

"Was it in answer to mine?"

Jon looked puzzled. "There was no letter there when I put mine in. Oh, Debbie—"

But Debbie was pressing the spring. Out flew the little drawer. In it lay a single letter addressed to her. Then she caught a glimmer of white. There was another letter, but in her haste she had slipped it, not into the drawer itself, but between the edge of the drawer and the panel above.

The two faced each other, the unopened letters in their hands.

"A year is a long time," said Jon slowly. "Suppose we tear up these letters unread and take a fresh start. I am here for another reason than the sale. I came back to ask you to marry me."

No one would ever read them now, least of all the two walking so happily across the maple-shaded lawn, carrying a dilapidated old desk between them.

Provisions of Wage and Hour Law Revised

Businessmen in Minnesota were reminded today by John Tenant, district office supervisor of the U. S. Labor Department's wage and hour and public contracts divisions, that the new higher salary tests for exemption of so-called white-collar employees from the Federal Wage and Hour Law's provisions go into effect next week.

"Starting February 2, 1959, executive employees of firms engaged in interstate commerce must be paid at least $80 a week on a salary basis to qualify for exemption from the wage and hour provisions of the Act," Tenant said. "Administrative and professional employees must be paid at least $95 a week on a salary or fee basis to be exempt. Previous salary requirements for exemption were $55 for executive employees and $75 for administrative and professional employees.

"A special proviso for employees exempt under shortened duty tests will also be increased from $100 to $125 a week."

Tenant explained that the new salary test schedules in most cases reflect changes in salary levels that have occurred since the previous tests were set in 1950.

The fair labor standards act, popularly known as the federal wage and hour law, exempts executive, administrative and professional employees from its minimum wage and overtime provisions, if they meet certain tests specified in the Divisions' regulations, Part 541. In addition to tests relating to their duties and responsibilities, they must also meet minimum salary requirements.

Except for the higher salary requirements, the tests remain the same, Tennant pointed out. Municipal Court Has More Cases in '58 but Its Revenue Declines

More parking tickets were handed out in 1958 than during the previous year in Thief River Falls and more cases involving violations of city ordinances were handled but total fines decreased by $489.69, according to a summary of municipal court activities just released by Judge H. O. Chommie.

The report shows that 156 more parking tickets were written in 1958 than during the previous year (1,795 in 1958 and 1,639 in 1957) but that total fines dropped $39.45 (from $1,572.50 in 1957 to $1,533.05 in 1958.)

Forty-three more cases involving violations of city ordinances were listed in the report during 1958 but fines for these violations dropped $450.24 (from $6,791 in 1957 to $6,340.76 in 1958.) Fees collected and paid to the city for city and state criminal cases dropped appreciably from $1,580.65 in 1957 to $1,170.62 last year, a decrease of $410.03.

Fines and fees paid to the city treasurer by municipal court showed a total decrease of $[illegible].72 in 1958 compared to the previous year.

The biggest decrease listed was in the total amount collected and paid to the state treasurer in fines collected in highway patrol cases. In 1957, $3,127.20 came out of the pockets of erring motorists compared to $1,881.50 in 1958, a drop of $1,245.70.

Municipal court was a busier place last year than during the previous year with 134 more cases listed. In 1958, 2,365 cases were handled compared to 2,231 in 1957. State cases dropped by 60.

The report also included the payment of $244.75 in 1958 to Stanley N. Mortenson, special municipal judge, an increase of $[illegible].75; $1,860.80 in fines collected and paid to the county in state criminal cases, an increase of $300.30; $23.20 paid to the county for the refund of fees, an increase of $3.70 and $179 paid to the sheriff for fees and mileage in state cases, a decrease of $23.40.

Burglars who broke into the Buralle Chevrolet Co. at McIntosh Wednesday night had an easy time opening the safe and extracting about $250 during the night.

The safe hadn't been locked, according to Polk county Sheriff Carl Knutson, who is investigating.

The intruders, who entered by forcing a rear door of the building, also pried open a cash register and netted an additional $12 in small change.

Unemployment Tax Notices Deferred

Mailing of Notices Is Postponed for 30 Days

Notice of 1959 contribution (tax) rates on Minnesota wages, ordinarily mailed to employers January 31, will be delayed this year for at least 30 days, it was announced today by Frank T. Starkey, commissioner, Minnesota department of employment security.

Starkey pointed out that according to the present law, the Minnesota minimum tax rate was automatically increased from .10 per cent, which has been in effect since 1949, to .30 per cent, because the balance in the Minnesota unemployment trust fund had fallen below $100 million as of June 30, 1958. At year's end the unemployment trust fund was at $82.5 million.

"However," Starkey said, "because of the possibility of legislative action to revise the tax structure, especially in view of what has occurred during 1958, we are delaying issuance of contribution rate notices to employers."

Starkey pointed out that the delay in mailing of rate notices would in no way affect the payment of contributions for the fourth-quarter of 1958 which are due and payable January 31. He added that rate notices will be mailed in ample time to allow payment of contributions for the first quarter of 1959 by the regular due date of April 30.

Prowler 'B' Quint Edges EGF 42-39

Ulferts and Ebbighausen Lead Scoring for Locals

Coach Dick Evan's East Grand Forks 'B' team, trailing by a 13 to 3 score at the end of the first period, and 28 to 15 at the intermission rallied to even the score at 37-all, on a pair of free throws by Gary Hjelmervik with 3:53 play.

But the Prowler 'B' team, with Elton Hornseth scoring on a layup, Gary Anderson dropping in a pair of free throw, and Harvey Ebbighausen adding a gift toss, edged out the East Siders, 42 to 39.

Don Ulferts and Ebbighausen led the Prowler 'B' scorers with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Hjelmervik and Bobby Raymond each had 12-point performances for the losers.

P. Hanson Nets 32 Pts. as Prowlers Take EGF

A blistering first period, during which the Prowlers poured twenty points through the west basket, with the locals' sharpshooting forward, Phil Hanson, hitting for eight field goals, provided coach Al Adams' blue-and-gold cagers with the point cushion that gave the locals a 57 to 54 win over the East Grand Forks team in a Northwest conference basketball game played here Friday night.

This week's schedule will find the Prowlers meeting the Warren Ponies on the local court in a district conference game on Friday night; and on Saturday night, Jan. 31st, the Prowlers will travel to Bemidji for a Northwest conference game against the Lumberjacks.

In Friday night's tilt here, Phil Hanson, on a game-opening tip-off play, scored on a jump shot to give the Prowlers a 2 to 0 lead. East Grand Forks' Dick Stallmo dropped in a free throw, and when Cameron Saunders scored after gathering in a rebound, coach Sullivan's club held a 3 to 2 advantage. Mickey Hanson found the range on a jump shot, and then Phil Hanson looped in five consecutive field goals before Mickey Hanson broke the monotony by tallying a free throw. Lanky Ronnie Hanson added a point via the free throw line, and Phil Hanson followed up with a pair of field goals, giving the Prowlers a 20 to 3 margin.

The East Siders, with Dick Stallmo and Bill Harvey collecting five points each, pared that big Prowler lead to 29 to 21, eight points, at the intermission.

The two teams played on even terms in the third period, with the Prowlers having a 15 to 14 advantage in the point-scoring column. East Grand Forks' guard, Cameron Sanders, sparked the Green Wave effort with five field goals.

In the hotly-contested fourth period, East Grand Forks, with Stallmo, Saunders and Pat Sullivan doing the scoring, coved to within three points of the Prowlers, trailing by a 48 to 45 score with 4:37 remaining to be played. A Prowler scoring spurt gave the locals a 57 to 48 lead with 1:27 to play. East Grand Forks, on field goals by Harvey, Marv Selmanson, and Saunders, sliced that margin to three points in the final seconds.

Phil Hanson's thirty-two points, scored on thirteen field goals and six free throws, was the game's high scorer. East Grand Forks' Cameron Saunders was the only other player to hit double figures, with the Green Wave guard notching twenty points.

Hockey Prowlers Win over Williams 11 to 1 Here Thursday Night

Coach John Matcheft's hockey Prowlers handled the Williams Wolves with considerable ease in a regional conference game played here Thursday night, registering a 11 to 1 win over Ray Chiaverini's young club.

The Prowlers will travel to Hallock on Tuesday night, Jan. 27th, for a return game with coach Ken McFadden's Hallock Bears. In a previous game between the two teams, played here, the Prowlers scored a 6 to 2 win.

Archie Schneider's goal after seventeen seconds of play of elapsed, banging in a goal from a melee in front of the Williams' cage, with Jerry Jorgenson on the assist, gave the Prowlers an early lead. The Wolves managed to hold off the ever-rushing Prowlers until the 14:23 mark, when Dale Wennberg beat goalie Jim Robberstad to give the locals a 2 to 0 lead.

A six-goal second period, with Jerry Jorgenson scoring twice, and Wes Halvorson, Wennberg, Schneider, and Eddie Holmes adding single goals, gave the Prowlers a commanding 8 to 1 lead. The lone Williams goal of the game was chalked up in this period when, at the 4:05 mark, Tom Oseid, on a hard, high shot from the left, beat goalie Neil Carlson guarding the south net.

With the game well in hand, coach Matchefts had an opportunity to give his reserves and several members of coach Dave Rogers' Prowler 'B' team some game experience. The boys from the Prowler 'B' team who saw action were defenseman Jack Goulet and forwards Jack Houfek, Larry Poole, Tim Teal, Gary Klungness, and John Solsten.

Thieves Six Loses to Roseau 12 to 5

Locals Were Shorthanded in Game Saturday Night

With the Dick Johnson and Dave Wensloff duo accounting for eight of the goals, the Roseau Cloverleafs scored a 12 to 5 win over the shorthanded Thieves in a Northwest hockey league game played at Roseau on Saturday night.

Johnson scored five goals, getting a pair of goals in the first and second period, and closing out with a single tally in the third period. Wensloff notched a goal in the first period, and added two more in the third period.

The Thieves, on a goal by Greg Ranum and a pair of goals by Monty Markstrom, gained an early 3 to 1 lead over the Leafs; but two late period goals, at the 18:24 and 19:02 marks, by Wensloff and Johnson, evened the game at 3-all.

The game moved along on even terms until the midway mark of the second period when Duane Olson scored the tie-breaking tally, and from then on the Leafs forged into a commanding lead.

The game was enlivened by a fracas between Cal Offerdahl of the Thieves and Duane Olson of the Leafs, with both players being assessed five-minute penalties.

In a Northwest hockey league game played at Grand Forks on Sunday night, the Thieves dropped a 10 to 3 decision to the Grand Forks Jets. The weekend of play proved disastrous to the local sextet, losing a pair of games.

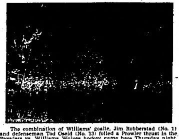
Prowler Goal Try Foiled



The combination of Williams' goalie, Jim Robberstad (No. 1) and defenseman Tod Oseid (No. 13) foiled a Prowler thrust in the Prowlers vs. Williams Wolves hockey game here Thursday night. The Prowlers' Jerry Jorgenson had boomed a shot at goalie Robberstad in the second period, and burly Archie Schneider was in position to cover the rebound, but Williams' Oseid cleared the puck. St. Paul Johnson Six Ties Prowlers 5 to 5

Jim Palumbo's goal, which was deflected into the net, off a Prowler defenseman's skate, gave the St. Paul Johnson team the game-tying score at 11:08 of the third period of an interesting and exciting hockey game played here Saturday night, with the Prowlers and the Governors sharing honors in a 5-all outcome. The two teams played a five-minute overtime decision in an effort to break the deadlock, but the tie remained on the score board.

The Prowlers held the advantage throughout most of the first period, building up a 3 to 1 lead. Harold Froehle, on a rebound, punched a goal into the south net at 3:34 of the opening period. St. Paul's Nick Gabriel, on a solo rush, unloaded a hard shot from a sharp angle which found the long corner of the north goal, and the score was in a 1-all tie at 8:16. Wes Halvorson and Arlan Hjelle, with Halvorson the trigger man, scored at 9:44; and when Dale Wennberg nudged the disc into the net at 11:49, the Prowlers held a 3 to 1 lead.

Froehle's goal at the 4:38 mark of the second period, scoring on a shot that found the rubber being deflected into the net off a defending St. Paul Johnson player, gave the Prowlers a 4 to 1 lead. But Coach Rube Gustafson's club, on goals by Dave Peterson, Jack Wahman, and John Olson, succeeded in evening the game at 4-all, with Olson's tying goal being recorded at the 12:23 mark.

Bruce Ranum, on a double assist from Eddie Holmes and Halvorson, slapped a shot past goalie Curt Wohlberg and into the south cage at the 3:48 mark of the final period, giving the Prowlers a 5 to 4 margin. And then Palumbo, late in the period knotted the game at 5-all and forced an overtime period.

It Was Phenomenal

In all the years, and they have been considerable, that we have been watching and scoring high school basketball, we have never witnessed such an uncanny exhibition of basket shooting as the Prowlers' Phil Hanson turned in during the first period of the Prowlers vs. East Grand Forks tilt here on Friday night.

It was a 16-point effort, on eight field goals, for the polished Prowler forward; but what made this scoring mark so impressive was the manner in which they were scored. Except for one of his field goals, scored on a drive-in and an underhand layup, Phil's fielders were swished into the west basket on "outside" jump shots.

Here's a recital of Phil's scoring: on the opening tipoff, Phil received the ball and hit on a jump shot from the left of the lane; after Mickey Hanson had scored on a jump shot, Phil pumped in five straight field goals, with three of the two-pointers being from right of the free throw circle, one from the lane, and the other from the left side of the circle, and all were one-handed shots. The Prowlers marked up a pair of free throws, and then Phil finished off his outburst with a pair of field goals, giving the Prowlers a 20 to 3 lead.

In the nine games that the Prowlers have played to date, Phil has racked up a total of 182 points, scoring at the rate of 20.1 points per game. And the vast majority of these points have been marked up on jump shots from 15 to 20 feet from the basket. The Prowler forward is extremely difficult to defend, for if he is pressed too tightly he will pivot away from the defensive man and drive in for a layup; and if he is played loosely, Phil will take his outside shot. And that was what he was doing Friday night.

In Friday night's first period exhibition, Phil's shots were tinging the hoop cleanly, and there wasn't a rebound or ricochet off the backboard in the bunch.

A Couple of Meetings

The executives of the Tunberg Motors, Wally and Roger Tunberg—held a couple of important meetings this past week to discuss the progress, or lack of progress, of the firm's "athletic" teams. We have been advised to enclose the term athletic in quotation marks.

The first meetings was called to order by Wally on Tuesday morning, with brother Roger's bowling team being the subject for discussion. Of particular interest was the fact that the Tunberg Motor team, a member of the Monday night Service league, bowled and lost a series against the Montgomery Ward team on Monday night. In one of these games, the Tunberg's "filled" 37 frames while the Ward's "filled" but 32 frames, and in the natural course of bowling, the Tunberg's should have won that game. Instead they lost that game by about 50 pins. When questioned, Roger hemmed and hawed and stammered and said, "Well, it was like this. We had some fouls, and we rolled two or three gutter balls, and we had some two or three-pin counts on spares."

On Thursday morning another meeting was called, and this one was called to order by Roger, with Wally's curling team being up for discussion. On Wednesday night, in an American league match at the Fair Grounds, the Tunberg rink held an 8 to 2 lead at the conclusion of eight ends of play, and yet the Tunberg's managed to lose the match to the Lawrence Lubitz rink, 10 to 8, in 11 ends. Roger had some pertinent and embarrassing questions to ask Wally, the skip of the Tunberg rink. And Wally, being shifty and evasive, directed the conversation into baseball channels, the New York Yankees and the American league, and whatever became of the Milwaukee Braves? Roger is still waiting for an explanation of last Wednesday night's curling match.

The final results of these discussions may be that Roger's bowling team may take up curling, and that Wally's curlers may become bowlers!

Samuelson to the Sidelines

The third match of the Chevy's singles bowling elimination tournament was rolled at the Family Bowl alleys on Sunday afternoon and Del Harbott, with a display of consistent bowling, eliminated Lloyd Samuelson, a two-time winner, 609 to 490. Del, with only two blows during the three-game match, posted scores of 205-200-204, while Samuelson, who had previously defeated such bowlers as Am Wysoski and Jesse DuChamp, posted games of 162-163-165.

Next week's match will find Harbott meeting lefty Phil LeGault, and if the two bowlers are in control of their sweeping curve balls, Al Brunelle's pins will surely get a shaking up. The match will get under way at 2:00 p.m.

15,000 Fewer Jobs in Minnesota Last Year

Average monthly non-farm employment in 1958 at 897,691 was down almost 15,000 workers or 1.6 per cent from 1957, according to a year-end summary issued today by Frank T. Starkey, commissioner of the department of employment security. The past year's level was also 2,000 below the monthly average for 1956. Six of the nine major industrial categories in 1958 fell below the previous year's level.

The employment picture during the first few months of 1958 was rather dismal with layoffs in manufacturing, especially in durable goods which began in the fall of 1957, continuing to mount. It was also evident that the normal seasonal pick-up in iron ore mining would not materialize. Employment in iron ore transportation, railroads and Great Lakes ore ships, consequently was affected.

During the summer months, employment in construction and trade lagged behind the previous year. Finance, insurance, service and government, however, remained above. By fall, the employment picture improved with construction employment, paced by road building, exceeding previous year's level.

In October, durable goods manufacturing registered its first substantial gain of the year, nearly 2,400 workers. The gain, although at a slower level, continued through the remainder of the year.

Of the major categories, mining employment was hit the hardest with a level almost 17 per cent below 1957.

Over the year, the largest employment gain was registered in government. Much of the increase of 6,009 workers between 1957 and 1958 was in local government schools.

Total monthly unemployment averaged 99,000 persons during 1958, an increase on the average of 36,000 persons per month over 1957. During the two previous recessions, total average annual unemployment was 87,000 in 1949 and 77,000 in 1954.

The rate of unemployment was 7.1 in 1958 and 4.5 in 1957. Rates for 1949 and 1954 were 7.0 and 5.8 respectively.

Dr. Mayo to Head Easter Seal Drive

Annual Campaign Set to Commence February 27

Dr. Charles W. Mayo of Rochester today was named chairman of the 1959 Minnesota Easter Seal Appeal for crippled children, to be conducted February 27 to March 29.

The announcement was made by Rustan O. Thayer, president of the Easter Seal Society (Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults).

"It is truly an honor for our organization, now in its 34th year of service to crippled children and adults of Minnesota, to have Dr. Mayo as its campaign chairman," said Thayer.

"Dr. Mayo will lead more than 12,000 Easter Seal volunteers in Minnesota who each year raise the funds so vital to help crippled children regardless of age, color, creed or type of disability," said Thayer.

St. Paul Carnival to Start Friday

Queen of the Snows to Be Crowned Tuesday Night

The annual St. Paul Winter Carnival, designed to prove that winter can be fun, opens its 11-day run Friday when 30 visiting queens and a guest king arrive.

The visiting monarchs come from seven states and two Canadian provinces. The lone king is C. C. (Milo) Vega, Pirate King of Tampa, Fla.

Highlight of the opening day will be the Coronation of King Boreas XXIII in colorful ceremonies beginning at 8:30 p.m.

The Grande Parade will wend its way through the St. Paul Loop at 2 p.m. Saturday, led by Capt. Richard B. Laning, who commanded the atomic submarine Seawolf on its historic 60-day underwater endurance run.

The new Queen of the Snows, who will replace Queen Sally Shields, will be crowned in a display of pageantry Tuesday night. The carnival runs through Feb. 9 with a host of events, including the national majorette contest, national outdoor speed skating competition, world's largest square dance, world's original ice fishing contest and the mutt races.

A skating plaza is being built on Fifth street in downtown St. Paul and toboggan slides are being erected near the Capitol for the carnival.

Bill Would Extend Present Sugar Act

Beet Growers Cheered by Proposal in Congress

Leaders of the Minnesota beet sugar industry today welcomed news that a bill to extend the present sugar act without amendment for an indefinite period is now in the senatorial hopper in Washington.

The measure was introduced by Senators Hubert Humphrey and Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota along with 46 other cosponsors in both political parties.

The sugar act establishes the pattern of marketing quotas which have regulated U.S. sugar supplies for the past 25 years. The present act, in effect since 1948, is due to expire next year.

The new bill sets no expiration date.

The bill has the support of all domestic sugar groups. Endorsements have been given by sugar beet producers in 22 midwest and western states as well as cane producers in southern states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

Localy, C. Einar Johnson, Warren, president of the Western Beet Growers Association, which represents growers in the Red River Valley and southern Minnesota, said his group "advised senators from our area to co-sign and support passage of the bill."

British Columbia fishermen account for nearly half of Canada's entire commercial catch. Salmon, the leading money earner, brings the province about $45,000,000 a year.

GRYGLA . . .

Andrew Hendrickson of Grygla is recuperating from severe frost bite at the Olstedahl Rest Home in Thief River Falls.

Annual consumption of sugar—in all forms—has been pegged at 97 pounds per person by the United States Department of Agriculture. Beet sugar accounts for 22 per cent of this total.

U.S. Income Tax Returns Due from Farmers Shortly

Returns Due February 15 Unless Estimated Tax Was Filed on January 15

Farmers who did not file an estimated federal income tax return for the Year 1958, have until February 15 to file their final return, George O. Lethert, district director of internal revenue, St. Paul, said today.

He pointed out that farmers who filed an estimated return on January 15, and paid the tax due have until April 15 to file a final return and pay any balance of tax due. Otherwise, he said, the law requires that they file their final return and pay the full amount of the tax due by February 15.

Lethert said this option is available to farmers only. The tax law defines a farmer as one who derives two-thirds or more of his gross income from farming.

The district director advised farmers that if they filed a federal income tax return last year, the necessary forms for 1958 have been mailed to them. For those who did not file, or for some other reason did not receive forms in the mail, blank forms may be obtained from the nearest internal revenue service office or from local post offices or banks.

Mr. Lethert reminded that everyone who had a gross income (not net) of $600 or more during the past year, must file a federal income tax return, whether or not tax is owed.

The only exception to this rule is for taxpayers 65 years of age or over at the end of the year, who are not required to file a return unless their gross income was $1,200 or more.

GATZKE . . .

John Loven accompanied Roger Loven, Elwood Gormsen and Larry Hagen to Warren Monday morning. From there the three boys left for Fargo for their physical check-ups before being inducted into the army. They were accompanied to Thief River Falls by Duane Loven to resume his studies at the Vocational school and Mrs. Helga Anderson who went to Alexandria and Minneapolis before leaving for her home in Pasadena, Calif.

Napoleon is credited with giving the beet sugar industry its greatest boost when he ordered widespread planting of sugar beets to offset the shortage of sugar created by the British blockade of France in 1811.

"No Sale"

Mr. Mikoyan probably was not happy with the results of his vacation trip and his boss surely had little reason to be pleased with the report of his top-flight salesman who had only a "no sale" to ring up on the company cash register.

Some good may come out of his unsuccessful mission, however. During his short visit, Mr. Mikoyan saw much of our country and what he saw must have impressed him. He admitted our people enjoy a much higher living standard and he practically admitted that Communism, as such, was a failure. And he must have left with the conclusion that our country is united on most questions of foreign policy and especially so in our attitude toward the defense of Berlin.

If these were his reactions, and he so represents them to his associates, then we may find Mr. Khrushchev a little more reasonable in future meetings.

Reports indicate that the Chinese were not happy with Mikoyan's visit and they probably are very unhappy about some of the things he said. That is a very encouraging development.

Our Best Wishes

The Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians now has a new government, established under the provisions of a constitution that was approved by the members. The governing body is a Council of eight members elected as representatives of four districts, and three officers elected at large.

For many years Peter Graves had been the "voice" of the former government, a Council controlled by the hereditary chiefs. In the new government the hereditary chiefs will serve in an advisory capacity only, unless elected. The change is far-reaching. For the first time the members will be self-governing under democratic procedures.

While the authority of the new Council has constitutional limitations, its responsibilities are varied and extensive. The reservation itself covers a large area and the Band owns many tracts of land outside the reservation boundary. There is a commercial fishing operation to be managed and a forestry program and lumber mill to be operated, in addition to the routine matters of government regulation and control.

We had occasion to visit the Council in session Friday and were favorably impressed with the attitude of the members. They are aware of the need for changes. That is why there was a revolution. But the members seem inclined to move cautiously and changes probably will be gradual.

Under new leadership we look for a bettering of conditions on the reservation. We like the statement made by the chairman of the new Council, Roger Jourdain. Our objective is to make the Red Lake Band an asset to society and not a liability, he said.

In that spirit, our best wishes for the success of the new government.

Take a Second Look?

We have no desire to become involved in arguments with either Al Stenberg or Charlie Hellquist. We are sure that arguing would get us nowhere. They are just as unreasonable and stubborn as we are and what fun is there arguing with people like that?

On this question of building a mechanic's school at the airport, maybe the thing to do is to back up and start over again. It is not a life-or-death matter. Some of us have favored it because we looked upon it as a development that would be good for the community and in the best interest of both the city and the school district. When good citizens like Stenberg and Hellquist disagree then it is time to take a second look. They both have excellent records of public service to their credit and their views deserve respectful consideration.

Re-examining the facts would take a little time, but we have a couple of months of winter ahead of us. The only justification for acting now is the advantage of time in securing special federal assistance under the provisions of a new law, and a delay here probably would not be critical.

If, after a re-examination of all of the facts, it appears that the community is going to be sharply divided on the merits of the proposal, then it should be dropped. Such a division might prove to be detrimental to the best long-range interests of the Area Vocational School — and that, we think, would not be in the best interests of northwestern Minnesota.

Time To Hold The Line

Governor Freeman challenges the opposition to bring in a better tax program than the one he has suggested. That would not be difficult to do, although it is doubtful that he would accept any suggestions from the enemy at this time. Our guess is that he would like to have the conservatives suggest a general sales tax which he could vigorously oppose at first and finally reluctantly accept.

The tax program Governor Freeman proposed has little popular support and is running into steadily increasing opposition. Unfortunately there is much double talk on both sides of the tax question.

Conservatives in the legislature probably would serve a more useful purpose if they would direct their efforts primarily to cutting costs. A proper first step, and a very welcome one thruout the state, would be a declaration of opposition to any pay increases for themselves.

Having taken this step they would be in a stronger position to hold the line on proposed pay increases for others. There is no justification for across-the-board pay increases for any group in our state this year. Our farmers probably are going to take an income cut. Some adjustments in pay schedules, up or down, probably are justified, and there always are some employees who deserve merit increases.

But our government units at all levels have come to look upon annual pay increases as a proper thing and to be provided almost automatically. One-of-every-six people employed in our country is now on a public payroll, and the tendency to boost pay schedules for public employees every year is one of the biggest factors in blowing bigger the inflation balloon.

We are certain that our state would come through the next two years without any bad effects if the legislature held appropriations down to the total allowed for the present biennium. The University of Minnesota and the state colleges and our elementary and secondary schools all would survive and there would be ample funds to take care of all reasonable welfare costs. No one would suffer and no necessary service would have to be curtailed.

If this were done the tax problem would not be nearly so difficult.

SCANNING THE NEWS

THE Department of Justice intensified its war on syndicated crime in the year recently concluded, with intensive prosecutive efforts and a number of deportations.

Two important appelate decisions were won during the year in immigration matters involving hoodlums when the Supreme Court upheld denaturalization actions against Paul "The Waiter" Ricca, Capone lieutenant and kingpin of vice in the Chicago area, and Joseph Stacher, member of the old "Third War Gang" of Newark, New Jersey, and long-time racketeer associate. Denaturalization was also ordered against Joseph Profaci, Brooklyn's "Olive Oil King," and a retrial was commenced against Frank Costello.

These denaturalization orders paved the way for deportation action against the racketeers as undesirable aliens.

Additional deportation orders were successfully concluded against Sebastiano Nani, a New York narcotics chief, and Joseph Schwartz, Minnesota rackets figure, while Irving Sherman, another Costello associate, was convicted of violation of alien registration statutes.

A stepped-up program of prosecution resulted in over 1,300 narcotics convictions during 1958. The convictions of New York racketeer ringleader Harry Stromberg, alias "Nig Rosen" and 17 associates was the year's high point in the field. Rosen headed a nationwide ring that imported 80 pounds of heroin a month and distributed the dope throughout the country. As an indication of the tremendous profits involved, this ring's shipments were valued at $3,000,000 in black market channels.

Labor racketeering cases were also strenuously prosecuted. Appelate approval of the conviction of Nick Stirone, Pittsburgh labor racketeer, of extorting thousands of dollars from contractors to maintain "labor peace" was a significant victory under the Hobbs Act. Taft-Hartley Act convictions included Wadelmiro Arroyo, an International Longshoreman agent, who "shook down" Puerto Rico sugar refineries for $13,000 in contributions to a false union welfare fund used only for Arroyo's benefit. These cases illustrate two favorite methods for extorting illegal payments.

The traffic in obscene literature required constant attention in an attempt to control and stop this pollution. One successful prosecution resulted in the elimination of a ring exchanging obscene letters and pictures. One publishing house was convicted of obscenity violations for distributing a national magazine.

This enables SCS and other technicians to help find the best practices for each farm or piece of land. A "Cover Crop" seeded in 1957 on summer-fallowed loam ended the winter wind erosion problem for Briger Andeen, Argyle, Minn., according to Fred Heck, Marshall county extension soils agent. Yet, the winter of 1957-58 was a "bad one" for wind erosion in the Red River Valley. There was little snow cover and a lot of high wind. The cover crop was oats, seeded at about 3 pecks per acre in early fall.

"Terraces Solved my problems on an eroding hill," according to Hilliard Nelson, Douglas county soil conservation district cooperator. "Before installing them," he says, "I always had water in my barnyard and a heavy loss of soil. But now the water is led to a constructed waterway which empties into a lake and the soil loss has been reduced to a minimum."

Minimum Tillage is a soil management idea rapidly gaining popularity around Minnesota. One common practice involving this concept is wheel-track corn planting — directly on freshly plowed but undisked soil. Now, LeRoy Johnson, West Ottertail county farmer, finds the practice works well on heavy soil. It helped prevent erosion on steeper land, where the land was spring plowed. Where Johnson plowed the fall before and then disked in the spring, there was heavy erosion, according to Nick Weyrens, West Ottertail county agent.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare

Punishing the Grade Pupil

It comes as a surprise to many people that punishment for making mistakes is less effective in teaching a child how to behave than is praise and reward for good behavior. Johnny may mind because he is afraid when his father yells at him. Johnny may also learn to be a careful eater because he is spanked when he is messy. But, chances are, Johnny will learn even more quickly and more permanently to be neat and tidy if his parents help him to clean up his messes and praise him when he does eat in a more grown up fashion.

The child who sees his parents as more loving and kindly than displeased and angry with him is more apt to look upon himself as good than bad. If Johnny is praised for his good behavior, he will want to continue to please his parents. Occasional punishment is more effective under these circumstances. And, this way Johnny is more apt to develop his own permanent system of inner controls to guide him as he grows up.

For example, ten year old Jill spilled her milk. Her mother asked her to clean it up and then poured her more. Jill felt unhappy because she knew she should not spill but she couldn't help it. Her accident had lowered her self respect. No one said anything about it. Several nights later her father complimented her on her good table manners. Then Jill felt less guilty and more sure of herself.

But, if Jill's parents had scolded her for spilling her milk, they would have reinforced her feelings of guilt—and, after all, adults sometimes spill, too. If they had spanked her, they would have made her feel even worse. Instead, by saying nothing, they relied on her own inner system of controls. In the next few weeks, Jill was more careful at the table—in spite of not being punished — and had learned her lesson by herself.

Of course, not all children react the same way. But using more praise is something parents may want to try.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Public interest in affairs of government is always a good thing. It is therefore very gratifying to know that the people of Minnesota are interested in the budget I proposed to the Minnesota Legislature. The discussion on this subject has two aspects. First, what services do we want from the state, and how much will they cost. Second, how shall we raise the revenue to pay for them.

Why Increased Appropriations?

It is logical to consider first what services we want, and how badly we want them. This is what individuals do when they consider what they shall buy. If they need a particular thing badly enough, if it is necessary to decent living or for health, they will buy it even if it seems to cost a good deal.

In proposing expenditures to be made by the State of Minnesota I have followed this same principle. I would like to present a few examples.

More Children

One of the major parts of our budget proposals involves the money contributed by the state to local school districts to help them finance our schools. How much more should we spend for this purpose in the next two years than we did in the two years that will end on June 30th?

In formulating the budget, we answered this question in terms of two factors. We hoped that the state could continue to contribute to the local districts the same proportion of aid as it has in the past two years, so that there would be no need for an additional burden on local property taxes. And therefore we planned on an increased amount from the state sufficient to pay its share of the additional numbers of children that will be attending our schools.

Twenty Thousand Children

Each year our schools must plan for 20 thousand more children. The increased appropriations recommended for state aids are in the amount calculated as necessary to maintain the same standards and quality of education, while we take care of these additional numbers.

Some people write to me and suggest that, instead of recommending more money, and higher taxes, the state should spend only as much as it has in the past. But none of these has yet suggested that we should spend less per pupil on education. If we were to do that we would be lowering our standards of education at a time when education is one of the most important needs of our free society.

Assistance for the Aging

Another area in which I recommended more money for the next two years than for the past biennium is for assistance to the aging. We have more aging people each year, and they require more medical care. No one of those who have written to me urging less spending on the part of the state has suggested that we cease to provide our senior citizens who need assistance with the bare necessities of life. But many people have written saying that what we do provide is hardly enough to cover those necessities.

Where Can We Save?

Those who believe that the proposed program of expenditures is too high have an obligation to be specific. Before they urge us to cut spending they should state specifically what services they believe we can afford to reduce or eliminate. Can we afford to either neglect the education of our children or throw more of the cost back on local districts? Do they recommend that we deny adequate medical care to the aging? Do they want to spend less money on improving our highways? I believe that the people of Minnesota want these services, and that we can afford to pay for them because we cannot afford to do without them.

Purity of final product is assured with over 1000 chemical tests daily in the processing of sugar from sugarbeets.

Minnesota's first sugar beet factory was built in 1898 at St. Louis Park.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

Those who so volubly oppose the proposed modern shop (not school) building at our municipal airport ignore the many obvious benefits accruing to our whole community from having such an improvement installed at the airport.

The opposition also neglects to mention that much of the cost will be absorbed by state and federal grants-in-aid. Otherwise, the building will be self-liquidating, as well. We all pay taxes and we, as well as some community in Florida, California or even southern Minnesota, should have some of these funds to improve airport facilities.

Hindsight comes easier than foresight and if we aren't on our toes Thief River Falls again may look back at an opportunity missed, only to be accepted by a more farsighted neighboring community.

So far the main opposition has a certain motive in common in opposing the project; I dare say these people would let our airport go to decay and ruin to gain their end, without regard for the manual efforts of some of our more progressive citizens, and taxpayers' money that has been profitably used to make ours one of the nicest small-town airports you could find anywhere.

To add insult to injury, these people aren't painting a true picture of the project at all; and apparently they are deliberately blind to the very acute need for better shop facilities at our airport.

SATURDAY NIGHT SPECIAL

The first American bathtub, 1817, made of wood, was looked upon with suspicion (it would be today, too, for different reasons!). The kindest thing that can be said about it is that it is "functional" in design. The kerosene-heater shown above was an accessory that was added years later.

Our forefathers used to rent a tub at the local barber shop once a week. Saturday night was a busy time!

CANDID COMMENT

by Mack Draper

Last Thursday was a mighty cold day—16 below at noon, or thereabouts, and up to that time was the coldest noontime temperature recorded this year. Two other days the temperature was 18 below at noon and no one will quibble over a measly degree.

The point is that, despite the cold temperature, northwestern Minnesota residents could look to another part of the country where the inhabitants were more miserable than we were at the time. Violent storms hit parts of the U.S. from New Mexico ot New England and over 50 deaths were reported in the areas affected.

Not that we're gloating that others are suffering as well as us—but it is comforting to know there are some slight compensations for the extreme cold we've been having this month.

As our colleague, Stan Peterson, pointed out in his column last Thursday, there are some hot old times coming up at future council meetings. And, as he said, we'll have a chance to see democracy at work.

The particular question we're interested in is the proposed shop at the airport. There are a lot of pros and cons to the question but we hope those with foresight prevail in the long run.

That is as far as I'll go with personal opinion in this column; the place for such is in the public opinion column of this newspaper, where everyone has an equal opportunity to air his views.

Speaking of aviation, there's an interesting item in the latest issue of Flying magazine about the Detroit Lakes municipal airport, where that city hired a retired highway patrolman as manager a few years ago.

The item is in the form of a letter from Mr. Cummings himself, telling of the experiences he had in learning the ropes of managing the airport.

For instance a pilot landed there one day and asked Cummings to "top it off," while he was uptown. Cummings was completely in the dark as to what he meant but didn't say so; however, while the other pilot was in Detroit Lakes another plane landed and this pilot also went into the city.

Before he left, Cummings asked about the services desired for his plane and ended up saying, "Shall I top it off?"

"No, I think I have enough gas to get home on," the pilot replied. And that's how Cummings learned what "topping it off" means, in aviation parlance!

Another time he may have saved a pilot some trouble. While servicing a plane he noted a white spot on a tire and at first was inclined to think a bird had lingered too long in the vicinity of the ship. However, closer examination of the spot revealed a badly worn tire requiring immediate attention. Failure of the tire in takeoff or landing could have caused the plane's owner a lot of grief.

There were other experiences listed by Cummings, too. But, the moral is, one never gets too old to learn—and Cummings finds his education as an airport manager, after formal retirement from other duties, quite a fascinating experience!

Back to the weather; some oldtimers here are reminded of the winter of 1936 by our recent cold spell, and from what we hear of that winter 23 years ago we're glad we weren't here then!

For six weeks straight the temperature didn't get above -20, to set an all-time record. It was -53 one of those mornings.

If it ever gets that cold again yours truly will catch a fast freight for Florida!

Clothing Prices Outlook Is Stable

Home Agent Quotes Report of U. S. Research Unit

A backward glance over last year's clothing situation will give the homemaker an idea of what's in store for 1959, says Home Agent Roberta LeBourveau.

According to the United States Agricultural Research Service annual outlook report, last year's clothing expenses will be a good indication of this year's expenditures. There might be a slight rise in prices during 1959, but they will not vary much except for shoes.

Prices of sweaters and other knitwear should remain steady this year. The relatively stable 1958 prices for men's and boys' apparel should remain pretty much unchanged also.

Indications are that shoe prices may be higher.

Clothing prices have remained somewhat stable over the last few years in contrast to other goods and services. During the past six years the yearly average Consumer Price Index for apparel fluctuates within a range of not more than three per cent. Only footwear has risen considerably.

Expected to continue their upward climb in popularity are the man-made fibers. At the end of 1958, they ranked second to cotton in per capita consumption.

STATE FUR VOLUME STILL TOPS MILLION

Would you have guessed that the wild fur business in Minnesota currently exceeds a million dollar volume? Yet, according to Conservation department analysis, "it ain't what it used to be." Excise taxes, details of required labeling, increased use of synthetic and specially-bred furs, as well as changing fashions, account for the slump. A compensation for low returns, these observers astutely point out, is less trapping competition. For the calendar year 1956 mink led in dollar value, muskrats in volume; 47,680 mink pelts were valued at $861,840; 120,434 muskrats at $72,200, second place dollarwise went to beaver pelts, 13,016 of them valued at $104,128. Raccoon pelts brought roughly $39,000, short-tailed weasel $20,000, long-tailed $8,000, skunk $9,000, otter $5,000, lynx $1,400, bobcat $900, civet cat $90, for a total value of $1,122,138. Bountied animals taken included 190 timber wolves, 1,248 bobcats and lynx, 1,751 brush wolves, 42,750 gray and red foxes.

AMERICANA — Cities To See

Little Rock, Arkansas

Arkansas State Capitol

It was in the year 1722 that explorer Bernard de la Harpe spotted the first outcropping of rock along the banks of the Arkansas River. The explorer called it "la petite roche," in contrast with a larger bluff farther up the river. "The little rock" was the most passable point on the Arkansas River, and trails and thoroughfares intersected each other at that point.

Arkansas territory was a hunter-trapper paradise, and the future capital city's first settler was William Lewis, a hunter and trapper who abandoned his shack to transients after less than a year.

The town of Little Rock was incorporated in 1825 and Arkansas was admitted to the Union in 1836. Today the population of metropolitan Little Rock is estimated at 243,000.

Approximately 70,000 people are employed in non-farming jobs. Of that figure, almost 13,000 are engaged in manufacturing and other industrial pursuits, as compared with a pre-World War II figure of slightly over 6,000 employed in industry.

Metropolitan Little Rock is the principal agricultural market for the state's many and varied products. To the east of Little Rock is an alluvial region extending 128 miles to the Mississippi River. This country is still operated for the most part by large plantation owners raising cotton and rice. Much of the land is being mechanized. West of Little Rock, cattle and poultry raising are principal occupations of farmers in the rolling foothills.

Little Rock is the middle of a sportsman's paradise. It's only a few hour's drive, at the most, to streams and lakes filled with hungry fish, to duck hunting in the rice country, or to deer hunting in South Arkansas forests.

Six municipal parks with total acreage of 1,550 include a Municipal Zoo, swimming pool, golf courses, ball parks and children's playground facilities.

Compilation Made of Facts on State

Taxpayers Association Assembles Fiscal Data

The second edition of "Fiscal Facts for Minnesotans," compiled as a public service for members of the Minnesota legislature, the state's public officials, its newspapers and taxpayers, has been released by the Minnesota Taxpayers association. The compilation includes the latest statistical data available from various state and federal departments and other accurate sources.

Among the hundreds of facts included in the publication are:

Minnesota raned 23rd in the nation in per capita income in 1957 with a total of $1,850 as compared with a national average of $2,027.

United States internal revenue collections in Minnesota in 1958 were $1,243,235,049.

Minnesota ranked 7th among the 48 states for the month of July, 1958, in the average amount of old age assistance paid to recipients, and 4th in the average amount of aid to dependent children.

Minnkota Elec Co-op Growing, Rotary Is Told

Delmar Hagen of Gatzke, Director, Tells of Progress

During the next five years Minnkota Cooperative will spend $4,500,000 for improvements on its extensive electricity distributing system, Delmar Hagen of Gatzke told Rotarians at their noon luncheon Monday. The biggest item in that total, he said, would be the construction of a 115 KV line from Grand Forks to Thief River Falls. This line, according to present plans, will be completed in 1963 at a cost of $1 million.

Hagen, a director of Minnkota, representing the Roseau REA, explained the operation of the organization that provides power for a large area in eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. Starting its operations in 1941, it developed an annual volume of 58 million kilowatts by 1949. The 1959 volume is estimated at 240 million kilowatts he said, and anticipated revenue for this year is $3,689,000.

In addition to the sale of power the company is now delivering Garrison Dam power to several municipalities, including Thief River Falls. Most of the power Minnkota sells also comes from that source. It is expected that in 1959 Minnkota will generate less than 30 million KWH in its own plants, about ninety percent of its output coming from the Bureau of Reclamation hydro plants on the Missouri River.

Until three years ago the Roseau REA operated its own diesel plant at Warroad, Mr. Hagen said. The cost of power from this source was more than two cents per KWH and the Roseau area is now buying its power from Minnkota at a substantial saving. Because Thief River Falls is within the area served by Garrison Dam, this city enjoys a more favorable rate. He estimated the saving to the city, considering the per KWH cost of fuel oil alone, at more than $40,000 during the past year.

When the direct line to Thief River Falls is completed in 1963 the city will have three lines available to it and the probability of a power failure would be greatly reduced. Power now is brought into the city from the Mavie sub-station which gets

Workers Unearth Culprit

This short section of pipe being examined by Alderman S. A. Honebrink is the cause of all the trouble the city experienced Tuesday afternoon and early evening when water service was turned off. The four-foot section of cast-iron main in the 300 block of Duluth Ave. N., weakened by the corrosive action of clay soil and broken by frost, was discovered Saturday and a water department crew worked two days to replace it. In the meantime, schools were dismissed Tuesday afternoon and housewives filled every available container with reserve supplies fo water while the broken pipe was replaced.

Water Department Is Busily Engaged in Fixing Broken Mains

To paraphrase an old rhyme, the city of Thief River Falls was deprived of water service Tuesday afternoon and early evening because, "for want of a four-foot section of pipe, the water was lost."

An aged piece of six-inch water main, attacked over the years by corrosive clay soil and broken when frost went down last week, was discovered leaking Saturday morning.

When the pipe was uncovered with a power shovel Monday morning, it was found to be riddled with holes ranging from a major break two inches wide and 12 inches long to others the size of a dime.

A large pump, supplemented at time by a smaller one, kept the excavation relatively clear of water but workmen stood in knee-deep water and mud in the near-zero weather while they used hand shovels and worked in the icy water with their bare hands.

Closer examination after the pipe was cleared showed that a repair clamp could not be used on the main due to extent of damage. Using an over-sized pipe cutter, the men cut out a section of pipe, lowered another into place and clamped one end into place only to find that more of the old pipe would have to be removed. By early Tuesday evening, the break was finally repaired and water service restored.

The distribution service, added onto through the years of the city's growth, made it impossible to turn off water for this one area alone. No valves were put into some of the mains when they were installed, other sections of the city had been tapped into older sections with no provisions made for isolating breaks of this kind and some valves had become inoperable over the years. The only way to stop the flow of water through the damaged pipe was to turn off water service for the entire community.

Beginning Tuesday morning, announcements were made over the radio warning housewives to stock up on water, fire department truck water tanks were checked for emergency use, schools were dismissed early and everyone found that they were inconvenienced by a shortage of a commodity they had always taken for granted.

"What are the chances of this happening again?" is a question that many have asked. According to Harold M. Johnson, superintendent of the water department, the break on Duluth ave. was in one of the older mains which serve Duluth, Arnold and Knight aves. up to Tenth st. and a section of six blocks on State ave. The condition of mains in this area are unknown but in one block on Arnold ave. S., there is one 75-foot section on which there are now five or six repair sleeves, according to Johnson.

Eagles Aerie to Assist in Sending Student Abroad

Plans Will Be Further Discussed at Meeting at High School Today

At their meeting Tuesday night, members of the Eagles aerie voted to participate with other organizations of the city in the cost of maintaining an American Students Abroad program. Roy Oen headed a committee that met with officers of the organization before the meeting.

Bill Would End Non-partisan Legislature

Measure Introduced Yesterday Calls for Party Designation

Two perennial legislative issues were launched in the Minnesota house Wednesday when a party designation bill was given committee approval and a strongly supported reapportionment proposal had its first hearing.

The house elections committee, under chairmanship of Liberal Rep. Al Otto, St. Paul, sent to the house floor with a recommendation for passage another bid to restore party labels to state lawmakers. Minnesota is one of only two states in the nation whose legislators run for election on a "nonpartisan" basis.

Spokesmen for the Republican and DFL parties, the League of Women Voters and the Minnesota Farmers Union testified to their support for party tags as a move toward legislative responsibility.

Only Representatives George Grussing, Clara City, and Harvey-Dale Maruska, Angus, voted "no" to Rep. Sally Luther's motion to recommend the bill. Both dissenters are Conservatives, Maruska a freshman from a Liberal district.

Rep. Carl Iverson, Ashby Liberal and longtime foe of redistricting both houses by population only, as provided by the constitution, is chief author of the commission-backed bill.

The proposal would offer a constitutional amendment to the voters in 1960. The amendment, if approved, would provide for redistricting every 10 years, beginning in 1961, with the senate divided on a population-only basis and with an area factor introduced for apportionment of the house.

Some of the new outstanding books of 1959 at your library:

The Pistol by Jones: "When the first bombs hit at Wheeler Field on Dec. 7, 1941, Pfc. Richard Mast was eating breakfast. He was also wearing a pistol."—These are the opening lines of this powerful short novel.

Elephant Hill by White: The $10,000 Harper prize. It tells of the impact of modern India on an American school teacher and of her impact on an Indian businessman. Sympathetic, humorous and wise, it suggests delightfully that East and West can indeed meet.

Pioneer, Go Home by Powell: This is the story of the Kwimper family and how they fared when the government stopped "co-operating" with them. This is pure enjoyment for everyone with a sense of humor.

I Am Anastasia: Here is the full documented autobiography of the woman whom half the world believes to be Anastasia, youngest daughter of Nicholas II, the late Czar of Russia, the girl who survived the shootings in the cellar at Ekaterinburg and is living today in the Black Forest.

N. A. 1 Looking North by Stewart: From the Canadian border to Circle Alaska. Whether or not you plan to make the journey yourself. The book is a stunning and informative profile of the north country.

Cripple Creek Days by Lee: A nostalgic reminiscence of the last of the great gold rush towns.

Tenderloin by Adams: A romantic novel about society in New York's Gay Nineties.

It all Started with Marx by Armour: The author — America's top secret weapon — aims again and hits the Marx in a shrewd spoof of Russian history and Communism.

The Haunted Palace, by Winsor: A life of Edgar Allen Poe.

A Thorn of Arimathea, by Slaughter: A novel of a Roman Centurion and Veronica of the Veil.

Nautilus 90 North, by Anderson: The dramatic account of the first atomic submarine's voyage from the Pacific to the Atlantic beneath the Arctic ice peak.

The Coming of the New Deal—the age of Roosevelt, by Schlesinger: The author was awarded the 1957 Bancroft Prize for American history and the 1957 Parkman Prize for literary distinction in the writing of American history.

Sold for Silver, by Lim: She was sold as a slave at the age of eight, in 1931, to a merchant in Singapore. Today, after a series of the most fantastic escapes, ordeals and adventures, she is, at 36, Matron of St. Andrew's Hospital in Singapore.

7 Persons Appeared in Court Here Monday

A total of seven individuals appeared before Judge H. O. Chommie in municipal court Monday afternoon in what could be termed an average session. What was unusual, however, was the fact that not one of those in court was charged with speeding.

There was only one highway patrol case, that of Oliver C. Swanson, St. Hilaire. Swanson pleaded guilty to a charge of improper passing and was fined $15 plus $4 costs.

Sheriff Charles Richards had a fairly busy day, with three persons brought into court by him. Two Goodridge men, Orland Omlid, rt. 2, and Richard E. Eliason, both pleaded guilty to a charge of fighting and were each fined $10 plus 5.50 costs.

The same fine and costs was levied against Roger J. Hanson, St. Hilaire, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of beer by a minor.

There were also three city police cases. Douglas Gatheridge, Humboldt, pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge and was fined $15 plus $4 costs. Gatheridge was involved in a traffic mishap which led to the charge.

Also charged as the result of an accident was Charles Maidment, city, who pleaded guilty to failure to yield the right-of-way and was fined $10, suspended, plus $4 costs, paid.

The heaviest fine Monday, $100 plus $3 costs, was levied against Swen Nesland, Rt. 4, city, after he pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of intoxicants.

Minnkota Co-op Planning Expansion of Its Facilities

power either from a north connection through Argyle or from a south connection through Terrebonne. The new line will have a direct connection with the local system.

The company's personal property and real estate taxes for 1957 were about $200,000, Mr. Hagen stated. While 71 per cent of the company's property was in North Dakota, 73 per cent of the taxes were paid in Minnesota.

Minnkota exchanges power and wheeling services with other cooperatives and privately owned electric utilities serving the area. The power resources of both the Northern States and Otter Tail Power companies are therefore available to the cities and rural communities served by the cooperative in cases of power failure, and greatly reducing the need for costly reserve power sources for all of the companies. Thief River Falls is now on a distribution network that could draw power from as far away as Minneapolis, Hagen said.

TRF Builders Exchange Headed by Phil Prichard

quirements are made of North Dakota contractors who do business Minnesota, which works a hardship on Minnesota firms.

Approximately 80 persons attended the banquet held at 7:00 p.m. following the business meeting. Outgoing president John Peterson also presided at a short program after the banquet, while J. M. Roche was toastmaster and introduced the speaker of the evening, Richard Bremicker, manager of Lumber Dealers Supply Co. East Grand Forks, and other guests, many of whom were from other cities in northwestern Minnesota.

Wins Games Last Week from Williams and Baudette

The Newfolden Nordics remained on the undefeated list for the season as they won two games on a road trip to Williams and Baudette. They took the measure of Williams, 83 to 75 on Friday, Jan. 23 and downed Baudette, 67 to 56, the next night to bring their win string to 11 games for this season. Both these affairs were conference games, giving the Nordics a 7-0 conference record.

The Nordics' Bobby Dahl, 6 ft. 4 inch center was high point man for the evening against Williams as he dropped 11 buckets and 6 gift tosses for 28 points. Don Engelstad and Dennis Bakke were close behind with 23 and 20 points respectively. For Williams all five starters hit for double figures, led by Brown with 18 followed by Black and Johnson with 16 apiece, Oftedahl with 13 and Williams with 12.

The Nordics held a one-point first quarter advantage at 20 to 19, but by halftime had increased this lead to 42 to 35. They held their greatest advantage at 61 to 49 at the third period stop.

Dennis Bakke and Don Engelstrud were top scorers against Baudette as they led the Nordics with 21 points apiece. Bob Dahl added 11 points. For Baudette, Gaureluk had 21 points. Mollberg hit 12, Schauerm and Smith posted 10 apiece.

The Nordics jumped to a 17 to 9 first period lead but Baudette pulled within one point by halftime at 29 to 28. A good third quarter gave the Nordics a 14-point edge as they held the Burbots to 6 points for a 48 to 34 third period lead. Baudette scored heavily the last quarter but the Nordics held close to their pace.

On Friday, Jan. 30, the Nordics travel to Roseau for the second meeting of the season. The Nordics defeated Roseau 59 to 45 at Newfolden before Christmas.

Prowler Sextet Scores 4 to 2 Win over Hallock

The combination of erratic marksmanship by the Prowler goal rushers and sturdy net-minding by Hallock's Harold Soberoski, made the regional conference hockey game played at Hallock on Tuesday night a contest, with coach John Matchefts' squad scoring a 4 to 2 win over coach Ken McFadden's Bears.

The Prowlers, with a conference record of six wins and one loss, will meet the powerful Roseau Rams here on Saturday night, Jan. 31. Following the game on Saturday night, the locals will have but two games remaining on the 1958-59 schedule, with a game slated for the Warroad arena on Tuesday, Feb. 3, and a season-ending game with the Baudette Bears here on Saturday night, Feb. 7.

The sub-regional tournament, with eight teams participating, will be played at Warroad Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 10; and the regional tournament will be played on the Roseau rink, Feb. 12 and 13.

In Tuesday night's tilt at Hallock, and which was a rugged affair throughout and particularly "heavy" in the scoreless third period, found the Prowlers taking a 2 to 0 lead in the first period. Dale Wennberg, on a solo rush, split the defense by some nifty skate-work, and then beat goalie Soberoski with a shot from close in at the 1:10 mark. Archie Schneider, who turned in a "hat trick" performance on his three goals during the game, marked up his first tally at the 11:11 mark when, after taking a pass from Wennberg, he blasted a hard shot past Soberoski, hitting the left hand corner of the north goal.

In the second period, the Schneider-Wennberg duo racked up a pair of goals to give the Prowlers a 4 to 0 lead before coach McFadden's Bears were able to get into the scoring column. The Bears' first goal was tallied at the 6:24 mark when, with Arlan Hjelle serving a penalty, Larry Tureson, with Neil MacFarlane assisting, drove a hard shot at the Prowler goalie, Wayne Halvorson, and which barely crossed the red line for a score. At the 10:43 mark, Jerry Jerome, from a difficult angle, found the "long" corner of the cage, closing out the game's scoring.

Bud Salem's Crookston Pirates, with a win and a loss, and picking up a pair of points in the team standings, continue to lead the five-team Northwest hockey league race.

The Pirates, with three wins, a pair of ties, and two losses, have ten points in the team point totals. One of the Crookston victories was a four-point win over the Fargo Flyers. The Fargo Flyers, playing but a single round of games in league competition, have had their games rated as four-point affairs. The other league games are two-point contests.

The big gain in the league standings was recorded by the Roseau Cloverleafs, who, on a pair of wins, defeating Thief River Falls and Crookston, moved up into second place, two points off the pace.

The defending league champion Thief River Falls Thieves, feeling the effects of a player shortage, dropped a pair of "road" games during the weekend, losing to Roseau at Roseau on Saturday night, 12 to 5; and dropping an 11 to 3 decision to Grand Forks at Grand Forks on Sunday night.

The Thieves, with Glenn Carlson and Mike McMahon expected to be available for play, will attempt to get back into the win column on Sunday afternoon when they meet the league-leading Crookston Pirates on the Arena rink.

The eighth region's high school hockey conference will be entering its final week of scheduled play on Monday, with the season slated to end on Saturday, Feb. 7.

The defending regional and state champion Roseau Rams and the Thief River Falls Prowlers have apparently clinched the number one and number two rankings in the standings. The two teams will meet in an important game at Thief River Falls on Saturday night, Jan. 31. A victory for coach Oscar Almquist's powerful club (and Roseau defeated the Prowlers, 9 to 2, in an earlier game between the two squads) would give the green-jerseyed Rams the conference title and a number one "seeding" in the regional tourney.

Of particular interest to high school hockey fans in this area is the struggle being waged between the Baudette Bears and the Warroad Warriors for third place in the conference standings. The two teams, at present, are in a deadlock, with each team having five points, and each team has four point-earning games remaining on the schedule. Warroad has a "home" game with Thief River Falls and "road" games with Williams, Roseau, and Hallock; while Baudette has all of its four games, against Williams, Hallock, Roseau, and Thief River Falls, slated for "foreign" ice.

Newfolden Nordic Five Has 12-0 Season Record

Here is the starting five for the Newfolden Nordics who kept their season's slate clean Tuesday night with a 52 to 43 victory over Warroad in a game played at Newfolden. This makes the Nordic record 12-0 in all games played and 8-0 in east sub-district 32 play. Together with coach John Junker are, from left: Dennis Bakke, who was high point man in the game with Warroad with 20 points; Don Engelsrud who tallied 13 points; Bob Dahl who earned 12 points; John Haglund who counted five points and Jim Elseth who earned two points. Haglund held Warroad's high-scoring Dick Johnson to six points.

A Tough Choice

What is undoubtedly the "biggest" game on the Prowlers' home hockey schedule this season will be faced-off on Saturday night when the Roseau Rams, the state champions of last year, and heavy favorites to make a successful defense of their title this season, meet coach Johnny Matchefts improving Prowlers on the Arena rink.

And the same night, Saturday, the basketball Prowlers will be making the trip to Bemidji for a return game against coach Clarence (Bun) Fortier's Lumberjacks. High school fans will have a tough decision to make: to stay home and watch the Rams vs. Prowlers in hockey, or to motor to Bemidji for the Jacks vs. Prowlers basketball tilt. Weather permitting, we will be making the trip to Bemidji.

Both games, though, will be broadcast, with Doug Tegtmeier doing the play-by-play of the hockey game from the Arena, and the Bemidji basketball game being "fed" here by Maynard Troland of Bemidji's KBUN.

In the two games, the Prowler teams will be carrying the long odds, with the Rams and Jacks favored. Roseau, a couple of weeks ago, defeated the Prowlers 9 to 2, on the Roseau ice, but the locals did turn in a strong 1 to 1 first period. And the Bemidji Lumberjacks, in a game played here, parlayed some exceptional outside shooting by Bob Glas into a 54 to 48 victory. The two games should be high school athletics at its competitive best.

McGinn for Judge

We are in receipt of a news item stating that Denis McGinn, Escanaba, Michigan, city attorney, and widely-known Upper Michigan lawyer, will seek the nomination for circuit judge of the 25th Judicial Circuit in this spring's non-partisan judicial primary election.

This item is of interest to old-time local residents, for Denis was born here in 1902, received his early education here, graduating from the local high school. In his high school days, Denis was a stellar athlete, being captain of the 1919 football team and the 1920 basketball squad.

During the 1920 basketball season, Denny was one of the featured performers, along with Gordon (Tubby) LaBree, of that historic fight that took place at Warren, and which found the Warren team winning a 2 to 0 football decision, on a forfeit, from the Prowlers. Old timers still talk about that fracas.

Following his graduation from high school here, Denis attended St. Thomas college, University of Minnesota, and the University of North Dakota, getting his law degree at the latter school. He worked his way through college by officiating at high school athletic contests, and, during the summer, as a brakeman on the Soo Line.

Among all the activities that the item credits to Denis, nowhere do we find that he is listed as being a light-hitting catcher with just a fair arm on the Thieves baseball team here during the early 1920's.

Bright Prospects

That's a promising group of Prowler 'B' team players who are getting their hockey fundamentals from assistant coach Dave Rogers. On Tuesday night, in a the Prowlers vs. Bears game at game played as a preliminary to Hallock, the Prowler 'B' team scored a 7 to 1 win over the Hallock 'B' team.

In that 7 to 1 win, the line of center Larry Poole, left wing Jack Houfek, and right wing Tim Teal, accounted for five of the goals, with Poole triggering the tallies. Larry has that Johnny Mayasich touch around the nets, always being in position to dunk the disc into the net. The Prowler 'B' team second line of center Benji Martin, right wing Gary Klungness, and left wing John Solsten, marked up the other two goals, with Klungness the marksman.

The 'B' team was without the services of goalie Lyle Molskness, who has been lost to the squad because of scholastic difficulties; but young Tommy Teal proved a capable replacement on Tuesday night. Molskness showed much promise, and it is hoped that he will regain his eligibility.

The boy, though, that we are watching with special interest is Gary Klungness. Gary, a son of the Pete Klungnesses of the Silver Creek community, is a freshman in high school, and he has tremendous athletic potential. Gary has the happy knack of being a hockey goal scorer, and while he doesnt have the skating ability possessed by the squad members who have had the benefit of the grade school hockey program here (Gary was limited to a small outdoor rink) his coach, Rogers, states that he will be an adequate skater in a couple of years.

The Prowler 'B' team will be facing their toughest test when, in a preliminary game, on Saturday night they meet the Roseau 'B' team. In the previous games between the two clubs, played at Roseau, the two teams battled to a 0 to 0 tie after five minutes of overtime. More of the same is expected on Saturday night.

Middle River H. S. Basketball Quint Is Holding Its Own

Team Compiles Record of Six Wins, Six Losses During Season to Date

The Middle River Skippers, whose basketball fortunes have been at a very low ebb for many years, are holding their own in competition so far this season. Up to now they have posted a six and six record against conference and non-conference competition. The Skippers have won games from Goodridge, Baudette, Greenbush, Badger and Alvarado, while dropping contests to Strandquist, Williams, Warroad, Goodridge and Newfolden.

Of the six men seeing regular service, four of them, Huseth, Keil and Shager are over six feet tall. Guards Prickett and Engevik stand at 5' 8", but both have hit the double figures in scoring occasionally.

Morgan Huseth, 6'4" junior, is the big gun in the scoring department. Despite the fact that he is usually guarded by two men, he manages to hit for 20 or more points per game.

Tallest man on the squad, 6'5" Larry Holmes, has been handicapped most of the season with a broken hand, but is now starting to round into shape, while Dick Shager, 6'4" sophomore, is gaining experience and is proving to be more of an asset each game. Arnold Keil, 6'1' freshman, has broken into the regular lineup the past few games. He is beginning to score and will see considerably more service as the season progresses.

Prospects for the Skippers seem improved after their long drouth inasmuch as the present squad consists of only one senior, along with three juniors, a sophomore and a freshman.

Thieves Take Fourth Straight Loss at GF

In a Northwest hockey league game played on the Winter Sports Building rink in Grand Forks on Wednesday night, the slumping Thieves absorbed their fourth straight loss in league play when they dropped an 8 to 5 decision to the Grand Forks Jets. The game was a rescheduling of the postponed Thieves vs. Grand Forks game originally slated for Dec. 27.

On Sunday afternoon, on the Arena rink, the Thieves, after losing four "road" games, will attempt to get back into the win column when they meet the league-leading Crookston Pirates. Face-off time will be at 2:30 P.M.

Wednesday night's game (the Thieves were bolstered by return of Darryl Durgin, Glenn Carlson, and Mike McMahon to the lineup) was deadlocked at 2-all at the end of the first period of play. John Noah and Mo Gaetz tallied the Grand Forks goals, while Carlson and Art Cloutier dented the mesh for the Thieves.

The Jets moved into a 4 to 2 lead in the second period when Mo Geatz and Noah again rapped in a pair of tallies.

In the final stanza, after Ron Geatz, at the 1:16 mark, had given Grand Forks a 5 to 2 lead, Carlson and Monty Markstrom marked up Thieves' goals to pare the Jets margin to 5 to 4. Ron Geatz, completing a one-period "hat trick" scored goals at the 11:19 and 17:09 marks of the period, giving the Jets a three-goal cushion. Jim Reese for the Thieves and Pat Crough for Grand Forks exchanged goals in the final minutes of the game.

Ken Sauve, guarding the nets for the Thieves, kicked out 23 on-goal shots; while Dennis Cooper for the Jets was credited with 31 saves.

Women's Club Groups Ask Schools to Share in Arbor Day May 1st

One hundred per cent participation by Minnesota public and private schools in Arbor Day ceremonies is the 1959 goal of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs it was announced today by Mrs. L. F. Johnson, Willmar, conservation chairman of the M.F.W.C.

The more than 400 individual Federation clubs in Minnesota will organize Arbor Day and conservation week committees who will contact every private and public school in Minnesota and urge school authorities to conduct an Arbor Day ceremony and plant a tree Friday, May 1, 1959.

"More active participation of Minnesota's schools in Arbor Day observance is an important and necessary objective for the conservation committees of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs,' Mrs. Johnson said, 'and we welcome the active cooperation of the Minnesota department of conservation in reaching the objective."

Dr. George A. Selke, conservation commissioner has pledged the full cooperation of the department in helping schools to formulate plans for Arbor Day observance and to work closely with the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs to attain their goal.

Dr. Selke said the 1957 legislature designated the first Friday in May as Arbor Day and permitted all public schools of the state to conduct appropriate exercises commemorating the history and tradition of Arbor Day observances.

Large Barley Exhibit Set for Winter Shows

Prize money of about $270 will be awarded for the best barley samples exhibited at the second annual barley show at the Red River Valley Winter Shows in Crookston February 23-27.

This is the second year the show is being held and also the second year the following organizations are providing funds for premiums: Minnesota Brewers' association, St. Paul; Malting Barley Improvement association, Milwaukee, Wis.; and the Red River Valley Development association.

The show is divided into two divisions: Open, and 4-H and F.F.A. Both of these divisions are again divided into three classes: Malting, feed, and varieties not adequately tested. This classification is based on the official 1959 designation of varieties by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment station, University of Minnesota. Varieties approved for malting are Kindred (L), and Traill.

The entries in the varieties not adequately tested class again will be only those listed in this category in the University of Minnesota Bulletin "Varietal Trials of Field Crops for 1959." This class attracted many pure seed growers last year. Although there are approved varieties listed for the feed class, any variety entered in the show, which is not eligible for the malting or varieties not adequately tested classes, will be placed in the feed class. "This policy should not prevent any person from entering his barley," says barley show Superintendent Lloyd Nystrom.

The exhibitor should list on the entry tag, the variety, his name, address, county, and division in which he wishes to exhibit. Entries should be one-half bushel in size and will be accepted at the Winter Shows building from February 21 until noon of February 23. Further details and convenient entry tags may be obtained from county agents.

One of the most unique features of the show is the strict rule that all entries must be "field run." Grain shows have been criticized in that the winning samples have not necessarily shown the ability of the exhibitor to raise good grain but how well he can hand-pick it. All samples will be run over the clipper mill at the Winter Shows to remove trash.

To put further emphasis on top quality, the number of premiums have been reduced and more prize money has been shifted to the top awards. This not only places more emphasis on quality, but also will serve to sharpen competition.

Driver Examiners Taking Refresher Course in St. Paul

Drivers license examiners from all over the state are attending a five-day refresher training course being given by the Minnesota highway department at the State Highway building in St. Paul. Such a course is given annually to maintain statewide uniformity in the scoring of tests given to applicants for a driver license, G. A. Hatfield, state drivers license director, said. Half of the state's 70 examiners attended classes last week; the others are attending this week.

Last year driver examiners and supervisors conducted written tests for 156,214 persons and gave 176,530 road tests, along with chauffeur license tests for 31,878 persons and school-bus driver tests for 2,203.

Drivers examiners are selected by the department, Hatfield said, on the basis of civil service tests and interviews, and special training is giving them after they are hired.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

by JIM KIMBALL

Last week the regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service, Bob Burwell, and several of his staff became paid-up members of Ducks Unlimited. Few people perhaps recognized this as newsworthy, but actually it heralded a wise and sensible end to a rather pointless feud which had its beginning some 15 years ago.

It all started back in the thirties when the great drouth almost put an end to duck hunting. To remedy the situation, the Fish and Wildlife Service started building large waterfowl refuges throughout the country; and Ducks Unlimited, conceived in 1936, started collecting donations in the states with which they built duck breeding habitat in Canada.

In the early forties ducks became much more abundant and Kip Ferrington published a book The Ducks Came Back which gave Ducks Unlimited most if not all the credit. This resulted in a resounding explosion from the Service, which was also claiming a good share of the credit because of their national refuge program. Oddly enough, no one thought to give the good Lord much credit for ending the drouth and putting water back in the lakes, sloughs and potholes.

Well, it was a first-rate feud which has taken almost a new generation to overcome, but fortunately for conservation, wiser heads have prevailed. Ducks Unlimited wisely collected and destroyed the Ferrington books. Now my hat is off to Burwell and his staff for registering their endorsements of Ducks Unlimited with purchase of a membership card.

Actually, state and federal waterfowl experts have recognized the excellent work being done by Ducks Unlimited for several years. You can't just ignore the fact that D.U. has put seven million dollars of American money into developing waterfowl habitat in Canada. They have built over 500 projects totaling a million acres.

Minnesota sportsmen can likewise be justly proud of the extra dollars which they asked the legislature to add to their hunting license two years ago for the preservation of our wetlands. There never was a conservation program with a better objective. All United States sportsmen should also be proud of the $3.00 duck stamp which will allow the Fish and Wildlife Service to put $8,000,000 a year into restoration of waterfowl habitat — and we hope to get $2,000,000 or more a year of this into Minnesota and the Dakotas.

However, the preservation of waterfowl in the face of onrushing civilization is a Herculean task. The greatest threat now is to the Canadian breeding grounds. Ducks Unlimited says that 65 per cent of the continental ducks are produced in Canada. I think they are being very conservative and would place the figure at closer to 75 per cent.

We must remember that our wetlands contribution must be spent in Minnesota and our duck stamp money must stay in the United States. The only way I know to preserve the great Canadian duck factories is through Ducks Unlimited.

Ducks Unlimited gets a lot of waterfowl habitat per dollar spent in Canada because they buy no land and frequently the Canadian government contributes substantially toward development of the projects. Fortunately, the Canadians are smart enough to see that water conservation benefits agriculture, their great fur resource, and their general economy.

I blushingly confess to being one who has shied away from Ducks Unlimited because they did some exaggerating many years ago. Now it is obvious that they are providing an essential service with unpaid directors and state and county chairmen. The final blow came when I learned that only one duck hunter in 50 contributes. The thought of being one of 49 duck hunters who is having his load caried by one man was too much. I wrote my first Ducks Unlimited check today. I also called the state chairman of Ducks Unlimited and asked what was most needed. He said they have 50 county chairmen and are looking for 37 more. Assistant chairmen are needed in every county. All who contribute $3.00 or more receive the D.U. quarterly magazine. Contributors of $20 also receive eight issues of the Duckological which gives the most recent reports of the hatch, movements, etc. in Canada. Another need is for D.U. committees within sportsmen clubs. In case you are interested, the Minnesota Ducks Unlimited chairman is F. John Ward, 600 Pioneer Building, St. Paul 1, Minn.

The Federal and the State programs are good and they cost little more than the price of one box of shells. We may be doing only part of the job, however, if we don't keep ducks pouring out of Canada each fall.

1,223 Violators of Game Laws Fined

Game wardens made 1,223 arrests for violations of the game and fish laws during November and December reports Arthur Emme, assistant chief game warden.

Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in a motor vehicle accounted for 561 arrests. "Despite our pleadings and warnings about carrying loaded and uncased firearms in motor vehicles, this offense continues to result in a considerable number of arrests," indicated Emme.

A wide variety of other offenses resulted in the balance of arrests made. During the same period in 1957, 1,113 arrests were made by state game wardens.

"The only way in which one human being can properly attempt to influence another is by encouraging him to think for himself, instead of endeavoring to instil ready-made opinions into his head." —Sir Leslie Stephen.

Planned Scarcity

In discussing the possibility of another medical school being established in St. Paul, Dr. Robert Howard, dean of the University of Minnesota medical school told a legislative committee last week that "establishment of any new medical school should be based on a careful appraisal of the state and national needs for more physicians."

In that statement he expressed the policy of the university and admitted the truth of the oft-repeated charge that the medical school is limiting its production of new doctors to what its experts think the traffic will bear. In other words the University is operating the medical school in the interests of the medical profession and not in the public interest.

Any person checking the production records of the university's professional schools would have to come to this conclusion. In the past 30 years the university has more than doubled in size but there has been no increase in the output of dentists, medical doctors, lawyers or pharmacists. Our great school obviously is a part of a professional closed-shop system. This planned scarcity no doubt makes the professions more profitable, but that is not why our taxpayers pour millions of dollars into the university operation each year.

Both Parties Divided

Conservatives and liberals in both major parties are wrangling over questions of policy. This division is not good.

The present leadership of the Republican party is conservative, and that now is true here in Minnesota as well as in Washington. Those who call themselves liberal Republicans are unhappy about this. The thing for them to do, obviously, is to become Democrats.

The Democratic party, traditionally conservative, is now liberal, but there is a small, hard core of conservatives in the party that has a lot of power and at times is helpful to the Republicans. They probably would be Republicans except that Republican was the party of Abraham Lincoln, and deep down in their hearts they still are fighting the Civil war.

Now would be a good time to drop the old party names and organize as Conservatives and Liberals. They are both good words. At the extremes a few Radicals and Reactionaries would add color to the arguments.

Learning the Hard Way

Governments the world over, large and small, at all levels, are having difficulty making both ends meet. A few, however, not only are paying current costs but also are reducing their debt.

The remarkable progress that has been made by the West Germans has often been cited as an example of what a nation of industrious and thrifty people can accomplish under good leadership. The French have acknowledged the error of their ways. It will be interesting to see how they respond to the sacrifices that will be necessary to pay the high cost of their past foolishness. In Switzerland the people voted recently against a reduction of the work week to 44 hours. They preferred more of the things that labor produces rather than more leisure.

And Britain, under the management of the Macmillan government, is making good progress. In April the government will repay some $200 million borrowed in 1956 from the International Monetary Fund. In December the British paid the full amount of principal and interest due to Canada and the United States on loans made in 1946. The December payments totaled $186 million. Similar payments are due annually until the year 2001.

Of course we are making it easier for the British to meet their payments by making our dollars cheaper as we go along. As our dollar has been losing value the English pound has been increasing in buying power, and unless we start tightening our belts and cut out a lot of expensive foolishness we will be looking around for a Charles DeGaulle to do for us what we seem incapable of doing for ourselves.

The people of Europe have learned their lesson the hard way. It appears that we are not bright enough to learn from the experiences of others. We will have to learn the hard way too.

Broad Program Needed

The St. Paul Pioneer Press and the Minneapolis Tribune agree that the legislature might properly question the need for huge expenditures for expansion of the university and the state colleges at this time. Seldom critical of anything about the university, the Tribune nevertheless wonders if entrance requirements are not too low. It says:

> "There might properly be an examination of projected student enrollments at the university and state colleges to see if entrance requirements are being applied as stringently as modern education should require."

And the Tribune further suggests:

> ". . . before the legislature is lobbied into establishing new state colleges by local or sectional pressure, a thoroughly competent study of higher educational needs and policies is in order."

The Pioneer Press, striking mainly at the proposed expansion of the university across the river, also thinks the problem of higher education in the state deserves further study. It states:

> "If the recommendations of the legislative building commission are followed by the 1959 legislature, the course of public higher education in Minnesota for the next ten years will have been irrevocably charted.
> "In the main, that course will be along lines laid down by University of Minnesota officials.
> "Unfortunately, the building commission's recommendation was made despite the fact that there has been no coordinated planning to meet all higher education problems in the state.
> "There has been no general agreement that the extensive expansion program of the university is the best and wisest course to take. There has been no agreement as to the relative position of the university, the state colleges and the junior colleges in meeting the educational demands of the future.
> "In short, the public does not know—nor do many educators—if the university program as outlined will mean that the state will get the most out of its education dollar while still maintaining high standards. The fundamental question, therefore, has not been resolved.
> "The responsibility of the legislature seems clear. Since its only control over all higher education in the state is through appropriations, the legislature should demand that a coordinated program including the university, state colleges and junior colleges, be established before substantial sums of money are appropriated for university expansion across the river. The studies necessary to put such a program into effect may show, for example, that the university should concentrate on senior college training and graduate work. This change in emphasis would have profound effect on any expansion program.
> "Unless this approach is used, the legislature will find itself under pressure from all three groups for larger and larger appropriations. Each group will seek its own goals without too much regard for the needs of the others.
> "Education, and the state budget, which already is in bad shape, will suffer, along with the taxpayer and the student."

There is nothing about this problem that requires immediate action. The decisions to be made are tremendously important. Unwise decisions could mean the wasteful spending of many millions of dollars.

As the Pioneer Press suggests, the legislature is not prepared to deal intelligently with this long range program at this time. The problem of higher education is one problem, and only as it is dealt with as one problem, considering the university, the state colleges and the junior colleges as parts of a single program, is there hope for a wise solution.

The Terror

(Wall Street Journal)

In his private life, Robespierre was a man of culture, honest and truthful. It was these virtues that won him the acclaim of the Paris mobs and the title of "The Incorruptible" of the French Revolution.

In his public life, Robespierre was a different kind of man. He was, first of all, a fanatic and vengeance was not the Lord's but his. As a member of the Committee of Public Safety, Robespierre did not invent the revolutionary tribunals. But the bloodletting followed his dictate about Louis XVI: 'This is no trial; Louis must perish that the country may live." His speeches in praise of virtue led his listeners in the Convention, and the mob outside, to believe that the French Terror was not the monstrous thing it was, but a thing of virtue.

Under Robespierre's leadership, the Terror increased and justice became mere condemnation; men were sent to the guillotine by the pointing of a finger. At the height of his power, Robespierre could sway the Convention to any act he wished by appealing to the mob. And the mob would answer, Kill them.

Just the other day, Fidel Castro, whose followers call him Cuba's Incorruptible, stood before Havana's Presidential Palace and addressed a crowd he estimated to be one million people. The crowd was in a holiday mood; many had brought their lunch.

The Cuban revolutionary leader spoke with scorn of criticism in the United States of his trials of "war criminals"— he owed an explanation only to the people of Cuba, he said. He asked the people if they were in favor of more executions of war criminals. And the people answered, Kill them.

The French Revolution's Terror went that way. The bloodiest time of The Terror began one June day, and 11 days later the headsmen at the guillotine had counted 1,285 men and women in the tumbrils while the mob shouted, Kill them.

One of them was Robespierre, and history tells us the fanatic mob shouted quite as loudly as before.

By STAN PETERSON

An Era Passes

During the past several years, I have been a witness to the slow death of a lifelong friend—my home town.

Up and down Main street, store buildings have deteriorated but none have been replaced or even normally maintained. Old, established businesses have withered and died and their owners have been replaced with others not of their stature. Structures which once housed clothing stores and good restaurants now house shops for metalworking or farm machinery.

To outward appearances, the residential area is much as it was more than a quarter century ago with few additions and few improvements.

The community is suffering from progress—progress which is marching past its door. Located as it is only a few miles from similar communities, it once had a trade territory which was dictated by road conditions and transportation facilities. It was a "Saturday night" town.

With the coming of excellent roads, larger communities were within easy driving distance and, offering a larger selection of goods with more attractive prices, took away the small town's trade.

A few communities of comparable size adapted themselves to the newer ways and followed the slogan, "Grow or die. You can't stand still, only go forward or backward." They improved their facilities, modernized their communities and started selling themselves to others.

But my small home town dozed by the side of the road and watched the cars go by. Half-hearted attempts by small groups of individuals to stir the diehards from their lethargy were met with furious resistance by otherwise complacent old-timers.

Futile efforts to raise the mill rate to a reasonable level to provide for improvements necessary to attract industry were defeated. The old water tank, adequate only for present purposes, would not furnish enough for even the smallest industrial concern. Suggested street improvements were met with the argument, "They're good enough." Other suggestions have met with the brick wall of "let the status quo continue."

The more energetic communities bolstered their economy by bringing in new businesses and industries. A photographic equipment company was brought to one, a toy factory to another and a glove factory to a third.

Most of the younger people who wish to get ahead leave the town as soon as they can and return only to renew acquaintances, who grow fewer each year, and to see the never-changing scene.

The only thing that remains is the stubborn conviction of longtime residents that yesterday must be preserved and that things will return to their original condition of prosperity and vitality. Slowly but surely, these people are settling on their foundations just as are the buildings of the community, dragging everything down with them.

It is still a pleasant community, quiet and soothing, but it is also a dying community. I hate to see an old friend go this way.

Third Man Bound over in Theft of Lengby Turkeys

Two persons arrested in the recent theft of turkeys from the Lengby vicinity appeared in municipal court in Crookston Monday. One was bound over to district court and the charge against the other was dismissed.

Donald R. Klinke, 19, was bound over to district court on the charge of grand larceny in the first degree. His bond was set at $1,000 and he is being held in county jail.

Two other men appeared earlier on the larceny charges and were bound over to district court. They are Melvin E. Clark, 26, of Mahnomen and Bruce W. Luhman, 19, of Lengby. They are free on $500 bond each.

Charges against Jack Folstrom alleging he bought the stolen turkeys were dismissed because of lack of evidence.

Public Opinion

HAVE OPINION — WILL TALK

Editor Times—

In a recent issue of the "Times," an article by the W.C.T.U. stated "there are 4½ million alcoholics in the United States." The article failed to state how many of these alcoholics do not drink.

I am an alcoholic, and I believe in giving credit where credit is due. I am a member of Alcoholics Anonymous because this organization showed me the way to live without alcohol. I am a resident of this community and now lead a happy normal life. I am just one of a million others who have accomplished the same thing through AA.

AA has just one purpose: to help anybody and everybody with a liquor problem. It is simply an informal fellowship of men and women, of assorted ages and backgrounds, who are trying to live without liquor and help others do the same. And because the AA program has proved so successful, and has something to offer every problem drinker, many doctors recommend AA membership as a supplement to whatever other treatment they may be using in each case.

People who use alcohol fall into several categories. The social drinker who takes a drink, and on occasion. And there is the fellow who knows he will get drunk and doesnt care. He just doesn't care period. And then there is the man we know as the alcoholic. This is the type of person who may set out to do the family shopping, but comes home drunk and empty-handed. This is a sick person. Most alcoholics need and want help, but where are they to get it? A doctor can sober you up, but no one can keep you from drinking again. Please do no get the impression that I feel sorry for myself because of what I say or what I am. For an alcoholic, self-pity is one of the greates cheer-leaders for the local gin-mill. And spirits used as a stimulant can also become evil spirits.

There are about 65 million persons in this country using alcoholic beverages. Of this figure about 4 million are alcoholics, many of whom have already received help through AA.

May God grant us the serenity to accept the things we cannot change, the courage to change the things we can, and the wisdom to know the difference.

—One Who Has Been Helped

Editor the Times:

To the citizens living in second ward storm sewer district No. 3. In 1954 when this project was first proposed, myself and others circulated two petitions with 260 signatures against, residing within the area from 6th street to 11th street North, including Kinney, State, Arnold, Duluth, and Knight avenues, also a portion of Third Ward south of the Great Northern railroad. The residents in favor of this project at that time were in the Number 400 and 500 blocks on Arnold and Duluth avenues, south of 6th street.

I am not arguing that the people in the locality in the blocks as stated probably are in need of a storm sewer, but why should we north of 6th street pay for a storm sewer that is of no benefit to us?

You property owners up on the hill and on high ground know that it is not worth a penny to us. It will cost approximately $350 per lot and if we do not have the cash to pay the assessment, a penalty of six per cent interest is added.

All I say is that if you have the money to throw away for no return benefits, then stay home; but if you have not the money to throw away, I urge you to come to the city council chamber in the Auditorium on Monday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m. and help us to vote against this project. Call your neighbors and friends in this area and tell them about this storm sewer project.

Respectfully yours,
Martin Bothun.

Electronic Oven

Don't forget the homemakers program during the Thief River Falls Seed and Feed Show tonight, Thursday, Jan. 29, and Friday, Jan. 30, in the city Auditorium.

The electronic oven will be [illegible] demonstrated starting at 7:30 p.m. this evening and again at 1 p.m. Friday.

This oven can well be the beginning of a completely new era in cooking. It is almost unbelievable how quickly foods will cook in the electronic oven. A ten-pound turkey roasts in just one hour, or about one-fifth of the time required to cook it in a conventional oven.

The oven cooks nearly everything that is now cooked on an entire range, top or oven. All the food is cooked on glass, paper or good china. So, it saves on dishes and dishwashing too!

The electronic oven is truly the cooking unit of tomorrow.

On Friday, Jan. 30 at 2 p.m., Mrs. Alma Ohlers, who is the home economist with North Dakota Mill and Elevator in Grand Forks, will present a program of interest to all homemakers. She will speak on "The Food You Eat and How it Affects Your Health."

A special invitation is extended to all homemakers in the district.

Vinegar Cleans Steam Iron

The key to cleaning a plugged steam iron is use of vinegar.

Fill the plugged iron with distilled vinegar, heat until it steams for a few minutes and then turn it off and let it stand overnight. In the morning empty the vinegar and rinse with distilled water.

Steps and Stairs

In safety-checking your home, start with the steps and stairs. Many falls resulting in death or serious injuries occur on steps and stairs, according to Glenn Prickett, extension safety specialist at the University of Minnesota.

You may be surprised to learn that clutter on stairways and disrepair are two of the leading reasons for falls. For safety on your steps, remember these points:

- Have a clear walkway the full length of each tread. However handy it may be to use stairs as storage places for things to be carried up or down, accident records show how hazardous it is.
- Be sure the stairways are solid underfoot—no loose boards, or nails, no shaky handrails, no worn carpets or loose rubber treads.
- Have the full length of the stairway well lighted. Both daylight and artificial light are important.
- Stairways of more than three steps should be equipped with handrails. Install handrails on both sides of open stairs — at least one rail for a closed stairway. Railings should be strong and about 32 inches above the step.

When You Buy Flour

If you want to get the most nutrition for your money when you buy flour and bread, check the label to see that they're enriched. Enriched flour and bread have made a great contribution toward improvement of American diets.

The enriching process restores some of the vitamins and iron which are lost when the bran is removed during milling. Three of the B-complex vitamins—thiamine, riboflavin and niacin—and the mineral iron are added to the flour and bread.

See you next week!

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

It takes a tremendous amount of time and effort to organize the United States House of Representatives. The House is one part of the greatest law-making body in the world, and its decisions vitally affect the lives of each and every one of us. It is composed of many varied parts, and all of these parts must be put together before the House itself is ready for "full steam ahead."

Swearing-in Congress officially opens, with all the Representatives and Senators taking the oath of office. This meaningful event was held on January 7, and on this date the subway which connects the Office Buildings and the Capitol was crowded to overflowing with relatives and friends of the Congressmen on their way to the swearing-in ceremonies.

State of the Union

On January 12 President Eisenhower came up the Hill from his White House residence to deliver in person one of the important speeches of the year—his State of the Union message. This speech was given to a combined session of the House, Senate, Supreme Court, and Cabinet in the House Chambers, and was a statement of the Chief Executive's views on what kind of "shape" our country is in as we start the year 1959, and what he recommends to improve and strengthen this position.

Committees

Between early sessions of the House one of the main items of business as Congress begins to roll is the selection and organization of committees. These groups receive proposed bills from the floor of the House, do preliminary work on the bills, and then send them back to the entire House for full consideration. Your Congressman has been delegated a member of two committees—The committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and the committee on Government Operations.

President of Argentina

Joint sessions of Congress are held throughout the year for the purpose of hearing speeches by visiting dignitaries. The first such session this year was on January 21, when President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina addressed the Congress.

The above are just a few of the parts that go into the making of the great body we call the United States House of Representatives. It is slowly starting to roll now, and by the time of my next letter to you it should be moving steadily forward.

There are 600,000 people working today in more than 14,000 U.S. banks. This is 300,000 more than in 1940—an increase of 100 per cent during the last ten years.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I Corinthians	13	11-13
Monday	II Timothy	3	16
Tuesday	Psalms	111	[illegible]
Wednesday	Psalms	91	1-16
Thursday	Ecclesiastes	7	8
Friday	I Thessalonians	5	16-18
Saturday	Hebrews	12	1-2

Would you like to be a child forever? Would you like to go sledding each time it snowed without a thought of shoveling the front walk or checking the firewood supply?

If at first you say yes, think again. Childhood is wonderful, but there are few of us who would want to be confined to it forever. Our natural urge toward growth is a strong one. We instinctively want to progress mentally, physically, and spiritually.

Nature will take care of a large part of the mental and physical part of our growth. But for our spiritual development, we must look toward the Church.

It is never too late to start learning—and you will find the Church the most patient of teachers. Start attending services this Sunday.

DR. PAUL J. KELLOGG

Assistant professor of physics at the University of Minnesota, who will be guest speaker at the annual banquet of the 'U' of M. alumni chapter of this city Wednesday evening, February 4, at 6:30 in the Elks club rooms.

Organizing efforts of the Thief River Falls AFS (American Field Service) chapter made rapid progress last week and it now appears highly probable that a Lincoln high school student will be spending the summer abroad, Joseph Iverson, high school director, stated today. The committee, under the temporary to contribute $300 toward the ex- to contribute 300 toward the expenses of a local student participating in the American Abroad phase of the AFS program.

The purpose of the summer program is to further international understanding, by giving American teenagers the chance to become acquainted with life and people of another country through living with a family abroad.

The local AFS chapter will ultimately include representation from all interested local professional, civic and fraternal groups. Formal organization of the committee will not be completed until all groups have had an opportunity to be represented.

Last week's decision to support the Americans Abroad program came in the face of a February 10 deadline for applications. Eleven junior class students had completed preliminary applications. These applications were considered by a screening committee on Friday, January 30 and three students were selected as finalists to make application to the New York office. The finalists are Karen Larson, Don Wennberg and Judy Wold.

Submitting application to the New York AFS office is no assurance of being accepted for the summer program. At the same time, more than one applicant could also be selected for the program depending upon number of foreign homes available, quality of applicants and the number of applications. Final selections will be announced by the New York AFS office this spring.

Organizations wishing to learn more about participating in this program should contact Roy Oen. Committee representatives are available to present pertinent information at meetings of all local clubs and organizations.

May Deliver '56-57 Re-seal Wheat Early

P. W. Culkins, Office Manager, Reports Loan Mature Mar. 31

Patrick W. Culkins, office manager of the Pennington county ASC, announced today that CCC has authorized an early delivery of 1956 and 1957 re-seal wheat and an early delivery of 1958 wheat under loan or purchase agreement.

Wheat loans mature on March 31, 1959, but in order to have a more orderly delivering system producers will be given an opportunity to deliver their wheat in advance of the maturity date. The county office is in the process of preparing cards which will be mailed to all eligible wheat producers in the county in an attempt to determine their intentions to either make early delivery, re-seal or repay their 1957 and 1958 wheat loans. 1956 wheat loans are not eligible for re-sealing and must be repaid or delivered to CCC.

All producers receiving cards are requested to fill in the information requested immediately and return the card to the County ASC office.

A re-seal program for oats, barley and wheat will be activated in this county on Feb. 16, 1959. All 1957 and 1958 producers who have any of these commodities under loan may call at the county office and sign an application for re-sealing these crops for another year. CCC will pay 16 cents per bushel for all extended re-seal wheat and barley and 12 cents per bushel for all extended re-seal oats.

If additional information is desired by producers falling into the above categories, they are invited to call at the county office to secure more detailed information.

Expansion of Office of City Clerk to C. C. Quarters Is Studied

Members of the city council and the Chamber of Commerce board of directors met at the Rex cafe Thursday evening to discuss the possible expansion of the city offices into the Chamber of Commerce office in the city Auditorium, but no definite action on the matter was taken.

During the hour and one-half dinner meeting, the position of the Chamber was unchanged—moving to a basement location as was suggested by some council members was opposed. Various Chamber representatives pointed out that the central location of the office for various civic events was ideal, that the office served as a tourist bureau and should be on a main highway and that a bad impression would be made on visitors and officials who found such an office in a basement location. "People just don't go to a basement when they are looking for a Chamber of Commerce office," one board member emphasized.

On the other side of the discussion were those who pointed out that the needs of the city government had grown with the community and that consolidation of office personnel, now on two floors, was necessary for greater efficiency of operations. They also stated that many records were kept in the vault unnecessarily only because the floor space in the present office was not ample.

From the discussion, two possibilities were suggested, and a committee composed of both city officials and Chamber of Commerce board members will be formed to examine them. The

The motion to that effect was made and passed by the council and a special meeting was set for Friday, Feb. 13, beginning at 7 p.m.

Apparent low bidder for the general contract for a cement block building estimated by the architects at $26,000 was the Dean L. Beauty Tips

By JO ANNE WEDUL

To follow up the last two "Beauty Tips" on skin care, here are a few "nevers" to remember:

Never scrub your face with a washcloth, use a complexion brush or massage with your fingers. Never leave a film of soap on your face. Never rinse with a washcloth, catch water from the tap in your hands and splash it on your face. Never use extremely hot or cold water, it is likely to rupture tiny blood vessels. Never rub your face dry, just pat it with the towel.

That's about it for this week but remember, for every beauty need, it's always JO ANNE'S BEAUTY SHOP where you get COMPLETE BEAUTY SERVICE specializing in HAIR STYLING & PERMANENTS. Come into the shop at 107 EAST 3RD STREET, or call MU 1-4405 for an appointment today.

North Central Airlines this week claimed another "first" among the nation's 13 local service airlines, reporting its 1958 revenue from charter flights at $384,957, an increase of nearly 41 per cent over 1957. North Central also leads the local service industry in passengers, air mail and air express volume.

John S. Minerich, charter sales manager, said revenue from charter flights last year probably put North Central in fifth place in the entire domestic airline industry, topped only by four trunklines. He pointed out, however, that final year-end totals for all carriers are not yet available.

North Central's 1958 charter operations involved 359 separate groups who flew anywhere from 100 to 1,000 miles.

Rep. B. Wichterman Opposed to Sales Tax

"Farmers should take a good long second look at the sales tax proposal of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce," Representative B. M. Wichterman said today. It is general knowledge that farmers, because of the fact that they buy in heavier volume than the average consumer would pay quite heavy under any sales tax proposal.

Wichterman asked the farm people to examine specifically the impact of the sales tax as compared to the Governor's income tax program or under such taxes as the personal property tax which farmers now pay. Studies conducted by economists of the University of Minnesota and elsewhere indicate that farmers would pay six times as much under a sales tax as they would under a personal income tax increase.

Comparison of the average personal property tax burden paid by farmers now and the sales tax proposed by the Minneapolis group indicates that farmers would pay over twice as much under sales tax as they now pay under personal property tax.

"Many of the promoters of the sales tax," the Plummer legislator stated, "tried to sell their tax on the basis that it will replace the personal property tax. It is incumbent on these people first to explain how they would manage this fiscal miracle in terms of the state's revenue needs and second, how they would give back to local governmental units the 20 per cent of their tax base which they would lose if personal property taxation were eliminated."

"And one final point is this:" said Wichterman, "a study on data secured from the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicates that items bought at retail by farmers for production and living expense average 7 per cent higher in cost in the sales tax states of Iowa, North and South Dakota and Illinois than they do in Minnesota and Wisconsin, which do not have a sales tax. So far as farmers are concerned, I think this study demonstrates quite clearly that Minnesota has a better tax climate for agriculture than do the sales tax states around it."

Mrs. H. Halverson Easter Seal Head

Reappointed Chairman for Pennington County

Mrs. Herbert Halverson of this city has been re-appointed as 1959 Pennington county Easter Seal committee chairman.

The announcement was made today by Dr. Charles W. Mayo of Rochester, state chairman of the 1959 Minnesota Easter Seal Appeal for cripple children.

"Volunteers like your county chairman and committee members deserve high praise for undertaking the leadership of this highly important fund drive," said Dr. Mayo. "It is because of the tireless efforts of such volunteers that the list of Minnesota Easter Seal services has grown to include Camp Courage for crippled children, an Easter Seal Speech Camp, seven rehabilitation centers, a sheltered workshop for employment of the handicapped, a direct aid program providing wheelchairs, hospital beds and other equipment, plus many other services.

"The Easter Seal Society, now in its 34th year of service to Minnesotans, is continuing to open more and more doors for the handicapped. Ahead of us are even more rehabilitation centers, camping programs, opportunities for vocational training and employment, and other programs to meet the needs of the disabled," Dr. Mayo said.

Approximately $360 damage was caused in a series of minor property damage accidents in the city since last week, with one driver being tagged for driving too fast for conditions as the result of one mishap.

The first mishap caused $25 damage to a car driven by Alfred M. Mehus, city, whose car was truck in the rear by a car driven by Archie Sandamark, Grygla, about 2:25 p.m. Thursday. Mehus had stopped for the stop sign at E. Eighth st. and Main av. N. when his car was hit by Sandsmark, who was apparently unable to stop.

Another mishap that occurred between 10 p.m. and midnight the same day was reported to police the following morning. Lester DeBriyn said he was parked on E. Second st. between LaBree and Horace avenues when someone hit his left rear fender, causing an estimated $45 damage. Police are investigating leads in this case.

Thomas Belland's car received about $115 damages when it was struck in the rear by a school but driven by Clebert Molstad shortly after 4 p.m. Friday. Police were not called to the scene of the accident at the W. First st-Knight av. intersection near Lincoln high school.

James F. Sherack, city, was tagged Friday for driving too fast for conditions, after his car struck a parked car facing north in the 900 block of Horace av. Police said Sherack was going east on Ninth st. about 10:45 p.m. and made a left turn onto Horace and in doing so struck the parked car belonging to Howard Gulseth, city. Only $25 damage was caused to Gulseth's car but Sherack's damage was estimated at $150.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

Additional information or assistance on veterans' benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Grand Forks VA office.

Q—I understand that generally a child must be over 18 to train under the War Orphans Education Act. I already have completed high school, but won't be 18 for several months. Could an exception be made in my case?

A—Yes. If VA finds it would be in your best interest to commence training before age 18, an exception could be made.

Q—A neighbor of ours, a blinded veteran is about to make application to VA for a seeing eye or guide dog. Who bears the expense of training the veteran to use the dog, the veteran himself or VA?

A—VA will provide the dog, and also pay the expense of training the veteran to use it, and any expense incidental to necessary medical attention for the dog.

Q—Does a Spanish-American War veteran have to be disabled in order to draw a VA pension?

A—Not necessarily. VA pensions are payable to Spanish-American War veterans over 62 years of age, even though they may not be disabled.

Q—The VA has just declared my disability connected to my military service, and I am eligible to apply for service-disabled Korean veterans insurance. How soon do I have to apply?

A—You must make application within one year from the date VA found your disability service-connected.

Q—Does my GI home loan have to be paid off in full before I can sell my home?

A—Not necessarily. The buyer may assume your GI loan, if he is willing, if your payments are up to date, and if VA determines he is a satisfactory credit risk.

K—I have a dental condition which is not service-connected, but my doctor tells me it is making my service-connected disability worse. Would I be eligible for VA dental care even though my tho trouble is not service-connected? If so, would there be any deadline for receiving treatment?

A—If VA finds that your dental condition is aggravating your service-connected disability, you may be eligible for as many treatments as are needed to alleviate the aggravation. You may apply at any time.

Q—I receive a VA pension. I also hold a part-time job which does not interfere with my disability. In reporting my 1958 income for VA pension purposes, do I put down my gross salary or my net salary, after income tax deductions?

A—You must report your gross income, before any deductions have been made.

Legislators Vote Selves Extra Cash

Outstate Lawmakers to Get $1,284 for Expenses

A resolution which provides an expense allowance for members of the state legislature was passed by both houses Friday.

Outstate lawmakers will draw about $1,284 and Twin Cities residents about $856 for living expenses during the 1959 session.

The resolution was adopted unanimously by the senate. Later the house accepted the senate-revised resolution without debate by a vote of 119 to 2. Only Representatives Fred Schwanke, Deerwood, and Donald McLeod, Lewiston, voted against it.

Jan. 20 the house Liberal leadership pushed through the original resolution with a provision that members who voted no could not draw expense checks unless they asked the rules committee for them.

There were some heated protests at the time, but the resolution passed by 109 to 17.

Calling the provision "coercive," the senate removed it. The house accepted the change.

Requirements for Social Security Benefits Listed

Information Needed with Application Itemized by G. Forks Representative

If you are planning on retiring in the near future, and expect to draw social security benefits, you may be interested in knowing what you can take to the social security representative when you file your claim, according to W. D. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks social security office. There are several proofs which may be needed.

When you apply for benefits, be sure you have your social security card, proof of your age and proof of your last years' earnings. If you are a worker, proof of your last year's earnings would be a Form W-2, or a statement as to how much you were paid. If you operated your own business or farm, you should take complete copies of your 1957 and 1957 Federal Income Tax Returns. If your wife is going to apply also, she should go with you and take her social security card, if she has one, and some proof of her age. If you have children under 18, or children over 18 who are disable, you should take with you proof of their ages. If you operate your own farm or your own business, it will also be necessary that you have a plan of retirement.

Many farmers whose earnings exceed $1,200 a year, rent out their farms when they retire. Such farmers will need to have with them a copy of the rental contract for the coming year.

A representative from the Grand Forks District Office, of the Social Security Administration, will be in Thief River Falls at the city Auditorium on Tuesday, February 3, at 10:00 a.m. People who have questions about social security, or wish to file claims, may contact him.

CANDID COMMENT

by Mack Draper

One of the marked differences we've noted in this part of Minnesota—or for that matter, many parts of the upper midwest—and my own native sod, is that, while one town may prosper here another may be failing, whereas down in my old stamping grounds all the towns seem to benefit mutually in good times or suffer together in bad times.

It probably is coincidence. I highly doubt it was planned that way at any rate. But the fact is that where I come from there are four cities ranging in size from slightly over 10,000 to about 30,000 in population and all grouped in a rough rectangle with none of the sides of this rectangle exceeding 30 miles.

Surrounding these cities, between them and in the area encompassed by the rectangle, are several smaller towns and villages. Back in depression days these little burgs were hard hit and recovery was fairly slow.

The last few times we've been back to visit in the East, however, these little towns and villages seem to be prospering. In fact they've probably "never had it so good."

Several reasons can be given for this state of affairs. First of all, there are several progressive larger cities in the area which provide employment for these small-town residents.

Secondly, the small towns seem to have become inspired by the progress around them. The people living in them have begun to think of themselves as being essential parts of the area, rather than as outsiders, which is correct. Businesses have sprung up and prospered in the small towns, despite the competition of the larger towns nearby.

There are problems faced by these small towns, too. But because they do offer something needed in an area that has both agriculture and industry, they are no longer drab, dying communities but communities that are improving their lot, and that of the people living there.

A lot of the people in these smaller towns work in the factories of the surrounding cities. Most important of all, however, is that many of the industry executives have chosen to live in the small towns rather than the large cities nearby, thus infusing new blood into that of these communities. The new residents are active in community affairs and have added their enthusiasm for progress to the renewed community spirit of the older residents, to make these small towns forge ahead with new schools, homes, churches, businesses, and all the other earmarks of prosperity.

We who live here could do well to give some thought to area development, rather than development of individual cities only. Small towns need not be dying towns. The small towns can provide manpower for industry and at the same time provide workers in industry quiet places to live and raise their families. It is unfortunate that outsiders, when the conversation turns to Minnesota, tend to think of St. Paul and Minneapolis, rather than the state as a whole. What is more unfortunate is that a great many Minnesotans think the same way!

Thief River Falls or any other city isn't helped when the surrounding smaller communities decline. There maye be a day when we need these communities as never before. Manpower is a highly important commodity and an area with insufficient manpower holds little promise for incoming industry.

So, rather than watching our people leave our single-economy region we should try at all costs to get more industry than we have at present. And, it might be well if we shouted our wares considerably louder than we have in the past.

This region isn't destitute of resources by any means — it's just that the people interested in those resources haven't heard about them yet. It's up to us to tell them. It depends on us—but the hot arguments that have raged here in past weeks would almost indicate that too many of us would prefer to go along in the same old rut.

Talent Show Set for Winter Shows Feb. 24

Already over twenty entries have officially entered the talent festival to be held Tuesday evening, February 24, at the 1959 Red River Valley Winter Shows, Crookston, according to Tom Cochrane of the Crookston Jaycees, Talent Festival chairman. The program will be held in the Central high school auditorium of Crookston.

Anyone in the age group of 13 through 21 years may enter. Those who have developed some amateur talent, as an individual or as part of a small group, and are interested in the talent festival, should contact Tom Cochrane, Box 115, Crookston, Minnesota. Persons interested also may be able to secure entry forms from their high school principal or county agricultural agent.

Ken Kennedy of WDAY-TV, Fargo, will serve as master of ceremonies. This is an activity which is very familiar to Mr. Kennedy inasmuch as he has traveled through the entire Northwest area for the past eight years as a head man of talent parade contests. He is an exceptional judge of good talent and everyone will enjoy the privilege of working with him for this Talent Festival.

Persons who have sent in entries and are accepted for auditioning will be auditioned on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 24. Those who possess the better talent will be selected to participate in the one and one-half hour talent festival show which will be held at 8:00 o'clock that evening.

Preceding the talent festival show in the evening, the Central high school concert orchestra of Crookston, under the direction of T. W. Thorson, will present a concert. The orchestra will also play a short concert at the end of the show while the judges are making their decisions on winners.

Each contestant participating in the evening's activities will receive ten dollars. The top talent — first place will receive $150; second place, $75; and third place, $25.

The talent festival is a youth educational activity sponsored by the Crookston Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Winter Shows board of managers.

combined bid of $4,375 and a bid of $2,975 for the heating, ventilating and temperature control work also plus $485 for work in the paint room. The other bid was by the Greenberg sheet Metal Works of $3,895 for heating, ventilating and temperature control work plus $885 for paint room work. The architects had estimated the work at $3,500.

Other plumbing bids in addition to that of Brodin Sheet Metal Works were: Ace Hardware, $1,414.03; Ripley Plumbing and Heating, $1,445 and C. E. Sanders Plumbing and Heating, $1,785. The architects' estimate was $1,500.

Prior to the next meeting of the city council, the finance committee of that group will meet with the school board to decide on terms of a lease which would be negotiated if the shop building were constructed. The school district would lease the building as a part of the area vocational school for the training of aircraft and engine mechanics.

In addition to the building itself, water and sewage facilities would need to be provided. An estimate of $7,400 has been made for the cost of a sewage disposal system for the shop building. This would also be used by the administration building which is presently using a system which must be replaced. State aid of about two-thirds of this cost would probably be provided leaving $2,468 as the city's share. In addition, it has been estimated that it will cost $450 to pipe water from the present well to the proposed shop building.

crop rotation system of three years of grain and two years of grass and legumes for hay and pasture. Fertility of the soil has been retained by returning manure to the soil together with commercial fertilizer.

A complete surface drainage system has been installed on the Peterson farm and a mutual ditch was constructed with his neighbors.

To prevent wind erosion and drifting snow, evergreens have been planted in the old shelter belt and a new five-row shelter belt was established north of the farm buildings to stop snow from drifting.

Mrs. Peterson was praised for her work of keeping the home and yard in excellent condition and for planting flowers to beautify the farm.

Peterson served on the board of supervisors for eight years and has been active in church and community affairs.

Following the conservation award presentation, nominations were opened for the position of supervisor of the district for a five-year term. The position of Andrew Skaar of Norden twp. has expired, and he was renominated together with Raymond Parnow of Kratka twp.

Additional nominations for the position can be made by petitions up to Feb. 14. Petitions may be obtained at the soil conservation district office in the court house.

City Clerk Office Expansion to C.C. Room Is Studied

first suggestion was that the present Chamber office space be divided, a partition be constructed, and that both the city and the Chamber of Commerce share the room now used solely by the Chamber. The second suggestion was the expansion of the city offices into the main Auditorium by putting a door between the present office and the Auditorium and constructing a room extending out into the Auditorium.

These proposal will be examined by the joint committee before any decision is made.

Over 400 Persons Attend Seed and Feed Show in City and farm people need to know the conservation needs of the country if we are to have an effective conservation program. This program must include across the board conservation of minerals, forests, water, soil and wild life. Wise use of these resources is mandatory if future generations are to be properly provided for, Harris stated.

Roberta LeBourveau, home agent, demonstrated the electronic oven. She showed how cooking time can be cut to one-fifth of that required by conventional ovens. However, the oven uses more electricity while in use. The electricity is changed to radio waves which cook the food by changing the molecules in the food. This changing creates heat which cooks the food. Neither the oven nor the food containers get hot during the process.

Friday morning over 50 exhibitors, 4-H and FFA members witnessed the judging of seed and feed exhibits and heard reasons for the placing. Henry Putnam, secretary of the Northwest Crop Improvement Ass'n., discussed the grades and grading of grain. He showed what affects diseases, admixtures, plumpness, kernel color and other grading factors have on grades assigned to the grain.

Over 200 farmers and homemakers participated in the Friday afternoon program which began with electronic oven demonstrations. Mervin Syverson, educational director of the Minnesota Crop Improvement Ass'n., who led in the speaking program, pointed out how the plant breeders have helped develop disease resistant varieties in order to keep the people of the world supplied with food and fibre.

William Hueg, extension crops specialist discussed factors in making quality hay. He pointed out that hay conditioning and mow curing can be profitable and do much to improve the quality of the hay. Yields of food value per care can be increased three times using these methods, he said.

Dr. Alvin Donahoo, secretary of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange, stated in his talk that the cost of moving a dollar's worth of grain from the farmer to the processor through the grain markets is one and seven-tenths cents. This is the most efficient marketing of any farm product, he stated. The Minneapolis market provides many important services to the seller and the buyer.

Homemakers enjoyed a presentation by Elma Oehlers, advertising manager with North Dakota Mill & Elevator Co. in Grand Forks. She discussed nutrition and its relation to good health. Mrs. Oehlers stated that it was often the homemaker who did not get proper food. Mrs. Homemaker is so busy feeding the rest of the family that she does not take time to eat properly herself. Mrs. Oehlers stressed the need for women to plan meals based on the four basic food groups. These groups are milk and cheese; meat, fish and eggs; vegetables and fruit; bread and cereals.

One from Each County to Receive Recognition at Banquet Thursday, Feb. 26

Sixteen farm couples, one from each of the Red River Valley Minnesota counties, will be honored as outstanding farmers and homemakers in their respective counties at the 1959 Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston, February 23-27. This will be the twenty-first year that farm couples have been honored at the Winter Shows. The award is sponsored by the Red River Valley Development association.

These farmers and homemakers are selected by a special county committee serving in each county. They are selected because of their contribution to community life, because of their concern for the conservation of natural resources, and because of the above-average job they are doing in the business of farming.

The selected 1959 Valley farmers and homemakers will be feted at a banquet to be held on Thursday evening, February 26, at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston. R. E. Hodgson, who writes in "The Farmer," will deliver the address which honors the farm couples. He is superintendent of the Southern School and Experiment Station at Waseca.

Sponsoring the banquet is the Red River Valley Development association. According to Dr. Olaf C. Soine, president of the association, each farm couple will be presented with an engraved bronze plaque in recognition of their accomplishment as a farmer and homemaker.

Sales Tax Opposed by Border Council

Urges Increased Efforts to Cut State Spending

At a recent Moorhead meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Border Council, this economic group, comprising Kittson, Marshall, Polk, Clay, Norman and Wilkin counties, went on record as opposing the retail sales tax which has been proposed for Minnesota, indicating that a "hold the line" policy should be adopted as to the state budget so that neither a retail sales tax or any other additional taxes would be levied at this session of the legislature.

The sentiment expressed was that the biennial budget should be closely scrutinized before any new taxes are considered. The council stated that the proposed increase in taxes would not be necessary if the people who are obtaining the benefits or who are using the services of the state in various programs would pay an increased portion of the operation expenses of these programs.

At a meeting held in Crookston January 20, the group indicated that it was in favor of a "time bill" which would provide that the governing bodies of the villages and cities along the Minnesota border have the option of selecting either daylight saving time or standard time.

The council also indicated that all studies of the state income tax appear to bring out the point that considerable portion of income tax revenue is constantly being lost because collecting at the source has not been adopted. The council is urging that a state withholding income tax law be enacted which would obtain the tax at the source and that this law have a 50 per cent windfall or forgiveness provision incorporated into it.

Mercury Slumps to Frigid 39 Below Zero Here Sunday

Cold Spell Ends Today with Afternoon High of 15 to 28 Predicted

The reason the Times weather reporter wrote today's weather story on pink copy paper is because the weatherman gave such a rosy forecast after several days of sub-zero temperatures that left the brass monkey's horns thoroughly chilled.

The coldest day of the year to date was Sunday, Feb. 1, when the mercury plummeted to 39 below zero. Other readings during the weekend since last Thursday were —28 Friday and —32 Saturday. Today's low temperature was —5. The high for the period was also the —5 recorded this morning. There was no precipitation during the weekend.

Despite an optimistic forecast for the next day or so, don't assume the winter is over — and the groundhog's seeing his shadow today has nothing at all to do with such a pessimistic viewpoint. To northern Minnesota residents Brer Groundhog is a false prophet.

Anyway, we can dwell on the pleasant forecast for the next few days. According to the KTRF weatherman skies will be partly cloudy, with windy and warmer weather today. Skies will become increasingly cloudy tonight and warmer weather will accompany the clouds tonight and Tuesday.

Highs today will range from 15-28 and the low tonight will be 5-15 above. The Wednesday outlook is for snow flurries and colder weather in our part of the state.

Fertile High Wins Regional Debate

Oliver Mining Co. to Erect Plant at Buhl

Governor Orville L. Freeman announced today that Oliver Mining Co. has agreed to build a new plant near Buhl for concentrating low grade iron ore in exchange for permission to use a small lake nearby to deposit iron ore tailing from the new plant.

An order granting a permit to deposit and store the iron ore tailings in Three Mile Lake and a license to change the channel of Buhl Creek has been issued by George A. Selke, commissioner of conservation, to the Oliver company.

A public hearing on the application of the company was held last week at Buhl, before Clarence Prout, deputy commissioner, at which time the findings of fact and conclusions for the order were determined.

Three Mile Lake, also known as Clear Lake, is 30 acres in size and located in St. Louis county, just three miles southwest of the Village of Buhl. The riparian rights on the entire lake are owned by the Oliver Mining Co. There are no public roads to the area and little public use has been made of the lake during the past decade or more.

Representatives of the Village of Buhl, the Hibbing Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, the United Steel Workers of America and the Buhl-Kinney Sportsmen's club, and others, testified at the hearing in favor of the applicants proposals. No objection to the granting of the permit was registered by any individual or organization.

Under the terms of the permit the Oliver Mining Company agrees to begin construction of a plant for the concentration of low grade iron ores in the vicinity of the Sherman group of mines near the Village of Buhl, on or before September 1, 1960.

It is estimated that the plant will provide more than 100 new jobs for a period of 20 years or more.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

ACCELERATION

ACCELERATION is a word that can be applied to practically all human activities of the present. In any sphere of life, a man is like a giant who turns on the ignition and soon presses the accelerator down to the floor on a straightaway.

Do you ever think of what an age for speed the present one is? In recent days, many persons in the country were disturbed by a strike of airplane personnel—only a few years ago there was not an airplane in the world. Not long since, favored persons thought it a great thing to go to Europe on a luxury liner—now they go over the sea in a few hours. Through the ages, men have wondered what is on the other side of the moon—now they dream of traveling through space faster than sound, to reach and encircle the moon, and get back, they hope.

Once men fought with clubs and swords and spears, then with big guns—now they may probably stay safe at home and send a guided missile to blow up a distant capital.

It may be that all these facts and fancies influence men to go faster and faster over the earth. Beware lest yours be the wreck that is cast by the road!

Don't smoke in bed. The ashes falling on the floor may be your own.

Crookston Six Edges Thieves Sunday 6-5

With goalie Lyle Brekken leading a charmed life in the Crookston nets, and center Gar Beckstead, the import from Emerson, Manitoba, turning in a hat trick scoring performance, the league-leading Crookston Pirates defeated the Thieves, 6 to 5, in a Northwest hockey league game played on the Arena ice Sunday afternoon.

The game was enlivened considerably in the third period by a session of fisticuffs between the two squads, with numerous melees being in action on the ice. After the cooler tempers had prevailed, referees Jack McGill and Bill Sullivan thumbed the Thieves' Gordy Bjerken and the Pirates' Tom Fenno to the penalty box to serve five-minute majors.

The Thieves, who hammered forty-nine on-goal shots at goalie Brekken, with the Pirates' netminder booting out forty-four of the tries, held a 3 to 1 first period lead.

The Pirates evened the game at 4-all in the second period on goals by Beckstead, Gerry Frantz and Bob Caouette. The Thieves' goal was credited to Darryl Durgin, the recent North Dakota U graduate.

In the hectic third period, Beckstead, whipping a rebound shot past goalie Ken Sauve, gave Crookston a 5 to 4 lead at the 4:22 mark. Following the session of fist-swinging, which occurred at the 8:50 mark, the Thieves evened the game at 5-all when the Monty Markstrom and Glenn Carlson combination tallied, with Markstrom the scorer. The game rushed along in a deadlock until the 17:45 mark when, on an angle shot from the left, Bob Caouette beat Sauve and swished into the south goal for the game-winning tally.

The Warren 'B' team, trailing by a 13-point margin at the end of the first period, 16 to 3, rallied in final periods to edge out the Prowler 'B' team, 49 to 45, in a preliminary game played here Friday night. Tom Howard, a bespectacled guard, sparked the Warren 'B' team to their uphill win over coach Joe Mrkonich's squad, scoring 16 points. Harvey Ebbighausen, the Prowlers' burly forward, was the game's high point player with 18 points.

Bemidji Tips Prowler Quint Saturday 60-47

Coach Bun Fortier's Bemidji Lumberjacks, employing a fast break to unravel the Prowler defenses, raced away to a 13 to 6 lead at the end of first period of play, and a 33 to 18 advantage at the halftime intermission, as they defeated the locals, 60 to 47, in a Northwest conference basketball game played at Bemidji on Saturday night.

Coach Alan Adams will play coach Rusty Miller's Red Lake Falls Eagles in a district conference game on the local court Tuesday night. In an early season game between the two clubs, the Prowlers defeated the Eagles, 62 to 46.

It was a tense and over-anxious Prowler team that faced the Lumberjacks on the spacious B.S.T.C. court at Bemidji on Saturday night. The Prowlers, on an out-of-bounds play, tallied the first points when Phil Hanson looped a field goal into the east basket. Jim Vickery notched the Jacks' first point, on a free throw, and then followed with a field goal. Spencer Price finished off a fast break with a field goal, and the Jacks held a 5 to 2 lead. Lynn Nicholson, who played a sturdy all-round game for the locals, hooped a try from the lane; but then Bemidji's Bob Glas, on four straight field goals, moved the Jacks into a commanding 13 to 4 lead. Phil Hanson's rebound, with 1:05 to play, peeled the Bemidji lead to 13 to 6 at the end of the period.

The Prowlers were making numerous miscues, and the alert Lumberjacks were taking advantage of these errors to send their fast-moving guards, Glas and Vickery, slicing into the lane for east shots.

In the second period, Bemidji's Glas and Vickery accounted for sixteen of the twenty points scored by Jacks as Bemidji pulled away to a solid 33 to 18 lead. In this second period spurt, Vickery scored five field goals and a free throw, while Glas added two field goals and a free throw.

The Prowlers, who were having difficulty in connecting with their outside shooting, with Mickey Hanson being particularly "cold" on his jump shot tries, scored five field goals in the second period, with Phil Hanson racking up four two-points, and Stan Torgerson adding the other field goal.

The Prowlers, in the third and fourth period, played the Jacks on near-even terms, but they were unable to erase the point-bulget that Bemidji had gained in the first half of play.

Glas and Vickery were the game's high point players, the two guards accounting for 47 points, with Glas repeating his performance of Jan. 16 when he scored 26 points in the game played here, and Vickery tallying 21 points.

Phil Hanson, with 15 points, and Nicholson, with 11 points, were the only Prowlers to reach double figures in the scoring column.

Roseau Rams Defeat Prowler Sextet 6-3

The near-capacity crowd that jammed into the Arena on Saturday night (braving thirty-below-zero weather) was treated to a crackling brand of hockey as the Roseau Rams, the defending state high school hockey champions, twice overcame Prowler leads to defeat coach John Matchefts squad, 6 to 3, in an important eighth regional conference game. The game clinched first place in the conference standings for the Rams.

The Prowlers have but two games remaining on their 1958-59 schedule, playing at Warroad on Tuesday night, and meeting the Baudette Bears here on Saturday night.

In Saturday nights' thriller, Dale Wennberg opened the scoring when, at the 11:53 mark, he received a pass from Harold Froehle, who had carried the puck up the ice, and beat goalie Dick Roth from about 15-feet out from the north net. The Rams, on a five-man rush, catching the Prowler defense shorthanded, evened the game at the 12:00 mark when center Jim Stordahl picked up a centering pass from wingman Don Ross in front of the Prowler net and blasted a shot past Wayne Halvorson.

In the second period, Wennberg again moved the Prowlers into the lead when, on a neat play from Jerry Jorgenson, he drilled a close-in shot past goalie Roth, scoring at the 4:55 mark. Roseau's Jim Stordahl again provided the equalizer as his long slap shot eluded goalie Halvorson, being only partially blocked and sliding into the net at the 6:28 mark. Following a face-off in the Prowler zone, Earl Johnson tallied at the 7:03 mark, sending Roseau into the lead for the first time in the game. Dale Olson banged in a Rams' tally at the 9:43 mark, giving coach Oscar Almquist's club a 4 to 2 margin; but Arlan Hjelle, who turned in a fine all-round game centering the second line, tallied at the 11:24 mark, with Eddie Holmes on the assist.

In the third stanza, the Rams nailed in some "insurance" markers, with Doug Vacura scoring at the 3:45 mark, and Keith Brandt recovering a rebound to score at the 8:24 point of the period, to give the Rams their deserved 6 to 3 win.

Gladstone Papers, Please Copy

Philip J. LeGault, Upper Michigan's gift to northwestern Minnesota athletics — golf, baseball, softball, whist, and bowling — won the fourth round of the Northern Chevrolet singles bowling elimination tournament in progress on the Family Bowl lanes on Sunday afternoon.

Phil the lefthander bowled games of 225-174-185, for an aggregate of 584 pins, as he eliminated Del Harbott, last week's winner over Lloyd Samuelson. Harbott rolled consistent games of 173-174-180, for an aggregate of 527, giving LeGault a margin of 57 pins in the three-game total pins match.

LeGault, the possessor of a wide-sweepin hook (and which brings tears to the eyes of Plummer's Wally DuChamp as it scatters the pins for strikes on thin and cross-over hits) really won the match in the first game when he marked up a 225 score. Phil chalked up two spares, then a strike, another pair of spares, then three strikes in a row, a spare, and then struck out. The two bowlers halved the second game, with 174's apiece, and Phil had a five-pin edge, 185 to 180, in the final.

Next Sunday, LeGault will meet rangy Marv Washnesky, and this match should be a duel of strike-ball bowlers. If LeGault wins this match, and he'll be a slight favorite, that would bring him up against Wally DuChamp on Sunday, Feb. 15. That's the match that bowlers from miles around will come in to see!

The Warroad Lakers

It is right and proper that we acknowledge Cal Marvin's Warroad Lakers as being the greatest aggregation of semi-pro hockey players to be organized into a team in these parts. The Lakers, who are currently leading the Minnesota-Ontario league, just recently returned from a trip into Wisconsin where, on the Brown County Memorial Arena rink at Green Bay, they scored a pair of one-goal wins over the Bobcats, defeating Green Bay, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3.

Warroad, with such well-known players as Murray Balagus, Chuck Lumsden, Sugar Jim Henry, Gordy Pennell, and Ray Manson from Winnipeg on squad, and Fort Frances' Sambo Fedoruk, plus such top-notch local talent as Dick Roberts, Gordy and Roger Christian, is pretty much of a "dream" team. It was not surprise that this club trounced the U. S. Nationals, 7 to 1.

Miscellany

Maynard Troland; a native of Thief River Falls and a football end and basketball forward with the Prowlers of 1949-50, is sports announcer of radio station KBUN at Bemidji. It was Maynard's broadcast of the Bemidji vs. Thief River Falls basketball game at Bemidji that was tape-recorded and re-broadcast by KTRF for the stay-at-home fans. . . This thirty-below-zero weather is the ideal time to reveal that coach Ralph Skay's baseball Prowlers will be wearing new uniforms when this season's baseball season rolls around. The old uniforms have been sold to the Karlstad high school. . . Marv Jorde, co-captain and all-state tournament center with the state hockey champion Prowlers of 1951, and a three-year letterman with the Minnesota Gophers, is playing hockey with the Rochester Mustangs. . . Kenny Wellen, who earned hockey letters at Minnesota and North Dakota, has joined the Roseau Cloverleafs of the Northwest hockey league. Wellen, in his early high school days was a goalie, and a good one, but shifted to center-ice in his senior year. He was a forward at both Minnesota and North Dakota. . . Kenny Weber, a standout righthanded pitcher with Paul Johnson's regional champion Ada Vikings last season, and Doug Halcrow, a fast-balling righthander with the history-making Drayton American Legion junior baseball team last summer, are both attending the University of North Dakota. Kenny and Doug are playing basketball with the North Dakota freshman squad.

The Lumberjacks held a narrow 8 to 6 lead at the end of the first period, with Harvey Ebbighausen tallying the Prowler points on a pair of field goals and two free throws. A 14-point second period, and a 20-point third period, moved the Jacks into a commanding lead, with the score being 42 to 23 entering the final eight minutes of play. The locals outpointed the Jacks, 18 to 16 in the final quarter.

Warren Defeated by Prowler Quint 58-38

Except for a few minutes midway in the first period, when the Warren Ponies, trailing by a 12 to 4 score, pared the Prowler lead to three points, 12 to 9, coach Alan Adams' blue-and-gold squad was in control of the district conference basketball game played here Friday night, winning by a 58 to 38 score.

On Tuesday night, on the Lincoln high school gymnasium court, the Prowlers will play the Red Lake Falls Eagles in a district conference tilt.

On Friday night, the Prowlers, shooting at the east basket, dropped in four field goals to take an 8 to 0 lead over coach Irv St. John's Warren cagers. Bill Gilbert and Warren Strandell, on drive-in layups, scored a pair of field goals for the Ponies, and then, after the locals had moved ahead 12 to 4, Tom Knutson, on a pair of field goals and a free throw, carried the Ponies to within three points of the Prowlers, 12 to 9. The Prowlers held an 18 to 13 margin at the end of the first period.

After leading by a 31 to 22 score at the halftime intermission, the Prowlers, by alert play, intercepted numerous Warren midcourt passes, getting three field goals on breakaway layups, gaining a 37 to 22 lead. The play in the third period was very erratic, with both teams being guilty of loose ball handling and faulty passing. The Prowlers outpointed the Ponies, 10 to 5, in the period.

The Prowlers continued to pull away from the Ponies in the fourth period, outscoring Warren, 17 to 11, with Phil Hanson and Steve Embury each collecting six points.

Phil Hanson turned in another twenty-point game, marking up eight field goals and four free throws for twenty points. Warren's lanky Tom Knutson was runner-up in the individual scoring with ten points, scoring four field goals and a pair of gift tosses.

Curling Loops to End Schedule This Week

The Thief River curling club will complete its schedule of play this week, with the league races, the American and National, continuing in contention. The Ray Olson and Lawrence Lubitz rinks are deadlocked for first place in the American league, with each rink having a match remaining on its schedule.

In the National league competition, the Al Thompson rink, with a mark of three wins and one loss, is in first place, but the squad has two matches remaining to be played, meeting the Russ Embury and the Bill Rupprecht rinks. The veteran Ed DeLap rink has completed its league schedule, posting a mark of four wins and two losses.

Of the week's most important match, the Ray (Streamline) Olson rink edged out the Henry Thorson rink in an American league encounter, 7 to 5. The win kept the Olson rink in a first place tie with the Lawrence Lubitz rink. The Lubitz rink defeated the Allen Mortenson rink, 10 to 7, to keep pace with the Olson rink.

Bemidji Hearing Held on Plea of Soo Line to Halt Duluth Train

The Interstate Commerce Commission concluded two days of hearings at Bemidji January 22 on the application of the Soo Line Railroad to discontinue its passenger service between Duluth and Thief River Falls.

The testimony presented before Examiner Robert Romero will now be submitted to the full I.C.C. board in Washington for final consideration.

Should the Commission approve the railroad's application the train service would end immediately. If no decision is rendered the railroad could still discontinue service four months after the date of its original application, or sometime in early spring.

Affected would be a combination passenger-baggage train, numbers 64 and 65 that makes a daily trip in each direction from Duluth-Superior to Thief River Falls. Curtailment of services would affect Thief River Falls, Oklee, Trail, Gully, Leonard, Clearbrook and Gonvick in this area.

The Soo Line has proposed to continue express service on a daily basis by attaching a baggage car to its current freight run over the same route. However, this service would be in only one direction each day rather than both, as is now the case.

The railroad offered as evidence financial statements showing that the run lost over $100,000 last year and that deficits were still increasing. Passenger load on the line had dropped to ten per trip, and no more than three of these were on the train at the same time.

As its final witness the railroad introduced John A. Holt, Highway Transportation Officer of the Minneapolis regional post office. Holt outlined the post office department's plans to distribute mail over the route after the trains have been removed and stated that service would be equally as good as under the present setup. Bus, train and airline schedules were also produced show that parallel transportation service was available to most of the communities along the line.

The railroad was represented in the hearing by Osborne Becklund while Oliver A. Ossanna led the protesting forces as attorney for the Railroad and Warehouse Commission. The Railroad Brotherhood also protested, represented by L. J. Covey, Ernest W. Clausen and Frank H. Wilson.

Frank J. Rose, assistant to the vice president and general manager of the railroad spent the entire first morning session explaining the line's position in the case, pointing to decreasing revenues and passenger load and increasing expenses to prove that it was impossible to operate the trains at anywhere near the break even point.

Under cross examination by counsel representing the Railroad Brotherhood, Mr. Rose, admitted however, that the discontinuance of the two trains involved would result in the loss of 13 jobs some where in the system though the men immediately involved would be absorbed at other positions. He stated however, that retirements and other separations would probably result in the re-employment of anyone let out by such a switch within the next few months.

Several citizens from towns along the line which would be affected spoke against the proposal as representatives of areas involved. Most of them pointed out the railroad was the only means of public transportation serving their towns.

Revenue from all sources on the train, passenger, mail, milk and express, totalled $76,350 for 1957, while the salaries of the train crew alone came to $109,895 and total costs reached $176,382 for a net loss of 6c for every mile the train travelled. Figures for the first half of 1958 revealed that the losses were even higher.

Social Security Affects Pensions to Some Veterans

VA Center Manager at Fargo Makes Statement to Clarify the Rules

No part of benefit payments from Social Security can be waived by veterans or their widows who must meet certain income limitations to be eligible for nonservice-connected disability or death pension from Veterans Administration.

That statement was issued today by W. R. Byrd, manager of the Fargo VA center, who said he is receiving many queries on the subject.

Byrd said a boost in Social Security payments which will be reflected in the checks delivered during early February, 1959, may cause some persons to become ineligible for VA pension because their "other income" will exceed $1,400 annually (if without dependents) or $2,700 (if with dependents).

Many of the affected pensioners mistakenly believe they may waive part of their Social Security benefits and thus bring their "other income" below the annual limitations established for VA pension, he added.

Income limitations for VA pension purposes apply to veterans and widows of veterans of World War I, World War II, and the Korean Conflict. They do not apply to veterans or widows of veterans of wars before World War I, Byrd explained.

He also pointed out that until the person receiving Social Security has actually received an amount equal to the total Social Security contributions taken from his salary or wages in the past, the monthly Social Security payments do not count as income and do not have to be reported.

Aluminum Pans Perfectly Safe Altho Darkened

Aluminum pans that have darkened inside are perfectly safe to use, according to a University of Minnesota home economist.

Whenever aluminum comes in contact with an alkaline material, it is likely to turn dark, explains Florence Ehrenkranz, University professor of home economics. For example, hard water, baking soda or cooking certain vegetables in aluminum may cause darkening.

This darkening will have no harmful effect on foods cooked in the pans, Miss Ehrenkranz assures homemakers.

A good way to brighten such pans is to heat a weak acid solution in them, for example, a solution of water and a small amount of vinegar or cream of tartar. Do not let the solution stand in the pan more than half an hour or so. Cooking grape jelly in dark aluminum pans is a sure way to make them bright and shiny—and the jelly will be perfectly safe to use.

Cleaning aluminum regularly with fine steel wool soap pads will keep it bright, Miss Ehrenkranz adds.

Electrical Week Slated Feb. 8-14

Industry to Celebrate Thomas Edison Birthday

The birthday of Thomas A. Edison who gave the world the first successful incandescent lamp will be commemorated during National Electrical Week, February 8-14, and the industry founded by his inventive genius will have as its slogan for the celebration, "Electricity Builds Jobs".

From a mere handful of men associated with Edison, the working force of the electrical industry has grown to more than 3 million and is still expanding. Here in Minnesota, with its many rural electric cooperatives is an example of how electricity builds jobs. Prior to the establishment of the Rural Electrification Administration in 1936, very little manpower was employed in the field of rural electrification.

Today, there are 52 rural electric cooperatives in Minnesota with many hundred men and women on their payrolls for steady employment. It explains why employment in the field of supplying electricity has increased 30 percent in the last 20 years. During the same period, however, manpower in the field of electrical contracting showed an unprecedented rise of 200 percent.

Legume Institute at Roseau February 13

Plans are complete for the eighth annual legume seed production institute to be held in the Roseau municipal auditorium Friday, February 13. Members of the University of Minnesota teaching and research staff, the extension service and representatives of the seed industry will make up the eleven-member faculty which will conduct the institute.

The program will get under way at 9:30 a.m. with a welcome from Carl Jackson, mayor of Roseau, and a movie showing the story of pollination. Chairman at the morning session will be M. F. Kernkamp, assistant director of the Minnesota agricultural station. The speaking program will get under way at 10 o'clock with a discussion of problems and practices relating to the production of red clover seed.

A. G. Peterson, associate professor in the department of entomology will discuss insects; Roy Wilcoxson, assistant professor in plant pathology, will speak on diseases; a section on weeds will be handled by Richard Behrens, associate professor of agronomy; and L. J. Elling, associate professor in agronomy, will discuss the matter of seed yields.

The role of the agricultural extension service is helping to meet seed growers' problems is scheduled to be discussed by J. A. Lofgren, extension specialist in entomology, and Roseau county agent William N. Provance.

Professor Behrens will report on work done in the field of chemicals for the control of weeds in legume fields.

Chairman of the afternoon session which will get under way about 1:30 will be F. G. Holdaway, professor of entomology and coordinator of the legume research program being carried on by the University of Minnesota. Dr. Holdaway and K. W. Tucker, research fellow in entomology, will discuss the problems of pollination of alsike clover both from the standpoint of what has taken place in the past and what might be expected in the future.

The use of fertilizers and soil management practices for legume seed production are areas for consideration of Professor Paul M. Burson of the soils department.

The seed producer and the seed industry is the topic of the final portion of the program. It will be handled by two representatives of the seed industry, Stanley Folsom of the Twin City Seed Co. in Minneapolis, and Harold Reim of Sjoberg Seed Co. of Roseau.

A question and answer period will follow the afternoon program.

"I have ever gained the most profit, and the most pleasure also, from the books which have made me think the most; and, when the difficulties have once been overcome, these are the books which have struck the deepest root, not only in my memory and understanding, but likewise in my affections."

Storm Sewer Problems

It is not strange that there are differences of opinions among property owners over the assessment costs of street improvements and storm sewers. The objections of some of the owners of top-of-the-hill property to sharing in the costs of drainage in which it appears that they have little direct interest is understandable. There generally are two sides to these arguments however, and it is not always easy to arrive at equitable solutions.

The questions being raised presently about the proposed west side storm sewer project here in Thief River Falls, are, like the project itself, not unusual. Residents of a top-of-the-hill area have no trouble with flooded basements, while for their neighbors living at a lower level, basement flooding has been a problem for many years.

This lower, closer-in area, developed first, and the residents of that area built for themselves a combination sanitary and storm sewer. Presumably it served its purpose at that time. But as the city grew in population and expanded, this sewer system was extended. That original installation, as we understand it, now is the outlet for the sanitary sewers serving an area that was farm land beyond the city city limits at that time.

It would appear, therefore, that the top-of-the-hill area has benefited to some extent by the use it has made of the original sewer as the outlet for its own extensions for sanitary purposes.

That old sanitary sewer is no longer adequate for both sanitary and storm sewer needs, and the need for a separate storm sewer serving the entire area has long been recognized. The problem requires immediate action because of the relocation of trunk highway No. 59 and its approach from the west on Third Street.

The state highway department will require adequate drainage for this new approach on Third Street and will either build its own storm sewer system or participate in the cost of a district project. Highway department officials have indicated a willingness to share in the cost of a district project to the extent of what its cost would be if it were to build its own system.

Neither the city nor the property owners of the district can afford to pass up this opportunity to get substantial assistance in paying for an improvement that already is overdue and must come eventually.

It no doubt is true that the problems of the high-landers differ in some respects from those of the low-landers. But they also have several interests in common. They have a common interest in a sanitary sewer system and a common responsibility for keeping it adequate. And it should be kept in mind that storm sewers now are essential in any high standard street surfacing program. For good street construction storm sewers are just as important on top of the hill as at the lower levels.

Considering all of the circumstances, the fact that the state will now participate in a district program and that some state-city street funds will be available and help to reduce the overall cost to property owners, we are satisfied that it would be short-sighted not to provide for the needs of the entire district at this time, at least in the overall planning and for the immediate construction of as much of the system as is essential for the immediate needs.

As for how costs should be distributed, we presume that there are procedures to be followed. Reasonable people generally find reasonable solutions for their differences.

In the best interests of the community, we hope the high-landers and the low-landers of the west side will find satisfactory solutions for a problem that is important to all of us.

Time To Debate?

Governor Orville Freeman says, "The time has come for a great debate in this state." He referred to the question of tax policy.

We would agree with him that not only has the time come—it is long past due. And the debate should not be limited to tax policy. His spending program should also be thoroughly discussed.

Governor Freeman's opponent in the election last fall thought these questions should have been debated during the campaign. At that time, however, the governor told us we have no financial problem here in Minnesota. He said the opposition was misrepresenting the facts.

Most informed people knew at that time that it was Governor Freeman who was misrepresenting the facts and dodging the important issues.

But better late than never, and we will agree that now is a good time to debate the question of tax policy, to which spending is closely related.

As quoted in the Minneapolis Tribune, he opened the door to several interesting discussions. We will disagree with him from time to time on his statement that we from the rural areas are getting a free ride. He said: "Most of you from rural counties will find that whatever you pay to the state is returned to you in substantially greater amounts." On that subject alone we think the argument can be continued for a long time.

Peaceful Adjustment

Pursuant to a court order, Atlanta buses were recently desegregated and Negroes began sitting where they pleased. Atlanta is one of 34 cities of the South that have abandoned segregated seating in public transportation. In only one of these 34 cities, according to the Christian Science Monitor, were there "noteworthy incidents." In only four of the 34 did the change come by court order.

This is encouraging progress. The fact that this change came with so little disturbance probably can be attributed in part to the moderation of the Negroes themselves in the use of their new privilege. The vast majority of them, according to the Monitor, followed custom ". . . and the common tendency for like to seek like, friends to seek friends."

Concluded the Monitor, "People are much the same everywhere in all their social relationships—even when not conformed to a pattern by law."

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

Stephen Leacock, the Canadian professor and humorist, once wrote an anecdote about the elective system of taking courses. He had, he reported, an American student during the summer session. He asked him what he was going to take in the way of courses that autumn. "Turkish, music and architecture," the student promptly replied.

"Do you expect to be choirmaster in a Turkish cathedral?" Mr. Leacock asked.

"No," said the student, "those courses come at 9, 10 and 11 o'clock."

They're already pouring foundations for Smiley Roberts' new store, now that the old house on the place has been torn down in record time.

"Those wreckers sure did a fast job," Smiley explained with a chuckle. "Of course, I helped speed things up myself.

"Someone found a letter behind a rafter. Gave me an idea. I put $30 in an envelope, hid it, then 'discovered' it right under their noses. After that, the boys worked so fast I gave them that thirty dollars as a bonus!"

From where I sit, some things—like being a good neighbor—shouldn't require "special inducements." That's something we should all want to be—just automatically. When you visit my home, for example, I try to be a good neighbor by serving you your favorite beverage—be it coffee, tea or a glass of beer. Extend the same courtesy to me, and I'd call that a "bonus" of good neighborliness.

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS from the Desk of SENATOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

President's Budget Message

The President submitted to the Congress last week his budget for 1960. The Federal budget involves a great deal of guesswork at best. A year ago, for example, the President predicted a $500 million surplus for fiscal 1959, whereas the deficit will actually be close to $13 billion! Because of the difficulty in estimating the budget, too much stock should not be placed in assurances of a balanced budget for fiscal 1960. It is based on doubtful assumptions and on drastic slashes in many sorely needed programs.

Asks Tax Boosts

Although the President in recent weeks has held out the promising hope of tax cuts in the not-too-distant future, in his budget message he urges tax boosts such as another increase in first-class postage rates of 20 percent and a 50 percent rise in the gasoline tax! Another big "if" in the President's budget is his prediction of a whopping $9 billion increase in tax revenue. This can only happen if business profits and personal income soar greatly in the next 18 months. Needless to say we all hope for such a business boom. Few financial experts, however, are so optimistic. Recovery has in fact been losing its steam in recent months—industrial production still is lagging behind 1956 and 1957. Unemployment remains far too high. There are now more than 4 million looking for work and every indication of 5 million jobless later this winter. In view of these facts, the President's prediction of a boom quite unrealistic.

Must Appraise Needs

The big question to consider is whether the 1960 budget measures up to the needs of our country, and whether or not it encourages the kind of economic expansion and full employment needed to keep us strong enough to meet the challenge we face from the Soviet Union. We all like to see our government operate in the black. However, just cutting expenditures, regardless of their merit, is not necessarily the wisest way of achieving that goal. At a time when our population is increasing, government budgetary and fiscal policies must be geared to expanding our economy sufficiently to meet our expanding needs by broadening the base from which the government's revenue is derived. Unfortunately, the Administration's proposal that we slash expenditures by almost $1 billion could have the opposite effect of further restricting our economy. Most of us feel that our country's security and well-being must not be sacrificed in the name of a balanced budget, and would prefer seeking means of keeping our economy expanding so that we can both balance the budget and provide for the country's needs at the same time! Many Americans, including myself, remember only too well that we had balanced budgets under the Republicans during the worst depression in history.

Can't Allow Stagnation

The new 86th Congress is going to face up to the needs of the people. We are going to pass a meaningful housing bill designed to help both home buyers and home builders. We are going to aid airports in getting ready for the jet age. We are going to pass an area redevelopment bill to assist those sections of the country which are in economic distress. Despite the President's opposition to these programs, the Congress is determined to act. All of these programs will add to the national income. In view of the industrial and scientific growth of the Soviet Union, I do not think Congress will go along with the President's defense cuts. It is quite obvious that our defenses will be weakened if the proposed slashes in missile procurement and military aircraft are accepted; especially on top of cutbacks this fiscal year in manpower, ships and weapons. It is simply not possible for the United States to lead the free world and to maintain a position of real strength, and at the same time to operate "on the cheap." In this crucial time in history, we cannot permit public stagnation as is suggested in the President's budget. This is not what the people voted for in November.

Slow Down—and Live.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Last week I referred to the value of public discussion of the questions involved in the proposed state budget, and illustrated the need for the recommended expenditures. Ever since I presented my budget message I have received letters from citizens of Minnesota presenting their opinions. These letters represent all points of view, and I read them carefully.

Pro and Con

Many of the letters reveal that the writers know only some of the facts, and many of them ask for more information. Many of them support my program, and others express opposition, a few in violent terms. I want to share with you some that are typical of the many.

Services are Appreciated

Many of the most appealing letters are from those who have personal knowledge of how increased state services are helping the people. I was especially impressed by the parents who wrote: "We certainly appreciate having a class for retarded children in our school this year. We wish you could see how it has opened a new world for our son. It hasn't been easy in years past to see him sit in class with the regular classes and he couldn't keep up at all. We trust you will use your influence in supporting this program whenever it comes up."

On the other hand, another letter from that same town said the state should cut its spending.

Opponents

Those who express opposition do so on several grounds. One man wrote: "The only remedy is cut out the overload on taxes by building less colleges and hiring less high price teachers." Those who prefer a sales tax to an income tax most frequently suggest that "it is easier to pay by the penny than by the dollar", and that a sales tax would be better for business.

One writer, who says the "sales tax is the only answer", adds that "the lower income group can do without items that are taxed," although he says he advocates a sales tax with no exemptions. I trust that he does not seriously believe that the lower income group should do without food, but that is in effect what he says.

I try to give as complete an answer as possible to all these letters, even to the one that said, "My frank opinion of your new tax proposal is that it stinks." I believe so thoroughly in full discussion that I always hope those who write will give the same serious consideration to my replies as I give to their opinions.

Supporters

It is pleasanter, of course, to get letters in support of a program which I sincerely believe is best for the people of our state. These have been numerous. Some are very brief, such as the postcard that said, briefly but effectively, "I am not in favor of a sales tax. I am a housewife."

Some go further, to indicate a real understanding of the choice we must make as citizens. One such letter said: "We admire your courage in asking for a tax increase. (It is unfortunate that in this prosperous era, courage is required for such a task.) We support your program 100 percent. We are willing to pay more taxes. We feel education, welfare programs, etc. are far more important than wall-to-wall carpeting, or a Buick instead of a Ford. We sincerely hope you achieve your goals."

More Information

I am sincerely appreciative, too, for those who write to seek more information and who ask for copies of the budget message. Whatever their point of view, the more information and understanding our citizens have, the more likely we are to arrive at the best possible program.

Water, Water Everywhere

A minister, faced with the usual problem of a shortage of funds, was making a long, ardent and futile plea for greater donations from a church member who was noted for his miserly ways and regular attendance.

"See here," the tight-fisted member of his congregation said. "It seems to me that prayer, like water, is a gift from the Almighty and should be free."

"That's right," the minister said. "The gift is free but you have to pay for the piping in both cases."

That is what the citizens of Thief River Falls will be called upon to do through their city council within the next few years—to furnish a lot of piping—over a quarter-million dollars worth. Part of this expenditure will be to GET water and the remainder to GET RID of it.

What happens when there is a shortage in either department will be remembered by people who look back wryly at flooded basements in the spring and the ban on the use of water during the summer.

One of the greatest expenditures will be for an additional water tank and reservoir on the east side of the river to supplement the inadequate and aged tank on Atlantic and Second. This, the engineers say, will cost in the neighborhood of $170,000 (an expensive but necessary neighborhood.)

The immediate reaction of many will be, "Why do we need another tank? The old one has been doing a good job for many years?" These people have already answered their own questions. The tank is over 50 years old and was installed when the city was a much smaller place. Experts who have examined it say that it is on its last legs. The last possible patch has been welded on.

Its inadequacy was pointed out last summer when a ban was placed on the use of water during the hottest weather.

Any industry which might be seeking a new location would reject the city if they needed a large amount of water for their manufacturing processes, which most of them do.

When the new tank and reservoir are installed, the old tank will also have to be replaced. The cost for this work has never been discussed and is not figured into the quarter-million-plus dollars which I first quoted.

Turning to the subject of how to GET RID of water, one group of citizens, those in drainage district three, will have a chance to air their views in a public hearing with the council Monday evening, February 9, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The inescapable fact is that we are "flatlanders" who, when the rains fall and the snow and ice melt, have to provide facilities to drain away the water.

There are two ways to get rid of water—either keep the present roadside ditches which, in many cases do not do the job, or provide subsurface drains.

Those people who want surfaced city streets running by their homes will have to content themselves with the verdict of engineers who say that storm sewers come first, that no satisfactory streets can be built without first putting in the sub-surface drains.

The matter of storm sewers in drainage district three has been brought to a head sooner than some people anticipated by the extension of West Third street for the relocation of the highways. Storm sewer construction is a part of that job and the question now is how far the storm sewers should be extended, who is to pay for them and how much people in certain areas should pay in comparison to others.

One point stands repeating. Modern, surfaced streets must have storm sewers to drain them. Construction without sub-surface drains is impossible. If residents want good streets, they must first pay for storm sewers.

There are, of course, many who feel that the question of providing drainage for district three is a matter of concern only for the people who live within the area. Unfortunately, that is not true. The city's share will be in the neighborhood of $125,000 (another expensive neighborhood) and the tax dollars provided by everyone in Thief River Falls will pay for the city's share. Property owners in district three will pay more in the form of assessments.

These two improvements, totaling over a quarter-million dollars, are but two of those which will be necessary in the near future. It is not difficult to think of others but near the top of the list must come street improvements which are expensive necessities.

Another item of large cost was forcibly brought to the attention of the city last week when aged water mains on the west side of the river gave way after being attacked over the years by the corrosive action of clay soil and the effect of frost.

No method had been provided for isolating certain areas when breaks like this occurred. To repair the break on Duluth ave. N. the water for the entire city was turned off.

According to Harold M. Johnson, superintendent of the water department, old mains like the one which broke last week are supplying water up to Tenth st. on Duluth, Arnold and Knight ave. and on six blocks of State ave. To point out the condition of these mains, one section of 75 feet on Arnold ave. S. now has five or six repair sleeves.

Funds for city improvements must come from somewhere and there is no doubt who will be called upon to foot the bill. We announced, happily, that the city mill rate would not be increased for 1959 and we would like to announce those glad tidings in years to come.

Perhaps that will be possible, for a short time at least, if we don't "spread ourselves too thin" by buying things which are not necessary but would be "nice to have," if the city fathers exercise strict economy in their spending and if we can keep interested pressure groups from dipping their fingers into the city till.

Bill Would in Financi Jr. College

Wichterman Bill Is Submitted to Lower House on Monday

A six million dollar appropriation to finance construction and equipment of new junior colleges is authorized in a bill introduced in the Minnesota Legislature Monday.

Principal sponsors of the measure, patterned after recommendations of the advisory committee on junior colleges, were Reps. Wayne Bassett of Worthington and B. M. Wichterman of Plummer.

The measure also would extend financial aid for construction and equipment to existing junior colleges located at Rochester, Ely, Austin, Brainerd, Coleraine, Eveleth, Hibbing, Virginia, and Worthington.

The advisory committee listed the following communities as promising sites for new junior colleges:

Fairmont, Glencoe, Litchfield, Willmar, Hutchinson, Alexandria, Morris, Benson, Thief River Falls, Crookston, Fergus Falls, Detroit Lakes, Redwood Falls, Marshall, Montevideo, Granite Falls, Faribault, Owatonna, Red Wing, Mora, Pine City and International Falls.

The committee also recognized the need for additional facilities in the Twin Cities and suburban areas, but pointed to the presence of private colleges and the University of Minnesota and the service these institutions provide in furnishing college education to students in their sections.

Bassett, who recently resigned as a member of the state board of education, explained that aid paid under the proposal would be restricted to buildings and equipment directly involved in instruction such as classrooms, libraries, laboratories, offices and similar space, but excluding cafeterias, spectator gymnasiums, large community auditoriums, and the cost of the site on which such buildings are located.

The board of any school districts, under the proposal, would be authorized to submit plans and specifications to the state board of education, and apply for aid.

The education board, if it finds the proposed plan "sound and practical and designed to contribute materially to the education of the people," would be empowered to pay not less than 50 per cent and not to exceed 75 per cent of the estimated cost of the project. However, the amount could not exceed $500,000 to any one district or group of districts jointly maintaining a junior college.

Further, the Bassett-Wichterman bill provides, the state board, in determining the contribution, would give due consideration to the latest assessed valuation of the district as adjusted by the equalization aid review committee.

Heart Fund Drive Now in Progress

County Chairman Wendell Olson Invites Support

Thief River Falls this week joined hundreds of Minnesota communities observing American Heart Month and the 1959 Heart Fund drive against heart disease.

Contributions to the drive in Pennington county are now being sought, according to Wendell Olson, county chairman.

Nearly 1,500 local chairmen are heading up various segments of the campaign, directed in many instances by members of the Minnesota State Association of Life Underwriters.

The public is being reminded that heart research projects sponsored by Heart Fund dollars have brought about miraculous surgical techniques which enable surgeons at University of Minnesota hospitals and Mayo Clinic to lead the world in the repair of defective hearts. Together, the two institutions have done more operations than all other hospitals in the entire world combined.

Scientists are also utilizing financial grants from the Heart Association to grapple with hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure, the two major causes of heart disease which have as yet escaped medical understanding.

Area Schools Close Tuesday Due to Storm

Blowing Snow Drifts on Roads; Groundhog Saw Shadow Monday

Three inches of soft snow dropped on the area were supplemented by an additional inch Monday night and winds of from 25 to 35 miles an hour whipped it into road-choking drifts that closed nearly every school in the area Tuesday, including Thief River Falls.

Brother Groundhog emerged from his home Monday morning, took one look at the brilliant sunshine and the —5 degree temperature and went back to the comfort of his bed with chattering teeth and a pledge not to give the area any relief from the winter for another six weeks.

The —39 recorded the night before was the low for the season replacing the night of January 30 which had previously held the dubious distinction of being the coldest with a —32.

February 2, Monday, tried to make up for the shortcoming of the other days this week when the mercury reached a 25 degree reading but cold arctic air again edged into the area sending the mercury down to seven degrees the following day and to zero Wednesday.

If the weather prediction from the KTRF station comes true, the area is in for more cold weather. It calls for considerable cloudiness and cold today with scattered snow flurries and local blowing snow. Tonight, the skies are expected to clear accompanied by much colder weather.

Tomorrow is expected to be partly cloudy and continued very cold. Northwest winds gusting from 20 to 25 miles an hour today are expected to diminish tonight.

The high predicted for today is from 0 to —5 and the lows for tonight a frigid —25 to —35.

Square Dance Club to Meet Saturday at Northrop Gym

The Falls Square Dance club will have its next meeting Saturday evening, Feb. 7, beginning at 8:30 o'clock in the Northrop school gymnasium with Ed DeLap as caller.

It has been decided that the club will have five dances this season. Season tickets are available from officers of the club.

Jerry Hustad and son John of Minneapolis spent Wednesday and Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Anderson.

Average Minimum 11.5 Below for January

Residents of the area can look back fondly on the period from January 6-14 as a lifesaver for the month, for without it, the average temperatures, cold as they were, would be much colder.

During those eight days, daytime temperatures ranged as high as 30 degrees on the 13th, and evening hours were a comparatively balmy 18 as recorded on the 11th.

That is about as much good as can be said about the past month which had an average high temperature of 3.1 degrees and a low of —11.5. This compares unfavorably with November which had an average high of 30.9 and a low of 15.7 degrees and December with a high of 10.9 and a low of —6.

Only four nights of the past month saw above-zero readings and 17 days, 11 of them from the 15th through the 25th, the mercury never came above the zero mark.

Adding insult to injury, the month bowed out on the last two days with two of the coldest nights on record, a —28 on the 30th and a —32 on the 31st.

Here is the summary of temperatures for January:

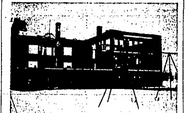
Only Walls are Standing



This is the two-story Strandquist school which burned Feb. 7 leaving the community without educational facilities. The building, constructed in 1916 and enlarged during the 1930's, contained 10 classrooms and other facilities for the 200 students from grade one through 12. Only the recently-completed gymnasium, attached to the main building by a passageway, was saved by firemen from Strandquist, Karlstad, Newfolden, Stephen and Greenbush. Classes will be resumed Monday morning in temporary classrooms in the gymnasium, the town hall and in the churches of the community. (Photo by the Karlstad Advocate.)

School Work Resumes after Fire Destroys Strandquist School

Strandquist school classes will resume Monday morning in temporary classrooms in the gymnasium, town hall and in churches, according to Supt. Leon Orcutt following a meeting Feb. 2 with instructors and members of the school and village board.

Desks, books and supplies have been offered to the school on a temporary basis by other communities in the area and supplies have been ordered.

The Strandquist school, a two-story brick structure, was swept by fire which broke out at about 11 p.m. Saturday and left only the walls standing. The original building, constructed in 1916 and enlarged in the 1930's, contained 10 classrooms for grades one through 12, a lunch room, industrial arts department and other facilities.

The recently-constructed gymnasium, attached to the older building by a passageway, was saved by firemen from Strandquist, Newfolden, Stephen, Karlstad and Greenbush, who fought the fire for several hours to save the $110,000 addition.

Edward Carlson, Sylvester Kasprowicz and Jim Musburger were among the first to see the fire breaking through the west windows and gave the alarm. Cause of the blaze has not been determined but it is thought to have started on the first floor only a half-hour after Oscar Carlson, the school custodian, had checked the building.

Within a short time after the discovery, the fire had burst through the roof and could be seen 10 miles away. Supt. Orcutt said that the flames made such terrific headway that no one could get in the building by the time firemen arrived.

Band instruments, basketball equipment and the piano had either been removed by the students or were in the gymnasium and were saved, but all other equipment was destroyed. Orcutt said that there was $130,000 insurance on the building and $25,000 on the contents but that it would cost $350,000 to replace everything.

Strandquist, which has a population of about 225, has more than 200 students from the town and from a radius of 15 miles in the country.

District No. 3 Storm Sewer Hearing Feb. 9

Estimate Average Assessment to Be $266 Per 50-ft. Lot

Residents in the area in the western part of the city where storm sewers would be constructed under the proposal being made for District 3 would pay $268 in special assessments for a standard 50x140-foot lot, according to the tentative figures released by the city council and based on the preliminary estimate of costs.

The total cost of the project which will come up for public hearing Monday evening, Feb. 9, at 8 o'clock in the city Auditorium, would be $356,000, according to D.H. Stewart, engineer for the city. Of this amount, $170,750 would be raised by special assessments and the difference would be made up by the city through state aid funds, through trunk highway funds for the Third st. construction project and through general obligation.

The assessment would be computed at 3.8c per square foot of improved property.

The area which will be concerned in the Monday evening public hearing includes, in addition to the section included in storm sewer district 3, Stenberg's addition in the northwest section of the city and one in the southwest section of the city bounded on the north by Backe st., on the east by the alleyway between Arnold and State sts., on the south by Emil st. and on the west by the Great Northern railway company right-of-way.

A map of the area which would be subject to special assessments for the storm sewer project will be found elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

2 Lincoln Seniors Take High Rank In Nationwide Exams

Rochelle Dahlen and James Terrian Runners-up in Scholarship Tests

Two seniors at Lincoln high school have been commended by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation for their outstanding performances on a nationwide test of educational development, according to Guidance Director Dennis Rolle.

The seniors honored are Rochelle Dahlen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Dahlen, and James Terrian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Terrian.

The two students were the Minnesota runners-up in the 1958-59 Merit Scholarship competition. Each has been sent a letter of commendation by National Merit Scholarship Corporation. John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, believes that the 10,000 students who received the commendation rank in the top two or three per cent in ability of the senior students in their respective states and should be given every encouragement to continue with their education.

"While the students receiving this commendation did not quite reach the finals of the 1958-59 Merit Scholarship competition, each of them has demonstrated highly superior ability and outstanding promise to benefit from college training," declared Mr. Stalnaker.

The annual National Merit Scholarship competition offers the largest system of privately financed scholarships in the United States. The program is open to all high school seniors in the United States and its possessions.

Over 478,000 students in 14,600 high schools entered the 1958-59 competition, which began with the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test on April 29, 1958.

Lions Club Is Told of American Field Service Chapter

Roy Oen Says Agency Seeks to Arrange Trips Abroad for Local Young People

Roy J. Oen, temporary chairman of the committee appointed to organize a Thief River Falls chapter of the American Field Service, explained the objectives of the agency at the Lions club luncheon meeting Wednesday noon in the Elks club rooms.

Oen was accompanied by Miss Mary Demetrillo, AFS exchange student from Greece, who is completing her senior year at Lincoln high school while a guest at the Dr. J. W. Ewing home. She briefly discussed the educational system in her native land, and answered many questions from the audience.

Roy Oen stated that the committee is enlisting the support of all local organizations in raising funds to aid in financing trips abroad this summer by one or more students from this community.

He indicated that to finance a trip for one student, about $700 would be required, of which amount the AFS chapter would supply $300, with the individual being called on to supply the remaining $400.

Jim Kriegl, North Central Airlines agent here and a member of the Lions club, who is leaving next week for a new assignment at Minot, N. D., was presented with a framed membership certificate by Walt Kavanaugh in behalf of the club.

TAX FACTS #3

Claiming Dependency Exemptions

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Minnesota Society of Certified Public Accountants in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

WHEN you total up the exemptions on your 1958 tax return, remember that you are permitted to claim at least one exemption for every qualified dependent — and this includes yourself.

Count your exemptions carefully because each one takes $600 off your taxable income. Take one for yourself and two if you are 65 or over. This rule applies to both husband and wife on a joint return, and an added exemption may be taken if either is blind.

In addition, you are entitled to one exemption for each person who fits the definition of a dependent, but the extra exemptions for age and blindness cannot be taken for a dependent.

To qualify for an exemption a dependent must:

(1) Have received more than one-half of his support from you unless you file a Multiple Support Agreement (see below).

(2) Have less than $600 gross income unless he is your child and under 19 years of age — or a student of any age.

(3) Not file a joint return with his spouse.

(4) Have been either a member of your household or closely related to you, as defined in the official instructions.

(5) Be either a citizen of the United States or a resident of the U. S., Canada, Mexico, Canal Zone, Panama, or (in some cases the Philippines).

Who Qualifies

Your exemptions usually depend on whether you and your dependents qualify under these rules at the end of the year. However, if your husband or wife died during the year you can file a joint return and take the same exemptions that both of you would have otherwise had.

If you shared with others in the support of a dependent, but none of you provided more than half, you may still be able to arrange for one member of the group to have the $600 exemption. You might agree, for example, to take turns claiming the exemption each year.

The one who claims the exemption must have contributed more than 10 per cent of the support, and he must have been a member of the group who collectively provided the necessary "more than one-half support." Each member of the group must have been entitled to claim the dependent except for the support requirement.

Multiple Support Agreements

In order for one person to have the exemption all other members of the group who contributed over 10 per cent must sign declarations that they will not claim the dependent. The Internal Revenue Service provides Form 2120 (Multiple Support Agreement) for this purpose.

Taxpayers who are supporting dependents, but are not able to file a joint return, may qualify as the "head of household," and be entitled to use a special schedule of tax rates that give you half the benefits of income-splitting.

If you qualify as a "surviving spouse" you should not file a tax return as a "head of household." The tax of a surviving spouse is computed on the same basis as a joint return and gives the full benefit of income-splitting. A "surviving spouse" is one:

1. Whose husband or wife died in the preceding two years (1956 and 1957).

2. Who maintains a home for a legally qualified dependent (the dependent in this case must be a son, step-son, daughter or step-daughter).

The official instructions that come with your tax forms give further information on how to claim your dependency exemptions. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service.

ROSES FOR ROMANCE

By F. L. Rowley

Barney Mitchell detested noise. That's why everyone in town laughed and shook his head when Mrs. Nelson and her son Al rented the cottage next door to Barney Mitchell. Al Nelson, you see, played the saxophone. Not that he earned his living by playing; no one was stupid enough to pay Al for the kind of noise he made. But he could play loud—and he had the gift of perseverance.

I got most of the story from Barney himself. "It's that Mrs. Cummings that's doing this to me!" he stormed. "She rented out her cottage to this Nelson fellow for spite. Have you ever listened to an off-key saxophone all night?"

"Maybe he'll be a great musician some day," I said.

"Pooh! I used to think Mrs. Cummings' cat was bad—at least the cat had an ear for music. I don't think there's a place in town where that saxophone can't be heard."

"How about the library?" I suggested. "It's quiet there."

Barney glared at me for a minute before growling: "You know as well as I do that Mrs. Cummings is librarian. And I'd rather listen to that wailing idiot next door than have any truck with her. She used to create bedlam on the block just to watch me squirm."

In deference to Barney's blood pressure I left. Who should I run into at the corner but Al Nelson himself. He was carrying his saxophone.

"Going to join an orchestra?" I asked.

"No, I've gotta get this thing repaired. It's been going steadily for the last month."

"So I've heard."

He grinned. "You must have been talking to Barney. I hope he's tired of my music by this time; I sure am."

"You are? Then why practice so much?"

He sidled up to me. "I know you're not in the habit of shooting your mouth off so I'll tell you. Mrs. Cummings put me up to this. She is trying to get Barney to sell his house."

"Sell his house? But why?"

"So that she can buy it. Barney has a sunny corner lot, which she says is perfect for her roses. The trees on the other side of Barney's house cast too much shade over her flowers. So she's paying me to drive him out."

"Seems like there ought to be an easier way to go about it. Say, I got an idea. Why not have Mrs. Cummings trade houses with Barney? Their houses look alike, and all Barney wants is peace and quiet. I'll bet if she promised to get rid of the cat he'd do it."

"The cat's dead, that's why she hired me," said Al. "But it sounds like you've got an idea there. If he doesn't want to swap houses he might even cut down the shade trees in exchange for a bit of silence. But how are we going to get those two together?"

I shrugged. After all, it wasn't my problem. "Write them a letter," I said with a laugh.

That might have been the end of it. How was I to know that Al would take me seriously. I was having a cup of coffee in Jerry's a few days later when Al came in and sat next to me.

"Got that letter off to Barney," he said proudly.

I chuckled. "Barney must have been fit to be tied. Are they going to swap houses?"

"Nope. They decided to live in Barney's."

"THEY? You mean—?"

"Right. Barney stomped into the library Thursday evening—and came out with Mrs. Cummings on his arm. They decided to get married and raise roses together — on Barney's sunny lot."

U.S. Steel Officials to Speak to Editors

Members of the Minnesota Legislature and a number of elected and appointed members of the official family of the State of Minnesota have been invited by the Minnesota Editorial Association to attend the most significant convention luncheon session in the 92 years of the newspaper organization.

Friday noon, Feb. 20, at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis the association presents for his first major midwest address the chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, Roger M. Blough, widely recognized industrial and economic leader and authority. The subject of his address has not yet been announced, but it unquestionably will be of great significance to Minnesota's changing industrial status and to the economic world at large.

Rudolph T. Elstad of Duluth will introduce Mr. Blough to what promises to be an impressively big audience of newspaper folk, legislators, public officials, friends and visitors. Mr. Elstad is president of one of the world's largest iron ore mining organizations, the Oliver Iron Mining division of United States Steel.

Mr. Blough is a native of Pennsylvania, where his education began in a one-room country school, continued through Susquehanna University and Yale Law School, and even included a three-year interval of teaching. He then went into the practice of law in New York City, acting as associate counsel for the Steel Corporation during an investigation in 1939-40. From that post through General Solicitor, Executive Vice president, and vice chairman of the board, he went to the chairmanship May 3, 1955.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare
University of Minnesota

Helping Child from 6 to 12

Mary, age eight, has a secret gang. Carl, age 10, is learning to pay the clarinet. Judy, age nine, is beginning to weave. Bill, age 12, has begun making a collection of airplane models. The ages from six to 12 are the time for learning skills necessary for effective living.

For example, two 12-year-old girls, Jeanne and Patsy, had a wonderful time last week playing paper dolls and planning a party with dates. It was make-believe, of course, but they were trying out the skills they will soon need. Almost every week, children of this age hear about a new project or a new skill. In some homes, the number of projects started seems endless. A good many attics with relics of half-completed projects testify to the variety of children's interests.

The years six to 12 are the time when hobbies and satisfying social relationships with boys and girls of the same age are very important. It is the time when children begin to learn the fundamentals of ironing, carpentry, cooking and household repair, as well as the adult sports and hobbies so enjoyable in later years.

One psychologist suggests that parents "expose their children to every possible interest and skill." He explains that meaningful adult skills such as clubs, sports, handyman projects, and homemaking activities start at this time. Children don't have to learn to be experts but it is important that they sample many activities and develop sufficient skill in enough of them to get the self-confidence necessary for effective living with others. Feelings of inadequacy and inferiority rob so many young people and adults of so much in life which is genuinely satisfying. Parents can help them by remembering that the degree of skill that anyone possesses in a given activity is largely responsible for the poise he demonstrates and the satisfaction he derives from participation.

Children's Arguments

"Say, Billy, you forgot the pans!" shouted Nancy.

But Billy returned, "Oh, no, Nancy, it's your turn!"

"Oh, no, you've got to do them," insisted Nancy.

Meanwhile a little voice pipped up, "I can't wipe that platter, it's too big. While the words flew back and forth, the clatter and rattle of the dishes kept on.

What was going on? Nothing too unusual. The Jones believe that by giving their children an occasional chance to do the dinner dishes together, the youngsters will have a chance to learn to give and take, and to settle their differences in order to get the job done. Jack and Mary Jones got the idea from a PTA discussion where they heard the leader say that, although it is difficult for us to keep from intervening, children often learn to settle quarrels more rapidly if parents do not step in and "break it up".

"Children never really learn to give and take if adults keep butting in," Jack explains. So, I gave them a new job and raised their allowances as their rewards. My idea is that they have to learn to get along sometime and the sooner the better. Of course, it is rather noisy and takes a long time. Sometimes I have to step in because Billy, the oldest, tends to lord it over the others. Tommy, the youngest, is learning to wipe dishes and we have to be careful not to give him too much to do."

"I sometimes wonder if the noise is worth it," explains Mary Jones, "yet I seem to notice improvement from week to week. The times of peaceful cooperation seem to get longer. Once, last week, Nancy did Billy's share so that he could go ice skating."

Yes, studies of children show that letting them fight their own battles—within reason—is one of the quickest ways to teach them to get along with one another.

More than 29,500,000 boys and leaders have been in the Boy Scouts of America since 1910.

Only 5 Cases Heard in Municipal Court

Grygla Man Fined $10 for Engaging in Fight

Only five persons appeared before Judge H.O. Chommie in Monday's municipal court session, perhaps indicating that misbehavior, as well as other activities has been affected by the midwinter doldrums.

Donald W. Nomeland, Grygla, was the lone offender brought in by Sheriff Charles Richards. Nomeland was charged with fighting and on his guilty plea he was fined $10 plus $5.50.

All other persons brought in were city police cases. Arnold L. Anton, rt. 5, pleaded guilty to failing to yield the right-of-way and was fined $10 plus $4 costs. The charge against Anton grew out of a traffic mishap, in which he was involved.

Francis R. Anderson, Karlstad, pleaded guilty to running a stop sign and was fined $10 plus $4 costs.

David A. Martin, city, was fined $5 plus $4 costs after he pleaded guilty to making an improper U turn.

Myron D. Stinar, rt. 3, Warren, pleaded guilty to driving too fast for existing road conditions and was fined $10 plus $4 costs.

No cases were brought in by the highway patrol.

'Sharing Christ' Plan Launched by St. John's Church

St. John's Lutheran church will engage in a "Sharing Christ" plan during the Lenten season, consisting in prayer, meditation, visitation and attending Lenten services, Rev. A. C. Seltz, pastor, stated today. Each Wednesday evening, beginning Ash Wednesday, there will be two Lenten services, one at 7 p.m. and the other at 8:15. The early service is intended for families and children.

Each worshipper Ash Wednesday evening will receive a small gold cross as an emblem of faith "that Christ died for our sins on the cross."

This Sunday, Feb. 8, members and friends of St. John's will be visited by groups of visitors, asking all to "share Christ" by prayer and church attendance. The committee consists of Maynard Mehrkens, chairman; Herb Hartje, co-chairman; Roger Eckstein, Tom Fuller, Ted Beiswenger and Harry Jasperson.

The plan is being promoted on a district-wide basis and will be used by many of the Lutheran churches in the Lenten season.

GOVERNOR'S PROPOSALS WOULD BOOST INDIVIDUAL'S INCOME TAX 52-96 PERCENT

State income taxes of individuals in the $3,000 to $9,000 a year income brackets would be increased from 52 to 96 percent this year and next under the Governor's twin proposals to increase the rates 1 percent in each bracket and at the same time to institute the withholding system of income tax collection, Charles P. Stone, General Counsel of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, announced today.

"Presently, a married individual with two children who earns $3,000 a year pays no state income tax," Mr. Stone said. "Under the Governor's proposals, he would pay $6 in 1959 and $10 in 1960. In the $5,000 bracket, the tax would jump from $61 today to $106 in 1959 and $105 in 1960. If the individual's income is $7,000 a year, the tax would jump from $150 today to $247 in 1959 and $235 in 1960."

Tables showing the combined effect of the Governor's proposals on individuals at the various income levels, and how the increased taxes are arrived at, are given in a current supplement to Fiscal Facts for Minnesotans, a compilation prepared biennially by the Taxpayers Association as a public service for taxpayers and legislators. A portion of the table which includes the above figures is reproduced below:

Include Form W-2 with Income Tax Return, Is Advice

"Taxpayers are inviting unnecessary grief by failing to attach Form W-2 to their federal income tax returns," George O. Lethert, district director of internal revenue for the St. Paul district, warned today.

"In the first place," he said, "no refunds can be paid until all necessary documents, such as W-2s, are filed. Next, no credit may be given for taxes withheld unless properly supported by W-2s and finally, a return without Form W-2 attached, when this form is called for, will have to be returned to the taxpayer and that will mean additional work for him too."

Mr. Lethert asked taxpayers to remember that if they worked for more than one concern during 1958, all the W-2s received during that year must be included with the 1958 income tax return.

"All of this is expensive to the taxpayer and the government," Lethert said.

February's Plentiful Foods

Record production on America's farms in 1958 resulted in an unusually long list of plentiful foods for February.

Potatoes and canned peas head the list of plentifuls because of the large production last year, and unusually big supplies on hand.

Pork, lamb and turkey all should be abundant in February, with supplies probably larger than in January, and larger than a year ago. Marketings from the 1958 fall pig crop began in early January and will show a definite increase in February. Consumers can look for good buys in pork.

There should be more eggs on the market than a year ago, because poultry raisers have more hens. Dairy cows customarily begin to increase their production of milk during late winter, and the milk supply in February is expected to move ahead of demand.

From Florida, California and other winter vegetable areas comes word that the celery crop probably will be the largest on record, and the acreage planted to cabbage is larger than last year.

Canned sardines, caught in the Pacific Ocean and packed in California, make their first appearance on the Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods. They have been relatively scarce for several years.

Dry beans, apples, honey, walnuts and peanuts are other foods that will be plentiful because of large production last year.

Kitchen Gadgets

Most homes have an overabundance of kitchen contrivances, designed for specific jobs but which only take up storage space. Evaluate each piece of equipment by answering the following questions which were formulated by workers at Purdue University.

* Is it easy to operate, requiring no extra skill?

* Does it save time, counting all the time necessary to get it out, clean it, and put it away?

* Can it be used for more than one job?

* Does it warrant the storage space it takes up?

After evaluating your equipment, sort it into two groups. Place the efficient pieces which you use frequently in a convenient location. Store the other group in an out-of-the-way place and keep track of the number of times in the next six months you use one of that group. You may decide to discard several pieces of equipment, and you'll at least store them in a less choice spot, making room for better tools.

Facts About Food

One standard size marshmallow is equal to 10 miniatures. One-half pound of the large marshmallows equals 4½ cups of miniatures.

Dairy sour cream makes a tasty low-calorie salad dressing. A tablespoon of sour cream contains 30 calories, compared with about 90 calories in a tablespoon of mayonnaise.

Cheese should be served at room temperature. Remove it from the refrigerator about half an hour before serving time.

See you next week!

I must apologize for the lateness and scarcity of news. I was hit in the face by a flu germ and went down for the count. I was miserably sick with cold, aches and pains. I understand quite a number of our neighbors succumbed just as suddenly to the same virus. It must be this weather—from one extreme to another. Sunday morning our thermometer stood at 40 degrees below zero. Monday after noon at two it was 26 above. Sixty-six degrees difference in less than thirty-six hours. It must have the same effect on the human body as a deep sea diver who surfaces too fast. We get the bends. By the time this winter is over, I'll be badly bent.

Federal Income Tax Changes Viewed from Farmers' Standpoint

Here are four important points on federal income tax to keep in mind and discuss with your tax advisor during the next week or so.

These phases of federal tax provisions for farmers are discussed by County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk and Hal Routhe, extension farm management specialist at the University of Minnesota.

They remind farmers that February 15 is the deadline for filing federal returns, unless you sent in an estimate of income before January 15. In that case, the final deadline becomes April 15.

The four points are:

1. Any patronage dividends you get from a cooperative must be included in your income for the year they were received. You measure them according to the amount of cash you got, plus the fair market value of any other property received. If the dividends are in document form, like stock certificates, you don't include them until they become subject to payment on your demand.

2. Deposits which you leave with local firms—like elevators, for example—to be used for future expenses may not be deducted until you have actually spent the money. Suppose you paid a feed company $1,000 in December, 1958, to be applied to 1959 orders. You can deduct only that part of this sum which was actually spent in the year for which you are filing.

3. You can enter as labor expense reasonable cash wages to one or more of your children for farm work actually done by them, as long as there is true employer-employee relationship. This may mean, of course, that the child will have to file an income tax return, too. But you can't deduct as part of these wages any part which you use for your own purposes, or which you are normally obligated to spend for the child's necessities anyway.

4. For new or used personal property bought after December 31, 1957, you may deduct an additional 20 percent of the cost as a depreciation allowance. This is for items with a useful life of six years or more, and is only for the first tax year on such property. You may also take the regular depreciation to which you are entitled for the year, computed after adjusting the basis of the property for the additional allowance. This must be for purchased property only—not for that acquired as a gift or through inheritance. And the rule applies only to what you pay in addition to any trade-in value involved.

These are only a few examples which are spelled out carefully in Farmer's Tax Guide for 1959. You can get a free copy at the county extension office.

4-H Work Trains for Leadership, Says State Chief

Leonard Harkness Cites Opportunities Given for Self-improvement

"4-H work continues to give excellent training for community leadership and for citizenship in the home, the community, the country and the world," Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, said today.

Scores of Pennington county 4-H boys and girls have developed poise, confidence and more pleasing, forceful personalities as a result of demonstration experience in their 4-H clubs through the years, he added.

Visitors who watch 4-H demonstrations at county or state fairs are impressed with the ability of even 10-year-olds to stand at ease before a group of people and talk intelligently, he said. These qualities will prove invaluable in any occupation, as well as in social life.

The opportunity to hold office, to serve as junior leaders, helping younger boys and girls with project work and with the 4-H program, creates a sense of responsibility, develops poise and self-confidence and the ability to work with others. Participation in community activities, another important phase of club work, impresses young people with the part they can play in the community, in national and international affairs, he added.

Minnesota offers 24 projects in which 4-H members can participate. They are grouped under the subjects of livestock, crops, home economics, and general projects. Included in the latter class are such projects as leadership, soil conservation and home yard improvement.

James Mason (center), Dorothy Dandridge and Broderick Crawford are the stars of "The Decks Ran Red," suspenseful story of a modern mutiny aboard a freighter, filmed almost entirely on the high seas. At the Falls Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Memoriam

In memory of Harry Hendrickson, Jr. who passed away five years ago Feb. 7th.

How dear, how near his memory,
How close, how sweet it stays
To watch above his loved ones
And see them through the days.
How perfect, too, each thought of him
How comforting to know
His own dear love is with us still,
To bless us as we go.

Sadly missed by his parents, sisters and brother. 1t1c

Prowler Quint Downs RLF in Tight Battle

Not until the final minutes of the game, when Phil Hanson dropped in a pair of field goals and six successive free throws, and with Mickey Hanson closing out the scoring with a field goal, were the Prowlers able to move ahead of coach Rusty Miller's scrappy Red Lake Falls Eagles in a district conference basketball game played here Tuesday night and win by a 62 to 51 score.

On Friday night coach Alan Adams squad will make the 40-mile trip to Crookston for an important game with the Crookston Central Pirates. The game will be Northwest conference and district conference tilt.

After a low-scoring first period here Tuesday night, with the Prowlers leading by an 8 to 6 score after eight minutes of play had elapsed, the tempo of play increased. The Eagles, showing a double-barreled attack in burly Jason Huseby and agile Jim Zimple, took over the lead in the second period, having a 14 to 10 advantage midway in the quarter. With about a minute of play in the period, and the Eagles leading by an 18 to 17 score, Mickey Hanson hit on a jump shot, Bob Pearson followed with a lefthanded hook shot, and Phil Hanson dunked in a free throw to give the locals a 22 to 18 lead at the intermission.

Opening the second half of play, Phil Hanson rolled a layup into the east basket, Pearson, on a pass from Phil Hanson, scored from close in, and Mickey Hanson swished in a shot from the free throw circle.

The Prowlers maintained a five or six-point lead throughout the period, and held a 30 to 33 lead at the end of the third period of play.

In the final quarter, the Eagles opened with a four-point flurry as Zimple, on a layup shot and a rebounder, notched a pair of field goals, slicing the Prowler lead to two points, 39 to 37. Pearson's long shot, and Mickey Hanson's free throw boosted the locals lead and after Huseby had tapped in a rebound, Nicholson flipped in a field goal and Phil Hanson, on a hard drive, eased the ball into the hoop, giving the Prowlers a 46 to 39 lead.

With 2:17 to play, the Prowlers led by a 50 to 45 score, but then the Phil Hanson-Mickey Hanson combination racked up twelve points to "insure" the game.

Phil Hanson tallied 24 points during the game, and twelve of these points were garnered in the final period. The Prowlers had three other players in double figures, with Mickey Hanson having 16 points, and Bob Pearson and Lynn Nicholson each with 10 points. The Eagles scoring was monopolized by center Jim Zimple, who scored 22 points, and forward Jason Huseby, who hit for 21 points.

High School Hockey Finale

High school hockey fans will get their last look at the Prowler hockey squad, the varsity and the 'B' teams, on the Arena ice this week. On Friday night, Feb. 6, coach Dave Roger's Prowler 'B' team will play the Crookston Central varsity, with face-off time at 7:30 p.m. And on Saturday night, coach Johnny Matcheft's varsity Prowlers will meet coach Al Godfrey's Baudette Bears in a game that could have an important bearing on the regional tournament pairings. The face-off will be at 8:00 p.m.

The Prowler 'B' team marked up a pair of wins and a loss in the three games played during the week. Last Thursday night, in a game against the Red Lake Falls Eagles, the 'B' team, with the line of Larry Poole — Jack Houfek — Tim Teal scoring heavily, defeated the Eagles, 9 to 3.

On Saturday night, in a return game played here, the powerful 'B' team scored a 5 to 0 shutout over the locals. And on Monday night, in one of the better games played on the Arena ice, the local squad, with Kern Olson, Houfek, and Tim Teal scoring, defeated coach Rudy Slupski's young East Grand Forks squad, 3 to 1.

Why not make a trip to the Arena on Friday or Saturday? The boys, the 'B' team members, and the varsity, too, will be glad to have you in attendance.

They Laughed, But Not For Long

They laughed when Leland (Noisy) Knight, the Buddy Bomar of Harlow's Pasture, picked up a bowling ball and joined the money game against such high-average bowlers as Gene Leslie, Wally and Jesse DuChamp, John (Snort) Langseth, Reid Stromberg, Al Brunelle, Lefty LeGault, Marv Wahanesky, Emil Dostal and Ed Broughton on Sunday afternoon. The boys all put up some folding money, with the high score bowler to take the stake. And of course, you know who won. Mr. Leland Knight. Noisy had to get a double in the 10th frame to edge out Gene Leslie, but he did it.

At a dollar-a-chuckle, that was a pretty expensive laugh for the boys.

And now we have received a communication that states that the "Buddy Bomar of Harlow's Pasture, Mr. Knight, is issuing a challenge to the winner of the Chevvy elimination tournament now in progress at the Family Bowl lanes, and will wager his 'farm' and family against a city home with a mortgage on an automatic washer, a grocery store in Plummer, or any other property without encumbrances that the finalist may have."

It Won't Happen

On Monday we expressed the hope that Phil LeGault and Wally DuChamp would meet in a singles bowling match, but that happy event is doubtful. We have had a closer look at the pairings of the tournament, and in order for the LeGault vs. DuChamp match to come about, Phil will have to defeat Marv Washnesky on Sunday afternoon, then he will have to eliminate Pat Poole on Sunday, Feb. 15, and defeat Leif Erickson on Sunday, Feb. 22, and Snort Langseth on Sunday, March 1. That he will be able to accomplish all this is extremely doubtful.

Wally DuChamp is slated to bowl on March 8, and Gene Leslie, according to the draw, will be one of the finalists bowling on Sunday, March 15.

Hamm Team whips All-star Bowlers

The Hamm's team of the Tuesday night Business league bowled a fine 2798 three-game total as they defeated Al Brunelle's All-Stars in a challenge match on the Family Bowl lanes Sunday afternoon. The Hamm's chalked up a 989-pin total in their second game to take a commanding lead over the All-Stars. The All-Stars had a three-game total of 2690.

The 1958-59 region eight hockey schedule will be concluded this week, and the third, fourth, and fifth place ratings in the conference standings remain in doubt. The defending regional and state champion Roseau Rams have clinched first place in the conference standings, and the Thief River Falls Prowlers are certain of runner-up honors.

The Warroad Warriors, making a strong bid to move up into third place in the standings, will be playing three conference games this week, and all of the contests will be "road" games. On Thursday, the Warriors play the Williams Wolves at Williams; on Friday coach Al Maki's club will play at Roseau against the Rams; and on Saturday night the Warriors will meet the Hallock Bears.

The Baudette Bears, currently in third place, will play the Prowlers at Thief River Falls on Saturday night.

The sub-regional tournament, with all eight teams participating, will be played at Warroad on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 10. First round games on Monday night will find the Roseau Rams meeting the number eight team, and team number four meeting team number five. On Tuesday night, the Prowlers will play team number seven, and team number three will meet team number six. The four winners will enter the regional tournament at Roseau on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 12 and 13.

Newfolden Quint's Win Streak Ended by Roseau 52 to 45

Nordic's Record Stands at 12 Victories and One Defeat for the Season

Roseau high school rammed the Newfolden Nordics from the list of unbeaten teams by downing them, 52 to 45, in a game played at Roseau on Friday, Jan. 30. The Nordic's Dennis Bakke garnered high point honors for the evening with 25 points while Ulvin was high point man for the Rams with 20 points. Other Rams in double figures were Spjut with 12 points while Holland and Flagstad garnered 10 points apiece.

Newfolden led only once during the game when they made the initial basket after over three minutes of play. Roseau matched this basket quickly and moved to a 12-10 first quarter lead. They increased this lead five points at halftime as they left the floor with a 26-21 score. The tempo of the game increased during the third quarter and Roseau had a 38 to 27 third period lead as the Nordics switched to a man to man defense. The Nordics attempted to press in the last quarter to snatch a victory but they couldn't close the gap enough and the game ended 52 to 45.

Newfolden's record now stands 12-1 for the season and 3-1 in East Sub-district conference play. Roseau and Warroad, have both lost three conference games during the season, so Newfolden still stands in good position to win first place in the conference race with only three conference games to play against Badger, Middle River and Warroad.

The Karlstad Rabbits will meet the Nordics on the Newfolden court on Saturday night, Feb. 7.

Prowler Six Defeats Warroad Tuesday 4-3

Coach John Matchefts' hockey Prowlers nailed down second place in the regional conference hockey standings when they defeated the Warroad Warriors, 4 to 3, in a game played at Warroad on Tuesday night.

With but one game remaining on the schedule, that to be played here on Saturday night against the Baudette Bears, the Prowlers have a conference mark of seven wins and two losses for a point total of fourteen.

In Tuesday night's tilt at Warroad, the Prowlers moved into a 2 to 0 lead on goals by Jerry Jorgenson and Dale Wennberg. Jorgenson scored at the 8:15 mark when he beat goalie Karl Loveld on a hard shot from five feet out; and Wennberg, at the 11:40 mark, tallied when his centering out pass from behind the Warroad net was deflected into the goal off a Warroad defenseman's skate. Warroad entered the scoring column at the 14:35 mark when Don Cornelliusen's slap, from a melee in front of the net, sent the disc into the cage.

Wennberg's neat goal early in the second period, with the shifty Prowler center-ice player "splitting" the Warrior defense to come in for a goal-mouth shot, gave the locals a 3 to 1 lead at the 2:45 mark. Don Cornelliusen's tally pared the Prowler lead to 3 to 2; but Eddie Holmes, banging in his own rebound, moved the locals into a 4 to 2 lead with a minute of the period remaining.

The Larry Hokanson and Dick Blom combination added the game's final goal, scoring for the Warroad club at the 13:30 mark of the third period.

$1,346,827 Was Spent on State Emergency Conservation Work

A total of $1,346,827 has been expended for salaries, equipment rentals and miscellaneous materials and supplies for the emergency conservation work projects program for the six months period since it started last July.

About 81% of the total was paid to employees, $1,087,905; 10%, or $142,513 paid for equipment rentals, and about 9%, $116,409 paid for materials and supplies. A special session of the Minnesota legislature last spring appropriated $1,500,000 for the program.

The largest payroll was for a two-week period in September when $144,685 was paid to 1,476 employees. The smallest was the first in July, when $19,918 was paid to 420 employees. The last labor payroll, in January, was for $21,172 paid to 267 employees.

Some equipment rental agreements included operator salaries. Automotive equipment was needed in the construction of roads, ditches, and building construction.

Materials and supplies included expenditures for building materials, furnishings and fixtures, office supplies, fuel, gas and oil, communications, travel and repairs or maintenance.

The projects were set up and supervised by the divisions of the department of conservation as a part of the continuing program of managing and perpetuating the forest, wildlife, water and mineral resources of the state.

Forestry projects included reduction of fire hazards by cleaning up brush and debris along roads and trails; construction of necessary buildings, trail repair and graveling, and forest tree nursery work.

State park projects were campgrounds expansion and maintenance, structures, swimming beach cleanup, emergency cleanup after storm, roads and trails, and boundary line cleanup.

Game and fish projects are game refuge boundaries, firebreaks, building construction and repair work.

A final summary is to be made in February when the work which can be completed is finished. Other projects will be carried to completion under the regular work program of the divisions and department.

'58 Deer Harvest Being Estimated

Game Division Sends out 4,500 Questionnaires

The big job of contacting by mail approximately 4,500 deer hunters in an effort to reliably estimate the 1958 deer harvest is well underway, reports Lytle Blankenship, big game specialist.

Hunters throughout the state are being contacted by questionnaire and asked about their success during the recent deer season. Blankenship indicates he hopes to have the final deer kill figures by the end of February.

Meanwhile, amid the vocal pros and cons being offered up over an "early" versus a "late" deer season, comes a report from Milton Stenlund, northeastern regional game manager, that "Minnesota provides some of the best deer hunting in the nation."

"Among the states having major white-tailed deer population, Minnesota provides the best deer hunting in the nation, says Stenlund. "A herd estimated at 400,000 is spread over 30,000 square miles of range varying from the woodlots and cornfields of the southern counties to the brush and timber of the Superior National Forest wilderness. Over a period of years about 176,000 licensed hunters have taken 65,000 deer annually for a consistent 35-40 percent success-highest reported in the nation for white-tailed deer. Other states report deer populations as large or larger than Minnesota, but because of heavier hunting pressure and especially antiquated "buck laws" maintained against the recommendations of these state conservation departments, hunting success reaches only 10-20 percent.

Truck Drivers for Red Owl Honored for Safe Driving

Two hundred forty-four years of safe driving were represented by 26 truck drivers at the Red Owl 1958-59 annual safe drivers dinner held Jan. 23 at the Graver Hotel in Fargo.

The 26 Red Owl truck drivers, dispatched from the firm's Fargo warehouse, travel North and South Dakota, northwestern Minnesota and Montana for a total of over a million miles per year.

Polaroid Land cameras were presented as the 15 year safe driving awards and a wrist watch was the 10 year award.

Asks Observance of School Patrol Week

The more than 20,000 young school and bus safety patrol boys and girls, and their sponsors, in Minnesota will be given recognition for their vital service during the annual observance of "School Safety Patrol Week," set today by Governor Orville L. Freeman for the week of February 15 through 21.

The governor requested that local organizations and groups, especially those who sponsor safety patrols within their communities, arrange special programs and activities to "pay tribute to the boys and girls who so faithfully give of their time to serve the school safety patrol program."

"The school safety patrol program is one of our most important pedestrian programs," Governor Freeman said: "With it we teach our children from the first day they attend school the proper ways to cross dangerous intersections and to obey traffic regulations on their way to and from school and at play.

That these youngsters are doing a most efficient job is evidenced by their record of never having had a fatal accident charged against them in 38 years. That is why each year it is with great appreciation we designate this time as School Safety Patrol week. It includes the 17th of February, generally credited as the day in 1920 when the first school "police" were placed on St. Paul streets."

Various community civic and service organizations were also commended for their aid and sponsorship of local patrols. These organizations provide identification belts and badges, rain coats and official flags to the schools for the students' use.

"In designating one week during the school year as a time when we recognize the importance of the school safety patrols, we are also conscious of the fine work they do all year long. Many of these youngsters can be found on Sundays at their churches protecting youngsters on their way to Sunday School. We must back up their efforts with our own safety precautions and in this way let our children lead us to a safe life."

There are now 7,580 Boy Scouts and leaders in 67 nations around the world.

Agassiz Scouts Get New Executive

P. Stark, Northwood, N.D. to Assume Post in Spring

It was announced by A. B. Kegel, Larimore, N. D., president of the Lake Agassiz Council, Boy Scouts of America, that Paul Stark of Northwood will be employed as district executive on February 15.

Stark will attend the 212th national training school for Scout executives at Schiff Scout Reservation in Mendham, New Jersey, on February 17 to complete 45 days of training for professional scouting.

Mr. Stark was born in Grafton, North Dakota, and attended Roosevelt, South junior high school and Central high school in Grand Forks. He also attended the University of North Dakota.

He has 16 years of Scouting tenure starting as a Cub Scout, Boy Scouting and Exploring. While in Grand Forks he was Assistant Explorer Advisor of the post sponsored by the United Lutheran church. As a resident of Hatton, N. D., he was the scoutmaster of a troop there.

While in the armed services he was attached to the Medical Corps as a surgical technician at Brooks Army Medical Center in Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

He was also a medical aid man and served in dispensary duty.

The Scouts' Safety Good Turn in 1958 included traffic, outdoor and home safety.

Urge Motorists to Consider Weather

Adjust Speed to Driving Conditions, Sieben Asks

"Adjust your car's speed to existing road and weather conditions," Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, pointed out today. "We will have below-freezing weather during February so be sure that defrosters and windshield wipers are operating properly."

Many February accidents can be attributed to driver carelessness, Sieben added. Snow, ice and frost accumulate on windshields and windows which the lazy driver fails to remove. "How can anyone see well enough to avoid danger when he is blinded because the glass is covered?" he asked.

Other safety tips for February driving included: Test your brakes at low speed to get the feel of the road surface as a reminder that icy pavements are more dangerous at the freezing-thawing temperatures; look for icy spots in shaded areas or on bridges; don't follow too closely.

"Be prepared for any eventuality," Sieben concluded. "Keep the driver, you, and your car in the best operating condition."

"There is no short-cut, no patent tram-road to wisdom. After all the centuries of invention, the soul's path lies through the thorny wilderness, which must still be trodden in solitude, with bleeding feet, with sobs for help, as it was trodden by them of old time."

We Are Skeptical

President Eisenhower has named a cabinet committee of seven, headed by Vice President Nixon, to chart plans for maintaining stable price levels. The seven-man group will study and recommend government and private policies influencing costs, prices and prosperity.

All of which is interesting, and to the committee our best wishes for a successful study and a few informative recommendations. We are frankly skeptical, however, and hope they will not spend many of the taxpayers' dollars in assembling information that is already available for all who wish to get the facts.

This committee is going to tell us, we presume, just what we must do to curb inflation. But telling us what we should do to keep the dollar from losing value is about like telling a drunk what to do in order to sober up. We all know that he should quit drinking. But the drunk doesn't like to quit drinking. And the American people have developed a liking for inflation.

Big Business likes fast-moving dollars and profits. Big Labor likes continuing rounds of pay increases and fringe benefits. The Hubert Humphreys are jovial bartenders who are glad to keep the glasses of poison filled. Among the leaders of business and labor the standards of morality in this field are just as low as among the politicians.

This committee could perform a useful service by reminding us again and again of the inevitable consequences of continued nipping. Maybe the story of the German inflation following the first world war should be told more often to the younger Americans who do not have personal recollections of the printing press money that brought great wealth to a few smart Germans but impoverished the masses and opened the door to the leadership of a mad-man Hitler.

The Germans of West Germany today remember what happened and they do not want it to happen again. Other European countries have learned the hard way the great fraud that is perpetrated by inflation. Here in the Western Hemisphere we have many examples of the evils of this form of social corruption.

The President's committee may serve a useful purpose and accomplish some good. We wish them well. But we are skeptical.

Not All Bad Either

According to the state farm census more than 3,600 Minnesota farmers, milking ten cows or less, quit their dairying operations in 1958. Since 1955 the number of these small dairy herds has dropped more than 16,000 or nearly one-third.

But while there has been a big decrease in the number of small herds, there has been a marked increase in the number of large herds. Since 1955 the number of herds of from 20 to 29 cows has increased from 10,600 to 13,279. And during that period the number of dairy herds of more than 30 cows has jumped from 2,123 to 3,654, an increase of nearly 70 per cent.

These are the facts. From these facts there might be many conflicting conclusions.

One conclusion that cannot be disputed is the fact that there is a trend toward fewer but larger dairy herds. The small herd is on the way out, and the larger herd is becoming more typical of the industry at the production level in Minnesota.

Whether we like it or not, this trend is likely to continue. And this trend at the production level is going to bring about changes at the manufacturing and marketing levels.

Hereabouts the dairy farm has been our most dependable source of income. There is reason to believe that our dairy operations in this area are following the state-wide trend. Our dairy herds are rapidly becoming fewer but larger. Our fewer farms will probably be more profitable.

The prospect is not all good, but it is not all bad either.

Our Real Enemies

The annual argument over the size of the appropriation for military spending is now under way and, as the Wall Street Journal points out, ". . . everything appears to be all right, except that the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marines think we'd be better off if the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marines each had a little more."

Our guess is that the appropriation recommended by General Ike and his military advisers is adequate. We favor the idea that keeping our government solvent is going to be our most effective defense and should be our top priority objective for the immediate and long range future.

The thing that would give our enemies most comfort, as we see it, would be continuing inflation in our country and a further decline in the buying power of the American dollar.

Our most dangerous enemies are not the dictators in the Kremlin or the scientists who are blazing new trails into space for the Communists. The fellows we have to watch are the members of that lunatic fringe who think we can spend ourselves into both security and prosperity. That may be true, of course, but if it is then all of the things we have been taught, starting with two-times-two is four, are wrong.

Canadians Want To Know

Civil Defense has been a headache in Canada too. Some time ago a high-ranking military man was assigned to the task of surveying the program. Now the Dominion government has refused to make public the contents of the report which sums up the observations of a four-month study of the coast-to-coast situation.

In commenting on this, the Toronto Globe and Mail raised some questions that might properly be asked about our own Civil Defense program south of the border. Says the Globe and Mail:

"Canadians have a right to know what this report contains. They have a right to know if (as seems unlikely) they have any civil defence protection to speak of. They have also a right to know what happened to the millions of dollars spent on civil defence. The provinces have spent large sums. What is there to show for it?

"By keeping back the report, the government inevitably raises suspicions that it wants to avoid exposing a scandalous situation and facing the public on it—even though it inherited most of the present civil defence mess from the Liberals. But if it insists on secrecy, let the government spokesman at least make a statement to the House of Commons on the civil defence situation—a statement based on all the information available to him, including that supplied by the investigator. And, at the same time, let him announce what the government plans to do about it."

An impartial "study" of the Civil Defense program in our country is long overdue.

Castro Must Earn Respect

(Portland Oregonian)

Fidel Castro appeared surprised, hurt and defiant because there was widespread public and press criticism in the United States of the wave of executions of Batista "war criminals." Hereafter, however, he says there will be public trials under new regulations of the revolutionary government. Mass executions, secretly arranged, will be discontinued.

Castro may not understand that the American people have long been opposed to the Batista dictatorship and its practices of terrorism and are sympathetic to the rebels. Public hope is that the new provisional government will restore civil rights in Cuba, among which the foremost is fair trial of the accused. The Cuban revolutionists desire and need the confidence and assistance of Americans if they are to install a democratic government and not another dictatorship. But respect must be earned by performance.

In simple terms, Americans want to believe that the Castro rebels are true patriots and responsible citizens. Mass executions without proper trials have weakened this attitude. Castro may be wise enough to restrain the vengeance of his freedom fighters.

A Bright Side to Sputniks

(London Spectator)

Every Soviet achievement, from winning rowing triumphs on the Thames to putting a ring around the moon, makes the Soviet people and government easier to deal with; for each removes a little of their feeling of inferiority against the West that has deformed Russian attitudes and bedeviled Russian behavior since the days of Peter the Great. The less inferior the Russians feel the less touchy they are to deal with. So to some extent it is cheering to see them negotiating now from strength, flushed with scientific success.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

"Yes, Your Honor, for the first time since you've been a judge. You lawyered me last time, you know."

"I remember," conceded the judge. "Who's going to lawyer you now?"

"Can't see as I need one," beamed the oldster. "Let's just stick to my same defense."

YOUR SENATOR REPORTS

from the Desk of
HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Food for Peace—In every other country in the world, a flowing abundance of food and fiber would be considered the great treasure that it truly is. And, in our hearts, we know it to be equally true here in our own country. Yet in order to reach our goal of the maximum good to be derived from the use of this wealth, we urgently need to state clearly some guidelines of public policy. For that purpose I have introduced a "Food for Peace" resolution in the Senate, with a companion resolution introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman Geo. McGovern. The resolution embodies such guidelines, and makes clear the intent of Congress to resolve the paradox of American agricultural surpluses existing in a hungry world. Many of us feel it should be basic to any farm legislation passed by the present Congress.

Here's Text—The text of the resolution itself sets forth our objectives: Whereas the abundance of food and fiber produced by the American farmer is the marvel of the world; and

Whereas most of the people of the world are undernourished; and

Whereas the American people historically have been concerned with the well-being of other peoples; and

Whereas in many nations of the free world vital economic development programs are retarded and political stability is threatened by an inadequate supply of food; and

Whereas the remarkable bounty of the free American farmer has resulted in accumulations of farm commodities for which there is insufficient domestic demand; and

Whereas the Congress seeks to reduce unnecessary expenditures, including, where possible, those for commodity storage and for foreign assistance; and

Whereas the Soviet bloc has publicly challenged the United States and her allies to economic competition in demonstrating before the world the viability of their respective economic systems: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate (The House of Representatives concurring) that it is the sense of the Congress that an agricultural abundance is one of America's greatest assets for raising living standards and promoting peace and stability in the free world; and that Congress favors action to resolve the paradox of American agriculture surpluses and world food needs by more fully utilizing the resources of the American farmer as an integral part of the United States' foreign assistance program.

Sec. 2. This concurrent resolution may be cited as the "Food for Peace Resolution."

Time for Action—I'm convinced it is vital for our country to recognize such purpose in our international food programs, rather than just appear we are trying to get rid of something we don't want. It is our hope that by following these guidelines, we will develop legislation in this session that will implement this intent of Congress.

Your Office in Washington

by Congressman
ODIN LANGEN

Activity on Capital Hill has picked up considerably since I last wrote you. The House of Representatives is meeting regularly, bills have been and are being introduced, and committees are receiving these bills and starting their consideration of them. The great law-making process has begun.

The Budget

The budget proposals of President Eisenhower are common topics of conversation in Washington these days. We hear many opinions that merit consideration, both pro and con, but through them all one heartening thought remains—the concern shown in Chief Executive's message over the possibility of balancing the budget, combating inflation, and eventually reducing taxes. Along these same lines, I had the opportunity to attend a meeting with members of the Treasury Department. At that time, they presented an interesting and thought-provoking analysis of the proposed balanced budget, the national debt, and an explanation of how our national debt affects each and every one of us as individual citizens.

Agriculture

I had the opportunity also to attend the first meeting of the Agriculture Committee, at which time new members were briefed on the many problems facing our nation's farmers. I have also met on two occasions so far with members of the Department of Agriculture relatives to the concerns particular to the Ninth District. We discussed, among other things, the wheat and sugar beet situations. These two items, along with many others, also came in for much discussion during a meeting of Midwestern Congressmen on agricultural problems common to the Midwest area.

Hawaiian Statehood

The Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, of which I am a member, has been holding hearings on various bills proposing statehood for Hawaii. We have heard arguments both for and against, but judging by the bulk of what has been said so far, our new American flag of forty-nine stars may have a short life.

Staff

Your office staff has been brought to full strength by the addition of Grace Hamberg of Stephen. Grace joined us Monday, and will be serving as general office secretary.

SO CRISP AND CRACKLY

Only the ideal combination of soil, sun and temperature found in the famed Yakima-Wenatchee Valley of Washington State can produce apples like this. And only SNOBOYS are picked for flavor from the finest trees of the finest orchards there.

SO "SUN-DRENCHED"

SNOBOY apples are picked only from the top and outside of the trees. No under-colored, under-flavored "runts"—ever!

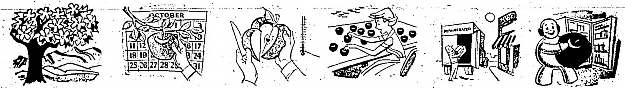
SO SWEET

Some apples are still not "matured" when they reach the store—but not SNOBOYS! It takes SNOBOY'S "flavor maturing" at a precise 31 degrees for an apple to reach its sweetest, most delicious best!

GUARANTEED Only SNOBOY apples are guaranteed to meet highest standards—or your money back!

In bags and boxes at your grocery store.

Why there is no apple like a SNOBOY®



Soil, sun and temperature work in unique combination in the famed Yakima-Wenatchee Valley of Washington State to produce SNOBOY'S vivid coloring, extra juiciness, and superb flavor! There SNOBOYS are selected from the finest orchards.

Every apple has its day—the day when its flavor peak is reached. On that exact day, SNOBOY field inspectors order the apples picked—and they specify the sun-drenched apples from the top and outside of the finest trees!

Within the hour after picking, SNOBOY apples are rushed to cool storage rooms. There, at a constant 31 degrees, the flavor "matures" . . . starches change to natural fruit sugars . . . and SNOBOY inspectors say "Ship!"

Once they're fully matured and ready to ship, SNOBOY apples are showered, sorted, wrapped and packed by hand to protect against bruising during shipment . . . to guard SNOBOY'S brilliant flavor!

SNOBOY'S tree-to-grocer control continues as the apples are rushed in cool, cool trucks to your grocer's. There you get famous SNOBOY quality . . . true picked for flavor quality!

To enjoy all the eating pleasure SNOBOY has worked so hard to protect, do your share: Always keep your SNOBOYS in the refrigerator until you eat them. They'll be full-flavored and crisp!

Cash Farm Receipts Hit New Peak in 1958

Cash receipts from farm marketings in Minnesota set a new record in 1958, according to Elmer W. Learn, University of Minnesota agricultural economist.

The increase in cash receipts was 5 per cent over 1957.

Reason for the jump was that livestock had a "banner year," going up 8 per cent over 1957, which itself was a relatively good year for livestock products. Crop receipts actually went down a little last year, somewhat offsetting the livestock increase.

Learn computed these preliminary estimates on the basis of information from the State-Federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. 1958 cash receipts in Minnesota totaled $1.39 billion, compared with $1.33 billion in 1957 and $1.26 billion the year before that.

While corn and soybean production in 1958 was under 1957, total crop production for the year was second only to 1956. As a result, cash receipts from crops made a 2 per cent decline.

Learn reports that cash receipts from all major livestock and livestock products except dairy were above 1957 levels. Cattle and calves scored a record at $323 million—16 per cent above the previous year. Hog receipts were up 15 per cent—$254 million, compared to $220 million in 1957.

Dairy price suports were reduced last April, a factor primarily responsible for a 5 per cent decline in average milk prices during the year. The actual drop in total cash receipts from dairy products was 2 per cent.

Although Minnesota egg producers marketed 4 per cent fewer eggs in 1958, they took in 5 per cent more cash receipts. Higher prices during the first six months of the year offset sharp declines of the last four months. Farm chickens and broilers also accounted for higher receipts in 1958.

"Realized net income"—net income without adjusting for inventory changes—also increased for the second straight year, Learn says. While this increase is probably less than the $69 million in total cash receipts, realized net income very likely was above $500 million for the first time since 1953.

Soil Compaction Cuts Crop Yields as Well as Quality

Soil Scientists from 'U' Conduct Experiments at Rosemount and E. G. Forks

Excess soil compaction — like you get from too much disking—can lower both yields and quality of farm crops.

University of Minnesota soil scientists make that conclusion after tests last summer at the Rosemount Experiment station and at East Grand Forks.

According to soil physicists George R. Blake and Earl P. Adams, experimentally compacting both the surface and the subsoil reduced corn yields by 13 bushels per acre. Surface compaction alone accounted for a 5-bushel reduction.

In sugar beets, surface compacting cut yields by 5½ tons per acre, and with potatoes, yields were less than a third as high where the soil was experimentally compacted.

The scientists actually did the compacting in these tests with special equipment. One was a heavy tractor which they ran over the furrow-bottom at planting time for subsoil compaction, and the other was a loaded truck used to compact the surface.

There were other unfavorable effects from soil compaction, too. Compacted soil was less porous and less "permeable," meaning it had reduced ability to take in water and air. It was harder to penetrate, which is important for crops like beets or potatoes, in which the most important part of the plant grows under the soil surface.

As a result, potato tubers averaged 0.56 inches smaller in diameter on compacted soil. Compaction caused more mis-shaped potatoes and lowered their specific gravity; one measure of potato quality. Also, compacting tended to make more clods of soil, which interfered with potato harvesting by mechanical equipment.

These harmful effects of compaction make a good argument for "minimum tillage," Blake and Adams say. One form of this concept is wheel-track corn planting, in which the farmer plants corn in tractor tracks on plowed but undisked soil. The minimum tillage idea — which simply means working the soil less — also needs to be used on other crops, too, they say.

At Winter Shows

GLENN A. GREEN

Who will be the headline speaker on the Wednesday evening, February 25, program at the forthcoming Red River Valley Winter Shows Crookston. The program will be held at 8:15 P.M. in the Central high school auditorium of Crookston. His subject will be "East and West Germany—Some Firsthand Observations for Americans."

Mr. Green, a veteran newspaper man, former writer and editor with the United Press International recently returned to the United States from a three-months trip to Europe.

While there, he visited West Berlin and the Soviet Zone of Berlin. In the Soviet Zone, he got movie shots without the knowledge of the Communists. His movies of life in West Berlin, under the freedom-giving government, and life behind the Iron Curtain under Communism present a dramatic contrast.

Public Opinion

Editor, the Times:

To the citizens living in the Second ward storm sewer district No. 3. I would like to add my voice in opposition to being assessed in this storm sewer project.

As a taxpayer living north of 6th st., I cannot see where we can get any benefit from this project at all.

There is an old saying that I think fits this case, that is, "If you want to dance you should pay the fiddler."

It will cost about $350 per lot. Few have that much money laying around, so it will be about $400 when we get it paid for. This is a lot of money to pay when you get no returns.

It may cause you to forget about that trip or that piece of new furniture you were saving money to get, it may disrupt your entire budget.

We urge you to discuss this project in your homes, with your neighbor, the man on the street and your alderman so that he may know the sentiment of the taxpayers of his ward.

We urge you to come to the Council Chambers in the Auditorium on Feb. 9 at 8 p.m. and state your views on the project.

Beware of the salesman that gives money away. He has a way of getting it out of your pocket if you fall for it.

Yours respectfully,
N. E. Muzzy
